WANTS TO TAKE PART IN FESTIVAL

Sunnyside Push Club Appoints Committee to Arrange for Entrance.

Sunnyside would like to enjoy part of the success of the Rose Festival. The bustling east side community has applied to the management of the big entertainment for the privilege of doing something—anything that will add to the splendid success of the spectacular attraction.

A committee was appointed by the Sunnyside Push club last night to arrange for Sunnyside's place on the program, and to gather such assistance as may be necessary to make a proper showing for the community. Plans will be announced in a week or so.

The Push club is greatly agitated over the absence of playgrounds for the children and extra efforts are to be made to obtain land about the school house for amusement purposes. A committee has already arranged for the use of a block of ground as a baseball park by the Sunnyside school and Glencoe school, a citizen having contributed the use of the land in response to the urgings of the club.

Gives Ample Room.

This gives ample room for ball games during the summer, and it is hoped to have grounds provided at the school house before another year.

A committee consisting of J. T. Wilson, James M. Davis and S. W. Walker was appointed to urge upon the school board the need of buying the land adjoining the school house and now occupied by a livery stable. The promise has been made that the land would be purchased, and the committee will urge that the transaction be closed at once.

A committee has arranged for the survey of the Sunnyside Park for the purpose of ascertaining if space can be had for baseball games. The work will be done soon, and in the event that space can be had, baseball grounds will be laid out for the boys who are interested in the national game.

Kick Against Sweeping.

Business men along Belmont street, which is paved to Sixty-second, complain of the action of street car men sweeping cars in front of their places. Tripper cars are operated to Thirty-ninth street, and frequently they have discharged all passengers by the time Thirtieth street is reached. The refuse which has accumulated in the car is swept out, blowing about on the pavement, much to the disgust of merchants who try to keep their places clean. An appeal will be made today to the street car company to have the practice stopped.

In line with this "clean-up" policy goes a plan to have the pavement flushed on Saturday instead of Wednesday, as now scheduled. It is urged that the pavement should be thoroughly cleaned just before Sunday, when the street is a favorite thoroughfare for hundreds of people out for an airing.

The committee to make arrangements with the Rose Festival management consists of S. W. Walker, E. D. Curtis, H. A. Speer, C. W. Parrish, Rev. W. P. Easter and Charles Mantz.

Miss Hollister is making her initial bow in concert and Professor Glenn of the University of Oregon, has predicted great things musically for her. Miss Hollister's appearance is being awaited with interest. The concert is for the auditorium fund and is under the auspices of the Monday Musical club.

UNSOLD BONDS WERE RETURNABLE BY OREGON TRUST

company and cancel the certificates of deposit given to cover the bonds.

One Contract Disappears.

While the contract covering the handling of the $500,000 worth of Omaha bonds has been taken from the bank in some mysterious manner, it is practically known by the district attorney's office that it contained the same provisions as the other two contracts. Since it was entered into at a later date and the amount of the bonds to be sold was larger than both of the other contracts together, it is believed that the provisional date upon which the unsold bonds could be returned by the bank was much later than August 30, 1909.

When the bank failed, according to the theory of the district attorney's office, Wilde entered into a plan with Moore and Morris to get the depositors to take the bonds in settlement of their claims against the bank, well knowing the provisions in the contracts by which the bank had the right to return all unsold bonds and thus wipe out nearly $1,000,000 of indebtedness.

Liability Fixed on Bank.

By representing that the bank was the actual purchaser of the bonds it fixed the liability upon the institution. When the depositors took the bonds in exchange for their deposits Wilde and his associates were able to collect their commissions on the sale of bonds.

It is the contention of the district attorney's office that this was a fraud, pure and simple, upon the depositors of the bank and that it is an indictable offense.

The entire time of the next grand jury will be given over to an investigation of this phase of the well known Oregon Trust muddle until it is worked out and sifted to the bottom.

This interest of Wilde in the bank is said to be responsible for the mysterious $300,000 which was secured by P. L. Willis to pay the obligations of the German-American a short time ago under the terms of the agreement with the court by which the German-American was to pay dollar for dollar for all outstanding claims.

Mead Provides the Funds.

It is known that the $300,000 secured by P. L. Willis was deposited in the Anglo-London and Paris bank of San Francisco by William Mead, brother-in-law of Louis J. Wilde. Mead was in Portland for some time prior to the time when the German-American began its recent negotiations with the Clearing House association, as a result of which the association refused to aid the bank unless it would wind up its affairs and quit business. During that time he had several conferences with P. L. Willis, and later left for California.

Then word came that Mr. Willis had secured aid from California. This was by means of the $300,000 deposited in the San Francisco bank by Mead, and transmitted to the German-American by means of drafts drawn on some five or six of the well known Portland banks.

Thomas C. Devlin, receiver of the Oregon Trust, first learned of the provisions of the telephone bond contracts through which the unsold bonds could be returned to the National Securities company in December, 1907. At that time, however, the depositors had signed up for all of the bonds and the transaction was closed, according to the story told by Devlin to the district attorney.

