TRUMPET CALLS.
 Ram's Horn Sounds a Warning Note to the Unredeemed.

 It's terribly easy to get tangled up in a tin halo. It's safe to question the righteousness of the man who parades his robes. The prophet who blows his own horn is usually playing on a stolen instrument. Touch the self-made lion on the pocket-book and you will hear the grunt of the hog. The modern wolf does not stop at wearing sheep's clothing; he steals that of the shepherd. The Lord has never yet entrusted the souls of his servants to those who could not rule their own spirits. The laws of the land have less to do in unmasking the false prophet than the lusts of his own heart. The devil knows a whole lot more about the attractiveness of the Old Testament than some modern preachers do. They hardly deserve to have a chance at the tree of life who have spent their lives looking for grapes on thorn bushes. People who find fault with the glorious sun are always the first to follow some spluttering tallow dip, and to land in the ditch. The balloon of arrogance often has a very rapid rise, but that isn't a circumstance to the speed it makes when it gets punctured.

SLOW MARCH OF GLACIERS.
 Test Which Proved that Rivers of Ice Move but Few Feet Each Year. It had long been supposed that no true glaciers remain in the Rockies south of Wyoming, a supposition now known to be incorrect. North of Long's peak two icefields have been described and referred to as glaciers by men whose determinations are entitled to considerable weight, though on the whole they partake more of the nature of nerve and are so considered by some geologists. This difference of opinion is entirely excusable on the ground that the dividing line between nerve and glacier is indistinct, the one passing into the other by insensible gradation. However, explorations carried on in the last five years have brought to light an ice stream which is so distinctly a glacier as to leave no chance for a dispute as to its character. It has been visited by experienced geologists, mapped, photographed and thoroughly studied. Arapahoe glacier is about a mile long and is situated amid scenery as inspiring as any in the southern Rockies. It occupies an amphitheater or glacial cirque upon the east side of the Arapahoe peak, the peaks and their thin, sharp, serrated connecting ridge forming the semi-circular rim of the cirque, the ridges running eastward from the north and south peaks forming the walls of the ancient glacial valley. The highest point on the rim of the cirque is 13,700 feet above sea level. No measurements were necessary to convince the first exploring party that the ice was moving. To the student of glacial phenomena the evidence on every hand was as easily read as a printed page and as convincing as a mathematical demonstration, but it remained to determine the rate of movement. Consequently on a later visit the party set up the instruments on the granite north wall and placed a line of zinc tablets across the face of the ice. Returning exactly one year later, they found that the tablets had moved in amounts varying from 11.15 feet at a point 200 feet from the edge to 27.7 feet at a point near the center.—Harper's Magazine.

Music Hath Charms.
 Lady with the bum soprano,
 Must you use it every day?
 Must you "try on your piano"
 Every song they give away?
 Neighbor with the piano
 You must be an awful rube
 To have bought that ancient roll—(a
 Lovely thing—"The Blue Danube").
 Don't you know the war is done with—
 You who play "The Boys in Blue"?
 Ho wcan you have any fun with
 A cornet? Confound it! YOU!
 When you keep your windows open
 It is your united fault
 If I have a rather slow pen,
 Curses on the Danube waltz!

Don't you know the fourth commandment?
 Won't the racket ever end?
 (Never knew what "beat the band" meant—
 Now I think I comprehend.)
 Must you run the awful gamut,
 Won't you ever stop that din?
 Stop it—cut it out—confound it!—goodness!
 Bring the keeper—I'm all in!
 *Only polite rhyme for gamut,
 —New York Mail.

Had to Have Room.
 The revolutionist had arrived and been cordially greeted.
 "Why are you here?" the reporters asked.
 "Well," replied the visitor, "a revolutionist must revolve, you know, and the aristocrats over there kept cluttering up my orbit." —Philadelphia Ledger.
 The less interesting a man's experiences have been, the more likely he is to tell the story of his life.
 Sunday is supposed to be a day of rest—but how many of us get it!
