MARHOFFER HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM LOSING OIL

Deck of Steamer Swept by Sea That Breaks Lashings of 250 Drums of Distillate While Crossing the Bar.

Loaded until she was almost down to the decks, the steam schooner J. Marhoffer had a narrow escape from losing her deckload of distilled oil drums, just as she was about to cross the bar last Tuesday, by reason of a large sea.

Captain Peterson said they had fine weather on the way up the coast from San Francisco, but there was a heavy swell all of the way. The steamer had a very heavy cargo and sat low in the water, in fact, she was almost down to the decks.

As she was about to cross the bar into the Columbia river, a larger wave than usual struck her, and sweeping over her decks, lifted 250 drums of distillate, raising them clear off the deck, breaking the lashings and then allowing them to fall back with a thud that jarred the whole vessel. Had another wave like the first one followed, the drums would have been washed overboard, according to the captain, as there was nothing left to hold them. As it was, they were soon over the bar and the deckload was safe.

The Marhoffer arrived at the Oak street dock yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, after discharging 270 tons of powder at Martins Bluff. Besides the powder and distillate she brought 400 tons of cement.

After discharging her cargo, the Marhoffer will go down to Rainier tonight to load lumber. She will finish her cargo of 750,000 feet of lumber for San Francisco at Klamath.

STEAMERS REPORT GALE.

Wireless Messages Received at Local Weather Office.

Wireless reports from steamers off the coast indicate that a very strong southeast gale is blowing, accompanied by high westerly swells. Reports at the local weather office show that the velocity of the wind at North Head was 38 miles, and at Tatoosh it was 36 miles from the east. It is blowing much harder at sea, however, and southeast storm warnings are still continued as the prediction is that it will continue to blow hard all day along the Oregon and Washington coasts, especially around Puget sound.

Wireless reports have been received from the following steamers:

Steamship Admiral Sampson (Wireless via North Head), Jan 12, 6 p. m.—Off Yaquina Head: Barometer, 29.90; temperature, 46; strong southeast wind; raining. Bartlett.

Steamship Asuncion (wireless via North Head), Jan. 12., 10 p. m.—Thirty miles northwest of Seal Rocks; barometer, 29.92; fresh south to southwest gale; clear; heavy head sea, with high westerly winds. George E. Bridgett.

The lumber schooner Virginia, plying between Columbia river points and San Francisco, for the Loop Lumber company, is lying off the mouth of the Columbia unable to get in because of the roughness of the bar. When she arrived off the river yesterday she had been out of San Francisco 12 days. The report this morning is that the bar is rough and that the wind is blowing east 30 miles an hour.

CONVOY LIGHT VESSEL NO. 92.

Tender Armeria Will Take Relief Ship to Umatilla Reef.

On her way down, the Armeria will deliver coal to lightvessels, No. 67, at Umatilla reef, and No. 88 at the mouth of the Columbia river. After discharging the coal, she will proceed to the buoy depot at Tongue Point, where she will pick up relief, No. 92, and will take her up to Umatilla reef to replace Umatilla reef lightvessel No. 67, while the latter is off the station for repairs.

Girl Is Hugged; Goes Insane.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Keokuk, Iowa, Jan. 13.—Lillie Nygren, 20 years of age, is in the state insane asylum today because her friends persisted in teasing her after they had seen her being hugged by a young man.

Miss Nygren was employed in a local factory. During the noon hour recently the factory "cut up" seized her and hugged her, against her will. Immediately the badgering on the part of her factory friends began. After she had left work yesterday, Miss Nygren's mind apparently became unbalanced. She was cared for by physicians, and today was adjudged insane.

To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

CIRCUIT JUDGE HANNA RESIGNS; EXTREME AGE

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)

Salem, Or., Jan. 13.—The resignation of H. K. Hanna, circuit judge in the First prosecuting attorney district of the First judicial district, which is Jackson and Josephine counties, was accepted by Governor Frank Benson this morning. Frank M. Calkins, a young attorney of Ashland, was appointed by the governor to fill the vacancy.

Judge Hanna is 80 years old and gives his extreme age as the reason for his action in resigning. His present term would have expired January 2, 1911. The resignation of the judge is the second one from the First district. Judge Henry L. Benson, brother of the governor, having also resigned last spring. Judge Benson presided in what is called the Second prosecuting attorney district of the First judicial district, or Klamath and Lake counties.

Judge for Twenty-five Years.

Judge Hanna has been a judge in the First district for the past 25 years. It is the second time that he has resigned during the period. About 10 years ago Judge Hanna refused to obey a mandate of the supreme court and was on the verge of being tried for contempt when he resigned. At the election following he was renominated and elected.

Frank M. Calkins, who is appointed to fill the vacancy, had the personal recommendation of a large number of southern Oregon attorneys. A large delegation is in Salem today for the purpose of making the recommendation. Mr. Calkins came to the district about nine years ago and was for a time a court reporter, afterwards studying law. He was admitted to practice and has been practicing for several years at Ashland.

WEATHER REPORT

Storm southeast warnings were continued at 7:15 a. m. at all stations in this district.

A storm of great energy is approaching the north Pacific coast; it will cause high winds with general rains and warmer weather in this district during the next 36 hours. A high pressure area with a barometer reading 30.92 inches at its center overlies the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains. A low pressure area is central over the middle Mississippi valley and the barometer is relatively high over the Atlantic states. Rain has fallen on the Washington coast and snow has occurred in many of the northern states east of the Rocky mountains, while in Missouri, the Ohio valley, Arkansas and portions of Texas heavy rain has fallen.

It is warmer in the south Atlantic and Gulf states, and colder in Kansas, Oklahoma, northern Texas, New Mexico and western Colorado.