BLACK AND RICH

Is the Way Postum Should Be.

A liquid food that will help a person break a bad habit is worth knowing of. The president of one of the state associations of the W. C. T. U., who naturally does not want her name given, writes as follows:

"Whenever I was obliged to go without coffee for breakfast a dull distracting headache would come on before noon. I discovered that, in reality, the nerves were crying out for their accustomed stimulant.

"At evening dinner I had been taught by experience that I must refrain from coffee or pass a sleepless night. While visiting a physician and his wife I was served with a most excellent beverage at their dainty and elegant table and upon inquiry, discovered that this charming beverage was Postum and that the family had been greatly benefited by leaving off coffee and using Postum.

"I was so in love with it, and so pleased with the glimpse of freedom from my one bondage of habit and so thoroughly convinced that I ought to break with my captor, that upon my return home I at once began the use of Postum and have continued it ever since.

"I don't know what sick headache is now, and my nerves are steady and I sleep sound, generally eight hours. I used to become bilious, frequently and require physic; now seldom ever have that experience.

"I have learned that long boiling is absolutely essential to furnish good Postum. That makes it clear, black and rich as any Mocha and Java blend. Please withhold my name, but you may use the letter for the good it may do."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

BRIDGE COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS ACTION

The bridge committee of the North East Side Improvement association held a meeting yesterday at which a report was adopted, recommending that the city proceed at once to condemn rights of way for the Broadway bridge and discontinue further negotiations with the railway interests. The substance of this report has been published before. It will be submitted to the association at its meeting tomorrow evening.

The committee appointed a subcommittee to examine the legislative act creating the Port of Portland with a view to ascertaining by what right the port gave the O. R. & N. Co. permission to place piers in the Willamette river. The opinion is held by some of the committee that the port exceeded its authority.

PLEADS GUILTY TO SIMPLE LARCENY

Charge Against Peterino Bartolomao Reduced Because of Precedent Set by Jury.

"In view of what a jury did last night, I am willing to allow the defendant in this case to plead guilty to simple larceny," said Deputy District Attorney Page to Judge Morrow in the circuit court this morning when the case of Peterino Bartolomao was called for trial. Bartolomao was charged with larceny from a dwelling, having been arrested as he was trying to sell a suit of clothing and other articles purloined from the house of Thomas Kiely on March 10.

The jury referred to by Page was the one that heard testimony yesterday in the case of John Petterson and George Mueller, two young Austrians, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon on Jim Tony, a Bulgarian. After deliberating nearly four hours the jury returned a verdict of simple assault.

Four witnesses in the case testified that Petterson and Mueller stabbed Tony, whose life was despaired of for some time. He was so dangerously wounded that his dying statement was taken. He was stabbed twice in the abdomen, once in the side and once on the head. Petterson and Mueller admitted they were in a north end saloon when the attack on Tony took place, but said they had nothing to do with it and did not know who did the stabbing. Petterson admitted throwing away a knife after the affray, saying he was afraid he would be accused of the crime.

In spite of the one-sided evidence, the jury refused to find a verdict in a greater degree than simple assault. The case was tried before Judge Cleland, who will pass sentence tomorrow morning.

In the Bartolomao case this morning Judge Morrow imposed a sentence of six months in the county jail. This is the minimum sentence for larceny.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF GEO. M. GAGE FRIDAY

Word has been received from Sacramento of the death of George M. Gage, well known in Portland. Mr. Gage was born in 1834 in Maine, and educated as a normal school specialist. He became superintendent of the Farmington Normal school in Maine, and later went to Minnesota, where he established the Mankato Normal school, the first normal school in the state. From that position he was called to the superintendency of the St. Paul schools, which position he held for many years. After his wife's death in 1896, he came to Portland to be with his son, B. W. Gage, and for many years has been associated with the Pacific Monthly, until his health failed at Christmas time. He leaves three children, Mrs. C. F. Tinker of Sacramento, B. W. Gage of this city, and Miss Frances C. Gage, National northwest secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association.

The services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at Holman's undertaking parlors. The services at the crematorium will be private.

HENPECKED HUSBAND IS TIRED OF NAGGING

Frank B. Rutherford, an attorney whose home is in Arleta, has endured all the nagging he can stand, he says, and he has filed a suit for divorce from Ella L. Rutherford. He says she has been a persistent nagger for five years, causing him much disturbance of mind and substantial financial loss.

Rutherford says his wife went to his law office and caused a scene by demanding he dismiss his clients, with whom he was consulting, to go to dinner with her. When he asked her to wait a few minutes, he says, she went out, slamming the doors behind her.

He tells of another time when Mrs. M. F. Kerby was a guest at his home in Arleta. His wife became angered because of his conversation with the visitor at the table, he says, and told him she should talk to her. To emphasize her point she left and remained away during the evening.

Rutherford asks for the custody of their two children, alleging his wife is not a proper person to care for them. They were married in San Francisco in August, 1893.

