Seaside

Seaside, Or., Aug. 28.—The end of August finds Oregon resorts in the superlative degree of their summer season. The influx of population has reached its highest point and rests in its zenith. The trend will soon be downward. Of all the 365 days of the year this is the time that resort promoters look forward to. It is the time that the busy head of the family leaves the grind of his daily routine to fly kites with his boy on the beach or build bonfires for his wife and children. It is the time when the happy cottage colony entertains its greatest number of guests, and when every hotel and amusement place has its banner week. For all of those who have but a few days to spend at the beach this is the time selected to enjoy them. Hundreds throng every corner of the resort. Cottage yards, hotel porches and board walk are populated with happy vacation visitors. Clear skies and fresh salt breezes have driven away all cares and filled the entire population with the exuberance of youth and vacation days.

Want Name Ecola.

Among those interested in the many historic places around the resort at Seaside there has been some discussion about changing the name of the stream now called Elk creek to the original name Ecola, given it by Captain Clark over 100 years ago. The Lewis and Clark journals say that on Wednesday, January 5, 1806, Lewis and Clark crossed a stream to see a whale that had been reported to them. They purchased about 300 pounds of bladder and recrossed the creek and camped. Captain Clark gave the creek the name of Ecola or Whale creek. In the interest of history the name Ecola is significant. Many persons have read the Lewis and Clark journals and have a desire to see the places of which they speak.

North Beach

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

North Beach, Wash., Aug. 28.—This week has seen the heart of the summer season at North Beach pass. The last trip of the Potter is announced for a week from Monday and between now and that date there will be a general exodus of the summer colony. While the last trip of the Potter has in past years marked the close of the season at North Beach, it does so now only as regards excursion parties and families with children in school. The month of September from many points of view, is the finest in the sea beach calendar. The weather is generally finer than that of the summer months, and those who enjoy the quiet when the rush of the summer has past, come to the seashore for September. It is a month when house parties come to the beach for a week and for those who enjoy rest, tranquility and quietude, September is the time selected to visit the beach.

At Ocean Park.

Prior to the home going of part of the summer colony at Ocean Park a large bonfire was built by the young people on the sands in front of the camp. While the big logs of dry driftwood burned, a delightful evening was passed. Among those present were Marion Howell, Vivian Mikle, Ruby Scott, Maye Scott, Cora Sloat, Vera Prince, Alda Burke, Madge Homan, Will Adams, J. C. Allison, Guy Allison, C. Mimes, C. Richmond, Alvin Shogren, Robert Montgomery, Luke Rader, Mrs. S. F. Scott and Mrs. C. A. Homan.

Music at Hackney Cottage.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid society of Ilwaco gave a recital at the Hackney cottage at Seaview on Wednesday evening. A highly entertaining program was given by the following: Piano solo, Evla Richards; song, Albert Stone; song, Mrs. Shea; violin solo, Max Smith; recitation, Hazel Russell; song, Joe Bendle; song, Madeline Stone; piano solo, Florence Jackson; song, Stuart McGuire; violin solo, Elda McDaniel; song, Miss Golet; song, Wallie Keleher; duet, Miss Olsen and Miss Williams; song, Miss McIntosh. The affair was a success financially as well as socially, due largely to the efforts of Mrs. E. R. Budd and Mrs. F. W. Harmon.
