WEATHER REPORT

A high pressure area of considerable strength is central over the north Pacific states, and the barometer is relatively low over Arizona. Except in Arizona and New Mexico, where light showers have fallen, fair weather prevails in the Pacific and Rocky mountain states. Another high pressure area, central over West Virginia, controls the weather in the eastern states, where it is fair with nearly normal temperatures.

The indications are for fair weather in this district tonight and Tuesday. It will be warmer Tuesday.
