SOCIETY OCCUPIED WITH FAIR FUNCTIONS

THE week has been a busy and gay one, with innumerable social functions of prominence at the exposition. The garden fete and dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Francis, the luncheon and reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Bayliss, the dinner and reception for Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Bruce were all elaborate.

This week the festivities bid fair to go right on. The garden and launch fete tomorrow begins the week auspiciously.

The organ recitals at Trinity church were events of note and many people attended.

The possibility of a visit from the Taft party has set Portland society afire. The young women who signed the letter sent to Miss Roosevelt last spring presenting her in the name of Portland's young women with the first Lewis and Clark coin released, feel a personal interest in her coming.

The Irrigation congress this week will be marked by the presence of a large number of governors and receptions will be given at many of the state buildings in honor of their executive officers. California, Nebraska, Colorado and Utah are among the states to be thus represented.

SOCIETY AT THE EXPOSITION.

Olympia week at the exposition was very successful and that city has assuredly made a name for itself through its gorgeous dahlias. Thousands of the blossoms, for which the place is famous, were shipped in and given away and admiration for them was unstinted.

Mrs. A. H. Chambers has been the week's hostess and Mrs. Albert Mead the honor guest. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. Hiram Hadley, Mrs. Wallace Mount, Mrs. L. H. Carlyon, Mrs. N. J. Redpath, Mrs. W. Bridgford, Mrs. S. Madge, Mrs. George Filley, Mrs. John Mitchell, Mrs. Hugh Ross, Mrs. A. S. Ruth, Mrs. W. H. Kneeland, Mrs. O. V. Linn, Mrs. C. M. Moore, Miss J. Moore, Miss J. Oppenheimer and Miss W. Scobey. Tuesday an informal reception continued through the morning and afternoon hours alike. The Hungarian band provided music; refreshments were served and dahlias were given as souvenirs. Wednesday afternoon there was an informal musicale and a unique postoffice was conducted. Postal cards picturing characteristic scenes about Olympia were given to the guests, and after being written on, were stamped by the Olympians and collected in a huge basket for mailing.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Mead, wife of the governor of Washington, received publicity. Mrs. H. W. Goode and the wives of various visiting governors assisted her in the line. The hostesses from the various buildings assisted the Olympia women in serving. Palms and cut flowers were the decorations. Yesterday an informal musicale was given by guests of the house.

The dinner at the New York building Tuesday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Francis of the Louisiana Purchase exposition was one of the most elaborate affairs of the week. The table was laden with American Beauties. Mrs. Francis wore a white lace gown. Mrs. Goode wore a costume of cerise silk heavily trimmed with white lace, and her jewels were diamonds. Mrs. Theodore Wilcox was beautiful in white net over silk, with diamonds; Mrs. Ned Ayer wore pink crepe de chine, with dainty garnitures of embroidered rosebuds; Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett was in white silk, with pearls; Mrs. L. Allen Lewis, in cream lace, with green garnitures; Mrs. Frank Vincent Du Mond, in black net; Mrs. Frederick Page, in pink net; Mrs. George E. Chamberlain, in pale blue silk; Mrs. George W. McBride, in cream lace and pearls; Mrs. C. J. Reed, in black lace; Miss Hoyt, in white net; Miss Patsy Bryan, yellow lace, and Miss Simpson of San Francisco, in a white lace gown.

Mrs. David Rowland Francis of St. Louis has made many friends during her stay here and found many old ones. "She and the president mean so much to us," said one official hostess, who was at the St. Louis fair last year. "Mrs. Francis has been in public life for many years, till one wonders that she does not grow tired of it. She has presided at many social functions as the wife of the mayor of St. Louis, governor of Missouri, secretary of the interior and president of the Louisiana Purchase exposition."

★ ★

Those who attended the Goode launch party some weeks ago and their garden fete in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Francis last week will be delighted with their invitations to a launch and garden fete tomorrow evening in honor of Lieutenant-Governor Bruce of New York and Mrs. Bruce. The last water fete turned out to be a dressy affair, although Mrs. Goode had expected outing costumes, and she felt it a delicate compliment to herself. The Browns, who are visiting the Goodes, will be prominent guests tomorrow.

★ ★

The Irrigation congress will be the occasion of more or less entertaining. Prominent men connected with the congress will bring their wives, and many have friends in the city who will entertain for them. A large reception for which cards are now being issued will be given from 4 to 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to members of the congress by Governor and Mrs. Pardee of California. Governor Pardee is president of the congress.

★ ★

The Illinois reception Thursday evening was well attended. The large pavilion was gay with evergreen boughs and cut flowers. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Bayliss, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Goode, Mr. O'Donnell, Judge and Mrs. Hand, Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Myers, Governor and Mrs. A. E. Mead of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Tiffany, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins and Dr. Timme.

★ ★

Fruit punch or lemonade has been served every day of the past week by the hostesses of the Idaho building, but they have received only very informally. Idaho day falls on September 17, and there will probably be no large functions before that date.

★ ★

The reception dance given at the New York building last night rounded off the festivities of the week. Some 2,000 invitations were issued and it seemed that almost every one accepted. The gowning of the women was brilliant and it was one of the most elaborate affairs.

