Journal Ad Finds Lost Purse

A purse containing a large sum of money in checks, currency and valuable papers was lost a few days ago by Mrs. Eliza Matthews, who resides at 1398 East Irving street.

The loser did the right thing at the right time and immediately inserted a classified ad in the "Lost and Found" column of The Journal. F. Ceregnino, who is in the employ of J. A. McFarlane of 506 Flanders street, came along soon after the purse was dropped and found it.

He also did the right thing at the right time. He did not wait to get home to see his copy of The Journal, but purchased a copy on the street. He found the ad below and straightway came to The Journal office and satisfied himself that the purse he found was the one advertised and left it for the lady. A liberal reward was given him and all concerned were happy.

If you have lost anything or found something do as these parties did and you will be happy.

THE "AD"

LOST—In the City Park, pocket-book containing valuable papers; liberal reward for return; must have valuable papers. Return to Journal office.

The ad above cost 20 cents—a small percentage for the result it gave to the loser as well as the finder.
