Study in Roman Coins—Once in the world's history the senate was not supreme dictator of the nation's activities. Fifteen centuries before Christ in the Roman empire the senate had but the privilege of making copper money while Emperor Augustus coined the silver and gold. And there were other differences in tasks, says Professor Frederick Stanley Dunn of the University of Oregon, which showed that in those history times the head of the government was possessed of some powers which have since become obsolete. "A Study in Roman Coins of the Empire," has been recently issued in pamphlet form by Professor Dunn. It throws light on the development of the art, literature, religion, orthography, epigraphy and private life of the Romans by tracing the development of their coinage. The clear and succinct style of the discussion lends sparkling interest to what would otherwise be considered a dry subject.

Naturopaths Hold Meeting.—The annual meeting of the Oregon State Association of Naturopaths was held yesterday with Dr. W. E. Mallory presiding. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Dr. W. E. Mallory; first vice president, Dr. Vladimir K. Jindra; second vice president, Dr. J. D. Dunn; treasurer, Dr. A. Bertschinger; secretary, Dr. Philip T. Ball. These also constitute the board of examiners. Dr. Harvey W. Freeze, Dr. Anna G. Reynolds and Dr. J. D. Dunn were appointed auditing committee.

Joy Rides Ground for Divorce—Because he objects to joy rides and hilarity, of which his wife, according to his statements, is fond, Gerhard P. R. Fleicher has begun suit for divorce in the circuit court from Mary Fleicher. He says that his wife has told him he is not the kind of man for her, as he did not fall in with her gay notions. He alleges that she often visits roadhouses and is in the habit of becoming intoxicated. At such times, he asserts, she becomes quarrelsome and bestows bad names upon him. They were married at Delaware, Ohio, in March, 1907.

Marriage License Found—A lost marriage license, issued on November 27 and unused was returned to the office of the county clerk yesterday by F. Rose of 389 Third street, who picked it up on the street. It authorized the marriage of J. Tautfest to Dollie Seider. Tautfest was evidently discouraged by the loss of his license and did not invest in another, nor did he even report his loss to the county clerk. It is still good, and can be obtained by him by calling at the courthouse.

Will Build Brick Building—The 50 foot lot at the southwest corner of Third and Flanders streets was purchased yesterday by Otto W. Nelson for $36,500. Mr. Nelson will improve the site with a three story brick business house, construction work to begin in the early spring. The property formerly belonged to G. Friewald, who acquired it about six years ago for $21,000. Yesterday's sale of the property was negotiated through the agency of E. P. Mall.

Will Enforce Ordinance—Expectorating on the sidewalks will not be permitted in Portland. The police chief was ordered by Mayor Simon yesterday afternoon to see that the law is carried out. The mayor's instructions to Chief Cox were issued immediately following the receipt by him of a communication from the Visiting Nurses' association, asking him to enforce the ordinance.

Medicine Company Incorporates—Articles of incorporation of the Dr. G. W. Rogers Medicine company have been filed with the county clerk. It is formed to deal in poultry and stock medicines, dips and supplies, the incorporators being Dr. G. W. Rogers, Dr. M. D. Denney and Z. H. Zane, and the capital stock $5000.

Fails to Get License—C. Blazier's application for a license to operate a saloon at 233 Main street was rejected yesterday afternoon by the liquor license committee of the city council. The Valley cafe was a saloon, which was conducted at 233 Main. The council recently revoked the license of the saloon.

Chimney Cut His Leg—While C. B. John, a logger rooming at the California house at 63 Third street, was sitting on a window sill at the house, a lamp chimney nearby exploded, and cut a deep gash in his thigh. The man was taken to the Good Samaritan hospital. Danger of blood poison makes the wound in a serious condition.

Republicans Meet Tonight—The Portland Republicans will hold a meeting tonight at the Howe-Davis hall, 109 Second street. Judge George will preside and Charles B. Moores and Wallace McCamant will speak. Frank Hennessy will sing.

