TRUMPET CALLS.

Ram's Horn Sounds a Warning Note to the Unredeemed.

LOVE constrains no consecration. The first thing you see in boiling water is the scum. The worldly are spending the winter of life in collecting snowballs, forgetting that the summer comes. The world-spoiler has no use for the steady toiler. Most men begin to save after they have spent all. Christians are like eggs; there are no medium ones. Care-not is a greater hindrance to success than cannot. Self-forgetfulness is only acquired by remembering others. The world is a vessel in whose hold the fire is already burning. God's first act after the creation was the organization of a home. Many public professions are criminal over-issues of religious stock. When there is a fire in the church the people will gather about the hearth. The Christian hearthstone is an essential in the foundation of this republic. When a man shows his goodness in his home, the chances are that goodness has its home in him. The fullness of salvation comes in only when Christ takes out our old faults and puts in new forces. When the Lord listens for the din of his workshop, He too often hears but a symphony of snores from the drooping churches.

FAMOUS LOST TREASURES.

They include an Arm of the Venus de Milo. The Venus de Milo which has been in the Louvre for many years is, as all the world knows, an imperfect piece of sculpture, though it is the greatest treasure of its kind the world has ever seen. A great reward would be given the man who could find the missing parts. About twenty-eight years ago the most important of them—the right arm—came to light in London and was proved by experts to be genuine. The owner, however, refused to part with it and concealed it for fear it would be stolen. Unfortunately he died without revealing its hiding place, so it is as much lost as ever, says the New York Herald. A bronze drinking cup which was stolen from an Egyptian temple in 1739 and brought to Europe has miraculously disappeared. On it is engraved the whole history of the Pharaohs and it could easily be sold for $100,000. In fact the French government offered a reward of $14,000 for its discovery, but the famous cup has vanished, probably forever.

Another treasure which has vanished in as strange a way is the Marcella vase of the Dresden collection. This is the only piece missing from the famous Dresden Marcella collection, the value of which is said to be $75,000. It bears the cross, arrows and the lion's head. Not long ago the vase was said to be in England, but be that as it may, the person who rediscovers this treasure may command any price in reason for it. How it is possible that a treasure so large as a painting could be lost sight of entirely is not easily explained. One of Reynolds' paintings, "The Countess of Derby," which is considered his best portrait, has disappeared. Not long after it was painted it disappeared from the collection of the Earl of Derby and has never been heard of since, though it would bring $150,000 to the finder. There are also two Van Dykes and a Rembrandt missing, for which collectors are willing to pay $200,000. The Earl of Crewe would give a large sum for the return of a Cupid which some vandal cut from the portrait of the former Countess of Crewe and her son, who was painted as the sprite.

Presence of Mind.

Mme. Rachel, the great actress, was resting alone in her dressing room one night preparatory to going on the stage, when a man suddenly entered and, drawing a dagger, said he was going to kill her if she did not at once consent to marry him. The actress saw at once that the man was mad and meant what he said. So with the utmost coolness she replied: "Certainly I will marry you. I wish nothing better. Come with me to the priest at once; I have had him come here for the purpose." She took his arm and they went out together—to where there was assistance, of course, and the man was immediately put under arrest.

Heiresses Are Always Lovely.

The Heiress—But how can you love me when I am so cross-eyed?

The suitor—You're not cross-eyed, dear. Your eyes are so pretty that they can't help trying to look into each other—that's all.—Cleveland Leader.

What?

"Please, pa," pleaded Bobby, "just one more."

"All right," said pa, closing his book. "Well, say pa," began Bobby, "who is going to bury the last man that dies?"—Puck.

Not Living, Merely Boarding.

George—Are you living in New York now?

Ike—I'm boarding.—Atlantic Journal.
