FLASHES OF FUN

 She—I wonder what ailment the kissing germ causes. He—Palpitation of the heart.—Chicago News.
 "Have you met him socially?" "Dear me, no. Only in a business way. I married his daughter."—Life.
 Wigg—Do you believe that every man has his price? Wag—No. Lots of men give themselves away.—Philadelphia Record.
 "You two are thrown together a great deal, aren't you?" "You bet. We ride home on the same car at six o'clock."—Cleveland Leader.
 Ethyl—Did Annette get anything out of her breach-of-promise suit? Babette —Nothing at all; the man decided to marry her.—Detroit Free Press.
 Hardup—If you will let me have a five I shall be everlastingly indebted to you. Miserable—Yes, that's why I must decline to let you have it.—Town and Country.
 "Are they college men?" "No; merely college boys. Just freshmen." "Ah! they're not the finished product—"
 "No; merely 'Bah' material."—Philadelphia Press.
 Curate (who is going to describe his little holiday in lovely Lucerne)—My dear friends—I will not call you "ladies and gentlemen," since I know you too well.—Punch.
 Little Boy—My mamma has so much money that she can buy everything she wants to. Little Girl—That's nothing.
 My mamma is so rich she can buy all the things she doesn't want.—Puck.
 "Women don't have logical minds!" said Shrewd bluntly. "They don't need them if they're as lucky as I am," said his wife sweetly. "You see, I have you think for me!"—Detroit Free Press.
 "Yes," she sneered, during one of their frequent quarrels, "I married you for pity, and now—" "You don't get any," he interrupted, "for all our friends lavish it on me."—Philadelphia Press.
 Cadley—No; he isn't in our social set any more. Wiseman—So I understand.
 Cadley—Yes, he dropped out some time ago. Wiseman—Why, he gave me to understand he climbed out.—Philadelphia Press.
 Teacher—Johnny, for what is Switzerland famous? Scholar—Why—m'm —Swiss cheese. Teacher—Oh, something grander, more impressive, more tremendous. Scholar—Limburger?— Cleveland Leader.
 Jones—There are some queer turns in life. Jinks—I know it; I turned up at a girl's house to-night, got turned down and turned out, and now I'm going home to turn on the gas and turn in.—Town Topics.
 Gaston—I tell you, old man, Miss Watkins is a mighty sensible girl—the most sensible girl, I think, I ever knew.
 Alphonse—I think you're right, my boy.
 I wouldn't advise you to propose to her.
 —Somerville Journal.
 "Say, did you hear that Cholly Soft-ed had had a serious operation performed on him lately?" "What was it?
 Appendicitis?" "No; worse than that.
 His rich uncle cut him out of his will."
 —Baltimore American.
 Mrs. Crawford—It's strange where all the dust comes from, isn't it? Mrs.
 Crabshaw—Yes, indeed! As far as I can see, the only thing around the house that doesn't gather dust is the servant.—Harper's Bazar.
 "What was the most important bill you ever had anything to do with?"
 asked the interviewer. "The bill that did most for me," answered Senator Sorghum, "was a bill for services rendered."—Washington Star.
 "You are an angel!" the young man declared. "Nonsense," retorted the devout high church damsel. "Do you know that the foremost religious dignitaries have decided that there are no angels of the female sex?"—Pittsburg Post.
 Elderly Man (greeting former acquaintance)—I remember your face perfectly, miss, but your name has escaped me." The Young Woman—I don't wonder. It escaped me three years ago. I am married now.—Chicago Tribune.
 "I would propose to you, but I fear the effects of the excitement. When I am excited my heart beats so faintly that it is scarcely noticeable. "Well, you know what the proverb says?"
 "What proverb?" "Faint heart never won fair lady."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
 "Judge," said Mrs. Starvem to the magistrate who had recently come to board with her, "I'm particularly anxious to have you try this chicken soup."
 "I have tried it," replied the magistrate, "and my decision is that the chicken has proved an alibi."—Philadelphia Press.
 Mr. Browne—I regret to say, dear, that—er—concerning that birthday gift I promised you—er—diamonds are up in price now, higher than I can afford.
 Mrs. Browne—I'm sorry, dear. Mr.
 Browne—Yes, it is a disappointing—Mrs. Browne—Yes, it's too bad that you'll have to pay more than you can afford.—Philadelphia Press.
 The pretty girl with the auburn hair had refused him. "I never dreamed, Mr. Smykins," she said, "that your attentions to me were anything more than those of a friend." "Oh, you didn't!" growled the young man. "You thought I had been coming here regularly once a week during the last six months merely for the pleasure of seeing you eat a 50-cent box of candy, did you?"—Chicago Tribune.