TWENTY MILLIONS IN LUMBER DEAL

Largest in Canada's History Put Through by Weyerhaeuser's Rivals.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

New Westminster, B. C., April 14.—A deal whereby the Frazer River Lumber company's mill and timber limits was sold to the Canada Western Lumber company was completed yesterday afternoon. The price for the whole business, including timber limits, was $20,000,000. Many of the old stockholders, including Mackenzie and Mann of the Canadian Northern railway, will remain in the new company. This is the largest timber deal in the history of Canada and the new corporation is a keen business rival of Weyerhaeuser for supremacy in the lumber world.

Health and Beauty Secrets

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

"Annie Laurie": Last week I referred to the new fashions of dressing the hair, and told an anxious inquirer what to do when she put away her puffs, rats and false braids. As all the women are now interested in this very live topic I will repeat the recipe for making quinine hair tonic that I gave. Get from your druggist one ounce of quinzoin, dissolve it in ½ pint of alcohol and add ½ pint of cold water. If you will gently rub this quinzoin tonic in the scalp and roots of the hair once or twice a week, you will find the treatment not only refreshing, but invigorating and nourishing. It restores the hair and scalp to a healthy condition and keeps it healthy. Quinzoin is just splendid for preventing dandruff and irritation of the scalp and its regular use will keep your hair from coming out. It puts life into the hair and heightens its natural color, although it will not change it. It keeps the hair fine and glossy.

J. M. S.: You say you are unable to find a face powder that will protect your complexion from the wind. You can make an inexpensive complexion wash at home that is far superior to any powder, for it will not rub off, streak or clog the pores of the skin. Get from your druggist 4 ounces of spurmax and dissolve it in ½ pint of hot water, adding 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This lotion will make your sallow and oily skin look fresh and youthful. It is splendid also for pimples, tan, freckles and cold sores, for it keeps the complexion soft, smooth and velvety.

Mrs. A. V.: You are not alone in your misery. Spring always finds thousands of women who are troubled with superfluous flesh gained during the inactive life of winter. Here is a simple and harmless remedy that will not only stop the accumulation of flesh, but will reduce your weight if you are too fat. Just get from your druggist 4 ounces of parnotis, dissolve it in a pint of hot water and take a tablespoonful before each meal. I have a friend who "takes off" about ten pounds in a few weeks every spring with parnotis—and she says she feels better for doing it.

Ella W.: The large pores and blackheads that cause you so much embarrassment are probably caused by the use of face powder. Almozoin cream jelly is the best remedy I know for clearing the skin of blackheads, large pores and those little skin pimples that are so annoying. You can make it yourself. Get from your druggist one ounce of almozoin, mix it with 2 tablespoonfuls of glycerine and add ½ pint of water. Stir briskly for a few minutes and let stand over night. You can use this safely either as a massage or cold cream, as it contains no fats nor oils that will cause hair to grow. For massaging, apply with the fingers and let remain for a minute or two, and then rub gently with the fingers. It will roll the dirt and grime out of the skin and thoroughly cleanse the pores. In cases of tan, freckles, chapped face, etc., apply and let remain for a few hours.

E. J. T.: You must not expect too much from the kardene topic I gave you a recipe for a year ago. You say it helped you last spring, but that you are suffering from the same "tired out," languid feeling now and that your complexion is sallow and spotted with pimples. You are probably one of the millions of people who need a tonic every spring to purify the system and rid the blood of impurities accumulated during the winter, when people live indoors and eat too much meat and too few vegetables. Get from your druggist one ounce of kardene, mix it with ½ cup of sugar and ½ pint of alcohol, and add enough water to make a full quart. Take one tablespoonful five minutes before each meal and before retiring. This inexpensive tonic will do again what it did for you last year. It purifies the blood and your pimples and ugly blotches will soon disappear. It also acts beneficially upon the stomach and liver and strengthens and builds up the entire system.

L. S.: If you think eye glasses detract from your appearance, why don't you try to do without them? You can make an eye tonic that will strengthen your eyes and help them if they are dull and listless, tire easily and are inclined to become inflamed. Just get from your druggist an ounce of crystos and dissolve it in a pint of water. This eye tonic will not smart or burn. It is used by many society women and actresses whose eyesight is perfect, but who wish to make their eyes bright and sparkling.

"Vanity Fair": Don't do it again. That is the trouble with most soaps and ready-prepared shampoos and you can blame the light streaks in your hair to your mistake. If you want to restore life and color to your dry, dull and brittle hair, shampoo with canthrox and use quinzoin hair tonic. When ready for your shampoo, just dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water and proceed as you would with any other shampoo. It lathers freely, cleans the hair and scalp thoroughly and relieves itching head. It dries quickly and leaves the hair bright, soft and fluffy. You can get a canthrox shampoo at almost any hairdresser's, but the cost is only a trifle when taken at home. For making quinzoin hair tonic see answer to "Annie Laurie."
