EDUCATION OF THE UNFIT.

Too Much Attempted in the Present Scheme of Learning.
The education of the unfit is another problem which has come up to bother our pedagogues and it is one which is bound up also in the great problem of underfeeding, says American Medicine.
There are so many men writing on this topic as to give the impression that we are attempting too much in our extensive educational schemes. It is now known that every brain has a limit beyond which it cannot be educated—a law as applicable to types of men as to types of dogs. Children, naturally, drop out of school at certain grades and those who are continued beyond their proper limit are merely injured thereby. Many a splendid mechanic has thus been educated into a poor preacher who half starves the rest of his life.
It is now even hinted that many of our new types of immigrants are mere hewers of wood and drawers of water as their ancestors have been from time immemorial, and that any education merely unfits them for the battle of life.
If all these surmises are true they are bound to shake the very foundation of our present order of things.
The theory that there are minds now migrating to our shores which cannot possibly be trained into a condition fit for citizenship will naturally be resented by those who have built up our present school system to train men to equality. Yet it is time to stop and think a little.
Every autumn the papers of the larger cities are much concerned over the inadequate school facilities and publish dreadful statistics of the thousands of pupils who must be placed on half-time, yet it has long been known that in London schools the half-timers who work half of each day really progress faster than those who go to school all day.
Have we not upset nature too quickly in our schools also? The mothers who cannot care for their children send them to school not to be educated, but to get rid of them. In admitting them are we not already far on the way toward that socialism with its free lunches, which is so repugnant to American family independence? Whether or not we are educating the unfit, it is quite evident that our lower-grade schools are taking the place of the family. The feeding of the hungry among them is but a little step beyond.
The dreadful physical condition of some of them must be remedied somehow and prevented in the future.
Stewart Paton in his text book on Psychiatry says it is the duty of physicians to warn against educating those unfit for it—most timely advice to which it would be well to give heed.

TALKS ON ADVERTISING
The sale bill is all right as far as it goes, but it does not go far enough.
Advertising in the newspaper beats it two to one. A Nebraska farmer tried the first plan, but was not satisfied with results. Attendance at the sale was not up to expectations, and it was postponed for a season. Then a new date was set and an advertisement placed in the local paper. This time people came from all directions—even from adjoining States—and the crowd was so great that the sheriff of the county thought he ought to be present to keep the peace. It developed, however, that that official was in attendance because his county town had been deserted and he felt lonesome to remain there alone. If you don't believe advertising pays try to have a public sale without telling the public about it through the public paper.—Ex-

Cure for Rattlesnake Bite.
This paper notes with deep regret that a number of persons are dying from the bite of rattlesnakes in different sections of Texas, says the Merkel Mail. Most of the cases are young children, and in a good many instances they are bitten on the hand or foot.
In such a case the following remedy is said to be a splendid antidote for the rattler's bite, provided it is used immediately after being bitten: Take a pan or bowl and pour in enough kerosene oil to cover the wound. It will draw the poison out immediately and in the course of a few minutes turn perfectly green; then pour out the oil and refill the bowl, being careful to put in enough oil to completely cover the wound.
Leave the foot or hand in the oil as long as the oil turns green. Then put on a poultice of plain table salt and saturate thoroughly with oil. Keep this up for about an hour and there is scarcely any danger of fatal results.
The Mule Marched Past.
The "Derby dog" was in evidence, as usual, at the great maneuvers at Rawal Pindi, only, to use an Irishism, it was another animal this time.
The cavalry were marching past the royal station in brilliant succession when there occurred an episode which was too much for everybody's risible faculties. Following the Ninth Queen's Royal lancers was a stray, mangy mule, walking with comical gravity, and quite undisturbed by either objections from behind or the shouts of laughter from the spectators.—India courage than the day dreamer.
