CROP FACTS OF WORLD

Summary of Elaborate Daily Bulletins to Board of Trade at Chicago Nearing Completion—Second Only to Government's Report.

Chicago, April 9.—The annual report of the Chicago board of trade is nearing completion, and will this year be seven a more complete compilation of facts concerning the grain and livestock business of the country than heretofore, and second only to the report of the department of agriculture in the scope of its statistics.

The report each year not only gives the rules governing the transactions of its members, including the drastic requirements for delivery of the actual commodities dealt in, but covers the world's crop figures. It will include this year an exhaustive summary of the year's daily reports which boards of trade gather at great expense and furnish to the public practically free.

Daily Cable Reports.

The daily and almost hourly reports of changing conditions of the supply and demand which govern prices are cabled to this and other boards of trade from prominent market centers of the old world—Liverpool, London, Paris, Antwerp, Berlin, Budapest and recently from Buenos Ayres. They quote prices of grain in each of these markets, besides immediate and steady quotations from all the prominent markets of this country. All the reports are posted on bulletin boards as fast as received, and are furnished to the telegraph and ticker companies, which send them out in all directions. Thus the receipts and shipments of grain and flour at eastern and western primary markets, and the export clearances from the seaboard are made matters of public knowledge daily. On Monday of each week the world's shipment of wheat and corn, and the amounts of each on ocean passage, received by cable, are duly posted. The movement of livestock at various points is given daily as well as weekly. On Monday of each week, also, the visible supply of grain at all market centers of prominence is compiled and posted.

All this information is scattered so broadcast by either public or private enterprise that no matter where a man is he can always get it shortly after its receipt by the boards of trade. Nearly all farmers now have telephones in their homes, and any hour in the day at little or no expense by the present system can learn the current of the markets and prices at any given point of prominence within a very few minutes.

Grown Gradually.

So gradually has the system grown up that its importance is not generally realized except by the study of such a report as the forthcoming one of the Chicago exchange. If there were no boards of trade this information probably would not be available—producers especially would be but poorly informed, if informed at all; they would be at the mercy of those who were informed. The big buyers must of necessity get information of the world's markets, irrespective of cost, and they would naturally utilize their own private information for their own benefit.

This brings home the importance to the public and particularly to the producers the fact that proposed legislation against the system of buying and selling for future delivery would seriously cripple the established and legitimate exchanges. President Hiram N. Sager of the Chicago board of trade recently said: "Such legislation will close the great grain and cotton exchanges of the country, will drive all speculative buying and selling to the European boards of trade and will deprive our farmers, livestock raisers and cotton planters of the immense advantages of the broad, open, competitive markets now afforded by the exchanges, where millers, exporters, speculators and grain shippers are all bidding against each other. If trading in grain for future delivery is abolished or so restricted as to prevent speculative selling and buying, the grain crops of the country will then be sold as potatoes, hay, apples and tobacco now are sold."

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY OF NOTED CORVALLIS COUPLE

Rev. P. A. Moses and Mrs. Moses of Corvallis.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Corvallis, Or., April 9.—The golden wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Moses, highly esteemed residents of this city, was celebrated at the home of Presiding Elder C. L. McCausland Tuesday night. The hours were from 7 to 10 and upwards of 80 friends paid their respects to the venerable pair during the evening, leaving many beautiful gifts. The rooms were decorated in green and gold, and Mrs. McCausland, Mrs. Sydney Trask of Falls City and Miss Ada Finley, assisted by several young people of the Methodist Episcopal church south, served dainty refreshments throughout the evening.

Professor J. B. Horner acted as master of ceremonies and interesting addresses were made by Rev. Moses, Dr. J. R. N. Bell, Rev. D. H. Leech, Rev. McCausland and others. Rev. Forman sang several solos.

Rev. P. A. Moses is quite a noted character. He is of German extraction. His great-grandfather and family landed in Philadelphia September 2, 1746. They came in the ship "Loyal Judetti" and settled in Chester county. His grandfather moved to Virginia in 1784 and settled in Buckingham county, now Appomatox county. P. A. Moses was reared near that place. He graduated at the Randolph-Macon college in that state in 1855. In 1853 he was licensed to preach. After graduation he went to Tennessee and then to Arkansas where he spent 17 years.

He was a commissioned chaplain in the Confederate army for three years, and came to Oregon in 1875, where he has since resided, being a minister in the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

While in Arkansas, Rev. Moses married Miss Lucy L. Howell, April 5, 1858, at Van Buren. Her parents were of English descent, and her father was a colonel under General Andrew Jackson in 1812 and fought in the battle of New Orleans. The Howell family was among the most useful and aggressive of that period.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses have six children, all grown to honorable manhood and womanhood. They are Jesse Moses of Eugene, Samuel Moses of Philomath, A. W. Moses of Arizona, Victor Moses of Corvallis, Mrs. William Jenks of Tangent and Mrs. Sydney Trask of Falls City.

Sunday a family reunion was held at the Moses home, all the children save the son in Arizona being present.

Mrs. Sallie French, of Paucaunla, Ind. Ter., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had female troubles for seven years—was all run-down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different troubles but did me no good. While in this condition I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am now strong and well."

