Wood choppers can secure work by answering the advertisement of John Schonoker, under "Help Wanted—Male." "Good wages and good ground, $4.00 per cord" are words you'll find in the ad.

"All the comforts of home" is a phrase in the advertisement of 181 Seventeenth street inserted under "Furnished Rooms for Rent." Sounds good, doesn't it?

G 22, Journal, wants position as collector, clerk or salesman, and makes the fact known under "Situation Wanted—Male." "Willing to start low if chance for advancement."

The "Furnished Room" column contains the advertisement of 230 Tenth street, who advertises a furnished room suitable for two persons; ladies or gentlemen.

Williams & Roush, 249½ Alder street, say under "Help Wanted—Male," they are "headquarters for all classes of work."

142 Russell street uses the "Help Wanted—Female" column to secure a woman to do dressmaking and sewing at private house.

Crockers, Inc., in the Abington building, will sell your property and solicit your patronage with an ad under "Wanted—Real Estate."

W. G. Ellis is advertising under "Wanted—Miscellaneous" for a good work horse. If you've a "nag" you want to sell read the ad for requirements.

"One fresh cow for sale." That's what E. Lucke, Sylvan, Or., says under "For Sale—Miscellaneous."

There's no surer way of disposing of any article than using the want columns. An ad in the "For Sale" or the "To Exchange" columns will bring you all kinds of results. YOU JUST TRY IT.
