ONION CROP DAMAGED BY CUT WORMS

CUT WORMS RUIN THE ONION CROP

ENTIRE DISTRICT ON WEST SIDE OF WILLAMETTE IS AFFECTED—NOT HALF A CROP IS EXPECTED—CITY CREAMERY BUTTER UP—CANTALOUPES ARE IN.

Front Street, June 2.—The principal features of the Portland wholesale markets today are:
Onion crop will be small.
City creamery butter higher.
Rains affect strawberry receipts.
Eggs continue weaker.
Spring chickens are in demand.
Old hens still on weak list.
Shortage in fruit sugar.
First cantaloupes are in market.
Potatoes are still weaker.
Veal coming too fast again.
First Royal Ann cherries in.
Salmon is scarcer than ever.
Columbia shad are higher.
Plenty of halibut in market.

Onion Crop Will Be Small.

According to David Reghetto, an extensive onion-grower of Beaverton, the onion crop of that section during the coming season is very likely to fall under the one-half mark of normal years. For some time the onion-growers of Beaverton, Sand Pit, Sherwood, Tualatin and other sections have been troubled with cut worms, but this season the damage by these pests has broken all records. In some parts of the onion section, on the west side of the river, the onion men have been compelled to replant their crops two or three times. The season has now been advanced so far that no more planting can be made.

Oregon Potatoes Will Soon Arrive.

The first shipments of new potatoes from this state are expected to arrive by June 15, providing the weather conditions do not show too much rain. There will be a great demand for Oregon potatoes this fall from the Northwest territory and Alaska providing, of course, that the stocks mature in time for shipment before the lakes and rivers freeze up again.

Old Potatoes Duller Than Ever.

The market for old potatoes is duller than ever and none of the dealers have the nerve to purchase at this time. Late reports from San Francisco state that the market there is in worse shape and that lower prices are ruling. The dealers here are making every effort to keep the market in the bay city in good shape and are still making small shipments in order to let that section clean up its accumulated holdings.

City Creamery Butter Higher.

Today the various city creameries made an advance of 2½c per pound in their quotations, the new price being 22½c per pound. The entire butter market is showing a decidedly better tone, but no material advances are expected in the prices of the product of the country creameries. Store butter is coming in fair supply, but the market could stand heavier receipts at present quotations. In consequence of the higher prices on city creamery butter the quotations on butter fat are likewise up 2½c per pound.

Rains Affect Strawberry Receipts.

There were no arrivals of strawberries from California today and the rains of yesterday made the receipts of local fruit smaller. The rains came at a time where it would be a big benefit to the strawberry crop providing they do not stay with us too long. There was not near enough berries in the market today to supply the trade.

Eggs Continue Weaker.

The egg market continues the weaker feeling of yesterday, but no changes were made in quotations. The receipts today were slightly larger and stocks held on more than usual.

Spring Chickens in Demand.

There were quite liberal receipts of broilers and fryers in the poultry market, but the demand is such that all stocks are sold as soon as they arrive. Old hens came in rather fast with the market still reflecting a weak tone.

Shortage in Fruit Sugar.

Wholesale grocers of this city have again been notified by the sugar refiners of a large shortage in the supplies of fruit sugar. The entire market continues firm with no changes in the prices.

First Cantaloupes Are in Market.

The first cantaloupes to arrive in the Portland markets this season came in this morning and were quoted at $6.50 per crate of 16 melons. The fruit arrived from southern California and was in fair shape. The first shipment of Royal Ann cherries arrived from northern California this morning and sold at usual quotations.

Salmon Is Scarcer Than Ever.

Salmon of all kinds was scarcer than ever today and the receipts did not more than supply one-quarter of the trade. Prices are the same. A shipment of a few hundred pounds of shad from the Columbia river came in and sold at an advanced figure. Halibut in plenty.

Merchants' Opinions on Today's Market.

W. B. Glafke Company—The creamery butter market is in fine shape, but we do not think that it will stand an advance at this time.

W. T. Turner & Co.—Egg receipts are about equal to the demand now; poultry not so firm; everybody is looking for a lower market.

Bell & Co.—Car oranges in today.

G. S. Smith Company—Eggs piling up a little; chickens not so firm.

Pearson, Page & Co.—First cantaloupes of season arrived from southern California this morning.

Malarkey & Co.—No salmon in market; no change in prices; few hundred pounds shad arrived from Columbia river; higher.

Boggess & Co.—Potato market remains dead, yet dealers are still looking for a 2-cent market.

D. E. Meikle—Rains are good for strawberry crop if they do not last too long.

Davenport-Thompson Company—Not enough strawberries in market; Californias all out; rains good for fruit.

Everding & Farrell—Hens a little weaker; young chickens scarce; eggs steady; veal and hogs only fair; would be better if shippers would take hearts and lungs out before shipping.

Dryer, O'Malley & Co.—No particular change in potatoes; eggs all right; chickens slower; good veal cleans up.

Page & Son—First Royal Ann cherries came this morning.

Toft, Kline & Co.—Veal showing better tone; heavy receipts of hogs; chickens coming fully up to demand.

Wolf & Son—Frisco market is duller on potatoes.

STOCK MARKET IS STILL KILLING TIME

(Furnished by Overbeck, Starr & Cooke Co.)

New York, June 2.—Logan & Bryan say: The stock market is still killing time. If it has any tendency it is a dragging one. Some of our correspondents think there is an increasing scattered liquidation by the holders, but the market does not show it to any appreciable degree. There is no buying at all. It is just dull. If anything so improbable as a rally should come we think stocks should be sold on it.