BENNETT'S WORD GETS N. G. WITH MAYOR

Executive Tells Councilman He'll Have to Bolster Up Statements.

As announced in yesterday's Journal the ordinance granting an appropriation of $2,850 for an arch of welcome to be erected at Sixth and Hoyt streets for the Rose Festival was passed over Mayor Lane's veto along with four other ordinances. The council sustained the mayor in but one veto. This was the ordinance for employment agencies which Mayor Lane vetoed because it discriminated against girls and women. The council sustained the veto by a vote of six for the ordinance and eight against.

Councilman Driscoll's ordinance providing fines for miners who misrepresent their ages to saloonkeepers in securing intoxicating liquors was also passed over the mayor's veto, although two of the majority party, Councilmen Baker and Cellars voted with the mayor. To offset this Councilmen Cottel and Concannon of the minority party, voted in favor of the ordinance.

There was little discussion in passing the veto ordinances save over the lighting ordinance and the one granting a strip of land to property holders on Belmont street. This latter caused a tilt between Mayor Lane and Councilman Bennett. Bennett explained that the property owners had already given a strip of land equal to the one given in return by the city and that the purpose of the ordinance was but to straighten the street. Mayor Lane said there was nothing in the ordinance to show that this was true and Bennett replied that he had just told the mayor about it.

"I know you did," replied Mayor Lane, "but your unsupported word would not suffice with me."

The council also passed the ordinance granting C. W. Nottingham permission to erect a frame building within the fire limits.

Tomorrow, Friday, will positively be the last day for discount on west side gas bills. Portland Gas company.

LONDON RESUMES HIS CRUISE AROUND WORLD

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, April 9.—Jack London and Mrs. London have resumed their world cruise on the yacht Snark. When the steamer Mariposa, which arrived here yesterday, left Papeete, on the Island of Tahiti, on March 25, the Snark followed her out of the harbor and set out for the Island of Morea, in the Pomotu group.

London expects to stay several weeks in Morea, said to be the most picturesque of all the Samoan islands, and during his stop there he will live with the natives. He will then return to Papeete and write several articles detailing his adventures among the islanders. The novelist intends to sail from Papeete to Pago Pago, near Australia, and then continue his world tour.

PIRATES CAPTURED IN GILBERT ISLANDS

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Victoria, B. C., April 9.—A story of piracy and murder in the South Seas was brought to this port by the steamship Marama. According to these advices the captain and mate of a schooner from Callao were attacked by Joseph Mortimer, G. Jackson and J. Taylor, who constituted the crew, and compelled them to jump overboard. The pirates then took charge of the ship and started for Australia, but were wrecked in the Gilbert islands. A trading schooner found the vessel, the story of the murder and piracy was revealed and the pirates were placed under arrest. Jackson confessed.

THE PLAY

By J. F. S.

You wouldn't have believed it possible that Cohanitis could be so catching. Winchell Smith and Byron Ongley have gotten the most awful case yet. Like the measles it seems to grow more malignant as it passes from person to person. Fortunately there are no musical numbers in "Brewster's Millions," but there is enough noise and clangor to keep the Cohanites from being at all lonesome.

In the first place there's a yacht scene that really out-Cohans Cohan. How jealous the young prop of the American stage must have been when he first witnessed that third act of Brewster. A hurricane! Why didn't he think of a hurricane? A mutiny of millionaires against another millionaire! O why didn't he think of that first?

And the green-eyed monster would have thrust its hideous neck into the spirit of his meditations could Georgie have seen the first night audience at the Heilig last night. Talk about enthusiasm, we just broke loose and yelled and yelled. We stamped and cheered and whistled and waved our handkerchiefs. We wanted Mr. McCutcheon. We wanted the playwrights. We wanted every member of the company, and most of all we wanted Monty Brewster himself. Such a scene of wild enthusiasm hasn't been witnessed in the Heilig since Mr. Cohan's choo-choo train, with real smoke coming out of the locomotive stack, came steaming up to New Rochelle and everybody sang "So Long Mary." Oh, childhood's happy memories!

Monty Brewster, you know, had $1,000,000. Then, if he would spend $1,000,000 in one year he would get $7,000,000. With this quaint conceit in ciphers as the motif success was assured beyond peradventure of a doubt.

A man with $1,000,000 to spend in a year and a man who would get $7,000,000 at the end of that year couldn't fail to appeal to us as a hero. That was quite enough to establish him firmly in our affections.

The golden halo gleamed and glittered over our hero's head. We thought of our average per capita income of $12 a week and got right down and groveled before this wonder. And he was kind and magnanimous and bowed to us in many curtain calls and for just one night we were happy. It was like being turned loose in Ladd & Tilton's vaults, with the privilege of rolling in the gold for three blessed hours.

The cast is a large one and is well dressed and lively. Robert Ober plays Monty Brewster, the millionaire hero and stands up well under the strain. June Mathis, who plays the part of "Peggy" Gray is attractive and the others do very well under the circumstances. The stage settings were greatly approved of, notably the scene on the deck of Monty's steam yacht where the party is blown all about by a hurricane but where the gallant skipper steadfastly declines to take a reef in his sails. The story is unintelligible but noisy. It was told to capacity houses last night and the outlook is equally good for the rest of the engagement.
