The Peninsula is preparing to receive the opening of the new St. Johns electric line with a large celebration. Francis I. McKenna is in charge of the committee of arrangements, and is busily engaged in planning details.

The proposed celebration will take the place of an excursion. Special cars will leave the Piedmont Junction and make the run through to St. Johns without a stop. Here an examination of the industries of the suburb will be made, when the party will return to the cars.

The trip back into the city will then be begun. At Portsmouth the party will be taken into the Artisans' Temple and an elaborate banquet spread.