Gashed With Freight Hook—After quarreling all Monday with his working partner, John Nensen, while loading lumber on a coaster at the Linnton dock, Michael Lang attacked him last evening with a freight hook, cutting a three inch gash in his throat. The two men went to the saloon of John Carlson, Linnton, in the evening, and had several drinks. Nensen went out the door, where Lang had been waiting for some time. He sank the hook into his throat and chest several times. The injured man was attended by the police surgeon and Lang is held on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon in the city jail. The case will be heard Wednesday morning in municipal court.

Watch in for Repairs—George Grace, a potato broker, who was charged with larceny by Mrs. Nellie Bozarth, 946 Mississippi avenue, was discharged in municipal court this morning. He was accused of getting a gold watch from her November 4 and failing to return it. He said he had it in a jewelry shop for repairs and intended to return it. In passing upon the case, Judge Bennett said Grace had been playing close to the danger line, and that while his testimony on the stand was not taken to be absolutely true, the state failed to prove an intent to defraud. Grace has been in trouble before the municipal court a number of times.

Central W. C. T. U.—The subject of the Central W. C. T. U. Wednesday, 2:30 p. m., will be "Press Work." Miss Sarah Lyman will talk on "W. C. T. U. Press Work," and Miss Frances Gotshall on "The Value of the Press in Creating Temperance Sentiment." At room 302, third floor Goodnough building.

Steals $1 Watches.—Forty watches were stolen last evening from a front showcase in front of the store of William Halsman, 143 Third street. The work was done about 9:30 o'clock, and the thief escaped. The watches were valued at $1 each.

Christmas Posters Free.—Consumers' league posters urging early Christmas shopping, which merchants desire for display in their stores, may be obtained free of cost by applying to the office of the Young Woman's Christian Association.

To Christmas Shoppers.—Please buy your presents early; early in the day and early in December. That will be your biggest gift of the holidays—to the workers behind the counters and on the delivery wagons.—The Consumers' League.

DON'T FORGET TO BUY RED CROSS STAMPS

A Red Cross Merry Christmas stamp has been aptly named a bullet in the fight against consumption. A stamp costs one cent Or, a cent buys a bullet to fire straight at the vitals of the great white plague. But no ordinary bullet could perform the varied services of the Christmas stamp. It carries a warning against exposure to the disease, it carries a message of hope to the sufferer, its price aids the Visiting Nurses association in its work, its exhibition is a sign to all that loyal men and women are giving practical evidence of their devotion to the welfare of humanity by combining against humanity's greatest enemy. Don't fail to buy Red Cross stamps and help the cause, while at the same time identifying yourself with progressive people.

ONLY ONE IS INJURED BY EXPLOSION

Carbonic Acid Tank Falls From Wagon and Explodes, Shattering Plate Glass Windows in All Directions.

A carbonic acid tank dropped from a delivery wagon on Fourth street, near Washington, yesterday and exploded with a concussion similar to a nitroglycerine bomb and with a force that shattered all the windows in the vicinity. Four ambulances were on the spot in less than five minutes after the accident. One injured man was found, Charles F. Peterson, a house mover living at 890 East Tenth street, north. Three cuts on his face were dressed by Dr. J. J. Panton, Macleay building. The damage done windows and buildings is variously estimated at from $3000 to $5000.

The streets were crowded with afternoon shoppers when the explosion occurred. That many were not injured by flying pieces of the cast iron gas drum, many of which were hurled a distance of two blocks, is considered a miracle.

Dan Rust, an 18-year-old driver for the Portland Delivery company, 206 Washington street, took six carbonic acid tanks, each charged to a thousand pounds pressure per square inch, from the Columbia Supply company, 52 First street. He had made all the deliveries but one to saloons and drug stores. This tank bounded from the wagon when the wheels of the wagin, skidding on the slippery pavement, struck the curb violently.

"I was trying to get around a streetcar," said the boy last night, still hysterical from shock and fright. His employer, F. W. Metcalf, said:

"Dan came running back to the office, all excited and hysterical. I stopped to marvel that neither he nor the horse and wagon were injured, then I told him to go along to his home on the east side and rest up."

