In the Breakers and on the Sand at North Beach.

North Beach

North Beach, Wash., Aug. 7.—The regular excursions to the government life saving station have begun and will continue during the month. Every Tuesday morning there is an exhibition drill on the beach and visitors are taken through the station and the various pieces of apparatus explained. Life saving drills are always attractive and at the fairs and expositions where the government has made exhibits there have always been drills of some nature with a boat on a lake or pond. While these drills have entertained large numbers, and especially people from the inland country, they are child's play when compared with the feat of taking the surf boat out over the breakers at North Beach. For the beach drill the self-bailing surf boat is used in preference to the life boat. This craft is so constructed and equipped with air chambers that it is impossible to sink or even swamp it. As fast as water runs in it is forced out. Even in the heaviest sea the little craft is indestructible. In the drill it is taken from its berth in the station and pulled down to the water's edge. Here its bow is pointed toward the sea and with half of the crew at their oars and the others running alongside in the water the boat is pulled straight out over the breakers. After reaching the sea beyond the last breakers the surf boat maneuvers back and forth in front of the spectators. Part of the drill is to capsize the boat, let her right herself and then, man by man, each with his oar, the crew climb from the rising and falling waves back into the boat. The exhibition on the water ends by rowing straight down the trough of the breakers. In the station besides the apparatus there is a collection of things which have belonged to the unfortunate vessels wrecked along North Beach. With them there is no end of stories of heroic acts and deeds of valor, accomplished when great gales swept North Beach and giant waves broke upon the sands. All who have visited the station cannot say too much in praise of the exhibition nor of the courteous treatment they received from those in charge.

Seaside

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Seaside, Or., Aug. 7.—Quite a number of summer visitors made trips home on the first of the month and have been returning to their cottages all during the week. Most of the cottages are open now. Those trying to rent for the remainder of the season have found available cottages very scarce. Hotel registration shows an increase in the transient traffic over last week. Saturday and Sunday excursion trains both brought in many visitors. On Saturday night while the excursion crowd was here the illuminated marine parade on the Necanicum river, which was to have taken place among the Independence day celebrations, but was postponed on account of rain, was floated down the stream. The long string of boats were lighted with colored lanterns and presented a spectacle of some note.

Fish in Necanicum.

An unusually large run of salmon up the Necanicum river has made fishing at Seaside considerably better than it has been in years past. Good sized salmon trout are taken from the river every day in reasonably large numbers. Jake Brailler of Seaside holds the record for the largest salmon trout taken during the month of July. The fish was 17 9-16 inches long, and weighed 31 ounces. A salmon trout 17 inches long and weighing 28 ounces was brought in by Albert Godfrey of Portland. A contest has been going on for a prize offered by a local dealer in fishing tackle, and every fish of any size has been measured, weighed and the name of the captor posted. One of the best baskets of fish brought in during the week was 17 salmon trout weighing in all 17 pounds. The salmon trout are caught in the lower part of the river with ordinary line and brown hackle fly. Up the Necanicum some eight miles there are mountain trout, and a number of good catches of them have been brought in. Among the successful fishermen are Alfred Davis, Ed Johnson, Robert Robinson, Jake Brailler, L. Coffman, Alfred Godfrey and C. M. Godfrey.

A jolly party of cottagers took an excursion trip by lumber wagon to Elk Creek Friday. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Beers of Angeles Camp, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry, Mrs. F. Reese of Livingstone, Mont.; Mrs. F. R. Mitchell and Miss Mason, of Portland; Miss McReynolds of Oakland, Cal., and Mrs. Shafer of Seaside. They went as far as Hug Point, where they enjoyed a picnic dinner and sported in the delightful waters of Cannon beach, returning late at night. They report the mountains full of huckleberries and blackberries and the streams alive with fish.

Among the Visitors.