★ ★

Mrs. James Carraher and Miss Carraher, her daughter, from Kansas City, were guests of the week at the American inn. They are prominent in society of that city. W. F. Harrity and family of Philadelphia were also notable guests.

★ ★

The dinner given at the New York building Friday evening by the commission in honor of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Bruce was perhaps the most brilliant since the visit of the vice-president early in the season.

★ ★

The Grafton touring party from Los Angeles which arrives this week at the American inn includes a number of the prominent society women of that city. The party returns by way of Yellowstone park.

★ ★

Everybody enjoyed the garden fete given Wednesday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Francis. Major James McI. Wood introduced the guests to Mr. and Mrs. Francis. Mr. and Mrs. Goode and a few other friends received also.

★ ★

Among prominent Idaho visitors have been Mrs. F. R. Gooding, wife of the governor, and her daughter and Mr. Elmer, the governor's private secretary.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

Miss Elizabeth Sawyers, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Fletcher Linn, at the Guilliaume, is being extensively entertained and is making many friends. Last Tuesday Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Macrum entertained at dinner at the Portland in her honor. Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Strain gave a dinner for her at their home on Willamette heights. Miss Ethel Thompson gave a launch party Thursday evening down to the mouth of the Willamette. The evening was charming and the number of musicians in the party made delightful music possible. Those in the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Seth Catlin, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Linn, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bickford, Misses Ethel and Claire Thompson, Miss Sawyers, Dr. Stewart, J. R. Fargo and L. L. Paget.

★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. William Gardner of the east side entertained with an evening of cards last Wednesday in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. George Jarvis, of St. Paul. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion with ferns and sweetpeas in the living-room and palms and pink roses in the library. High scores were made at five hundred by Mrs. Gerard Wilson and Charles McManey. Late in the evening a dainty menu was served at the card tables by the hostess' girl friends, Miss Lily Hodgin, Miss Marie Cordway, Miss Lina Minor and Miss Elizabeth Bernard. About 30 guests were entertained.

★ ★

Mrs. George Egbert entertained several friends at a pretty luncheon last Tuesday and her daughter, Mrs. I. M. Whitcomb, assisted her in the duties of hostess. The rooms were charming with purple and white China asters in profusion. The favors were dainty Lewis and Clark fans harmonizing with the flowers. The guests were: T. W. Kennedy and his two daughters, Miss Genevieve and Miss Elizabeth, of Fargo, North Dakota; Dr. Egbert and his sister, Miss Grace Egbert, of Olympia; Mrs. F. M. Egbert, Miss Loela and Master Owen Egbert of The Dalles, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McAlpin of this city.

★ ★

The nurses of St. Vincent's hospital have probably been entertained as royally at the Oaks as any visiting assemblage. Mrs. A. Tilzer took them out in two sections on Wednesday and Thursday and was assisted in her duties as hostess by Mrs. Barber and Miss M. Comport. Every concession was visited and public feeling toward the nurses was manifested in the manner that every one extended them hospitality. Dinner was served at the tavern and the tables were beautifully decorated with cut flowers in their honor. Sixteen were in the first party and 19 in the second.

★ ★

Mrs. Walter C. Mackay was at home informally to about 75 friends Friday evening at her beautiful home on King's heights. Her sister, Miss Katherine Gill, of Los Angeles, and Miss Elizabeth Sawyers of Indiana were the honor guests. Miss Gill is a reader of note and the entertainment consisted of her reading "Enoch Arden" with a beautiful setting of Scotch music by Richard Strauss, interpreted by Miss Sawyers. It was most effective and won much admiration. The rooms were extremely pretty with exquisite roses. Miss Sansbury presided at the punchbowl.

★ ★

Mrs. George Pettinger was the originator of a delightful all-day picnic last week at her country home at Oswego. The honor guests were Mrs. White of Baker City, Mrs. Spaulding of The Dalles and Miss Laura Clay of Kentucky. All are prominent clubwomen. Mrs. Evans assisted her daughter in the duties of hostess.

★ ★

Miss Nellie Tilden entertained a few young friends Wednesday evening at cards in honor of her sister, Mrs. Harry Borden, of San Francisco. There were five tables of whist, and prizes were awarded Miss Myrtle Landon and Gustav Bogart. Red and white phlox were the decorations and the score cards carried out the same colors. Misses Elsie and Elizabeth Howe assisted in serving refreshments.

★ ★

Miss Joyce Wilkinson of Tacoma was the honor guest Tuesday evening of a boating party given by a number of her friends. Landing early in the evening on Ross island they spread a picnic supper on the bank. Songs and story-telling kept them entertained till a late hour. There were 14 in the party.

★ ★

Mrs. R. K. Warren's Bible class of First Presbyterian church enjoyed a picnic on Portland Heights last Tuesday evening. Mrs. B. Leroy Stowell of San Francisco, a former member of the class, was an honor guest. After supper the evening was spent in singing and telling stories.

★ ★

Miss Heilner was hostess at a very pretty tea on board the Heather last week. The affair was very informal but was attended by many of the younger set. Miss Heilner has been a popular guest at their functions during her stay.

★ ★