Shatters Plate Glass Windows.

Plate glass show windows were demolished in the United Cigar store, Leffert Brothers, Crawford Shoe company, on the south side of Washington street; Crown Dental Parlors, a saloon and lodging house on the north side of Washington, and in many of the office rooms of the Macleay building, on the southwest corner of Washington and Fourth.

The streets, crowded with pedestrians and vehicle traffic at the time of the explosion, were soon congested. Police coming hurriedly under command of Captain Moore of the detectives, put a rope barrier around the shattered store rooms. Quick repair work was done and by 7:30 p. m. it was found possible to resume ordinary traffic. Dr. Panton gave a realistic account of the accident as it affected the Macleay building. He aid:

"I was seated at the telephone when the heavy shock came coincidentally a heavy piece of iron crashed through the window. The fragment hit the ceiling and rebounded, just grazing my head. My office is on the fourth floor. Looking down I could see that offices in the third floor and second floors had become the object of anarchistic bomb throwing. Then I looked across the street to see the frightened delivery boy trying hard to free himself from the curious crowd."

Carbonic acid tanks, "cowboys," drums, cylinders, or by what name they may be known, weigh variously from 30 to 100 pounds. Cold has a peculiar crystallizing effect on the cast metal when the tank is charged and but a slight shock, comparatively, is required to produce an explosion. The tank which exploded last night weighed about 40 pounds unfilled.

Under Heavy Pressure.

Transportation of gas tanks, charged with carbonic acid gas for the use of soda water dealers, through the streets of the city is not dangerous under ordinary circumstances and conditions, according to dealers in these tanks.

The gas tanks are cylindrical tubes of wrought steel, one quarter of an inch in thickness, about eight inches in diameter and from four to six feet long. They are charged with carbonic acid gas at a factory in Oakland up to a standard pressure of 650 pounds to the square inch and are shipped by that factory to jobbing houses or distributing agencies over the coast. These charged tanks are then attached to the soda water tanks and the water in these tanks is charged according to the pressure desired and indicated by pressure dial on the water tanks.

Dealers in these gas tanks say that the explosion of yesterday must have been caused by the metal becoming crystallized by reason of the cold, so that when the tank fell from the wagon it was too brittle to withstand the jar and the pressure combined and consequently gave way. It is possible, however, that there may have been a flaw in the steel of the tank, which caused the steel to give way under the sudden jar.

Attorneys are somewhat divided on the subject of the liability for the damage done by the explosion. The concensus of opinion, however, seems to be that the distributing company will be held liable for the damage. The soda water dealer, it is argued, would not be liable for the tank until it had been delivered to him. It is argued that the express company might be liable provided it had a contract to deliver the tanks for the jobbing house, but if no such contract existed and the delivery was by piecework, then the jobbing house handling the tanks in the city can be held accountable for the damage done by the explosion.

City Attorney Kavanaugh believes that the city could make regulations governing the handling of these tanks so that there would be no danger to the public as they were carried through the streets. "Such a regulatory ordinance as might be required would be clearly within the power of the city council," Mr. Kavanaugh says.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

BY DRUSILLA DREW

(Social news is a daily feature of The Journal. Any one wishing to insert such news should send it signed to the society editor or telephone it before 10 o'clock in the morning.)

A most charming compliment was paid to Miss Failing yesterday afternoon when an eager crowd of beautifully gowned women braved the stormy weather to greet her at the Woman's Exchange. The tea yesterday was given in the nature of a housewarming for the attractive new quarters, and as a welcome to Miss Failing, the president, who has been abroad since eary spring. The rooms were most attractive with a holiday air pervading them. Christmas greens were in evidence, and a spirit of jollity and camaraderie that comes with the first snowstorm of the season, marked the company. The rooms were comfortably filled throughout the afternoon.

Miss Failing was radiant in a beautiful French gown of raisin color cut on simple lines with rich contrasting trimmings. Receiving with her were Mrs. Aaron Meier, Mrs. Philip C. Schuyler, Mrs. H. W. Corbett, Mrs. Charles Scadding, Mrs. Richard Koehler and Mrs. J. B. Montgomery. The tea table made a particularly effective bit of color in Christmas decorations. Interested women had lent their handsome silver service, and the table was beautifully lighted with candles shaded in red. Lovely quivering red jellies lent an old fashioned, homey touch at the same time as they carried out the color scheme. Mrs. L. Allen Lewis and Mrs. I. N. Fleischner poured at one end of the table, and Mrs. Sigmund Frank and Miss Mary Failing at the other end. Mrs. Lewis made a particularly effective picture with a brilliant scarlet tocque and a handsome scarf in the same color against the background of an Irish lace gown. Mrs. Fleischner was exceedingly handsome in a deep tone of lavender with a picture hat that toned into the same shades. Mrs. Frank wore a stunning French gown in dull green with a great deal of white about the bodice, with bands of gold and green in ornamentation. Miss Mary Failing wore a French gown of blending dark hues.

Asked to assist about the rooms were Mrs. Hunt Lewis, Mrs. David T. Honeyman, Mrs. Frank Branch Riley, Mrs. Guy Webster Talbot, Miss Florence Wolfe, Miss Ilse Koehler, Miss Frances Wilson, Miss Evelyn Wilson, Miss Muriel Williams, Miss Lella Shelby, Miss Flora Fleischner, Miss Dorothy Morrison, Miss Hazel Dolph and Miss Isabella Gauld. All were most attractively frocked in light colors.

The guests were invited to visit the consigners' room upstairs, where their wares were most attractively displayed. These were in charge of Mrs. George S. Whiteside, who was assisted by Miss Caroline Burns. In one corner their doll things made a most attractive display with beautifully dressed dolls and complete outfits for them. There was a case of home made candies, and a corner for preserves, jellies, pickles and the like, and a place for handsome garments. The women showed great interest in this phase of the work of the Women's Exchange. The tea was a charming success, marked with the spirit of good will.

The Fortnightly club had the third of its dances last night at Murlark hall, and although the weather was so stormy almost all of the members were in attendance. The club is made up of the most prominent married people among the younger set, and their dances are marked with cordial informality. Following the dance Mr. and Mrs. Alvord entertained the club at supper at their home on King's Heights. Covers were laid for about 50.

The season of Christmas bazaars is on in full sway. Last week their reign began, and there were several given in conjunction with luncheon, tea and dinner. Today and tomorrow St. David's parish house is opened to patrons of the guild, and a large number of friends have been calling there. The First Universalist church opened its bazaar today, which will continue through tomorrow.

BRAINS IN COMBINATION.—"With the individual you depend on the judgment of one man. With the corporation you depend on the judgment of a number of men. At least three men direct the corporation, and in all probability, five, seven or more. 'Two heads are better than one,' is a trite saying, but a true one. The safeguards arising from the use of brains in combination can be best illustrated by the following example. A Boston bank had recently occasion to trace out its old accounts and ascertain the history of its depositors. The startling fact brought to light, as a result of this examination, was that of 1000 accounts which were opened when the bank started, only 6 remained. The owners of the lapsed accounts had either failed or died destitute of property. The bank stood solvent, successful—994 of the merchants who had banked with it had failed.

"This is not an exceptional instance. The cruel logic of statistics tells us that there are 95 per cent failures in commercial business, and only 5 per cent in banking business."—Continued tomorrow.

A NEW DEPARTURE

The cost of interments have been greatly reduced by the Holman Undertaking company.

Heretofore it has been the custom of funeral directors to make charges for all incidentals connected with a funeral. The Edward Holman Undertaking company, the leading funeral directors of Portland, have departed from that custom. When casket is furnished by us we make no extra charges for embalming, hearse to cemetery, outside box or any services that may be required of us, except clothing, cemetery and carriages, thus effecting a saving of $25 to $75 on each funeral.
