The principal area of low pressure is apparently central off the New England coast, covering the North Atlantic states, and a shallow depression overlies the extreme Southwest. The remainder of the country is covered by a great high pressure area, the center of which is in Montana. This high pressure area is accompanied by a rapid fall in temperature, amounting to from 10 degrees to 34 degrees over a belt reaching from Alberta and Northeastern Washington to Colorado. The temperature is much lower also in the North Atlantic states. Freezing weather extends almost to the Gulf of Mexico, and zero temperature reaches southward over Colorado and Nebraska. The lowest temperature reported is 32 degrees below zero at Billings, Mont. Precipitation has occurred at a number of stations on the North Pacific coast, in the northern Rocky mountain, Plains, and North Atlantic states.

Relative humidity at Portland: Noon yesterday, 70 per cent; 5 p. m. yesterday, 60 per cent; 5 a. m. today, 98 per cent.

INMATES OF HOTEL FORCED TO SUBMIT TO BEING VACCINATED

When residents of the Congress hotel, Sixth street near Main, started out Friday morning to go to their varying places of employment, a sturdy policeman barred the way.

"The place is under quarantine," he announced. "No one leaves until all are vaccinated."

Then arose a hubbub. Many protested against the principle of vaccination. Some without especial anti-vaccination scruples protested because of the inconvenience. But the policeman was under orders and orders were to be obeyed.

Presently Health Officer Parrish appeared, aided by a group of other doctors. Followed then a period of wholesale "shots in the arm."

To those objectors who still refused to submit, the order was "quarantine in their rooms."

It appeared late in the morning that all had finally capitulated to the health board's order.

The cause of the turmoil was the discovery of a case or two of smallpox at the hostelry. The immediate victims were quietly taken to the isolation hospital, the rooms were fumigated and the other inhabitants of the hotel were given the preventive injections.

Mrs. Roelfs' Estate Is Ordered Divided Between 136 Heirs

According to final adjustment of the estate of Mrs. Elizabeth Roelfs, who died more than eight years ago, Judge Tazwell ordered Friday afternoon that the property, then appraised at $73,077, be divided among 136 heirs on a proportionate basis.

This means, according to an elaborate set of proportions, that the heirs will receive anywhere from one twenty-eighth of the estate to one four thousand five hundred and sixtieth. This figures out to only a few cent in the minimum instances, to several thousands in the maximum.

It is estimated that the estate has increased in value since the original appraisals were filed in March, 1912, to about $85,000. The suit was brought by Mrs. Elizabeth Heller, one of the heirs, to determine who of many cousins should come under the provisions of the will.

She Who Financed His Courtship Asks Refund in Heart Suit

Amanda Jones filed suit Friday for $10,000 against Mike Kumels, for breach of promise. She asserts Kumels is a man of independent means, due largely to money given him by her. Their courtship, she says, lasted from July, 1919, to January, 1920, when Kumels broke it up.

Lydia Ostrand filed suit for $10,000 damages against Railroad Director Hines for personal injury. She says she was employed as a cook and that the car in which she worked was bumped by an engine, inflicting severe injuries on her.

Toledo Building Razed

Toledo, March 6.—The Siletz pool hall burned to the ground Friday morning at about 1:30 o'clock, the building and contents being a total loss. The building was owned by Joe Kosydar and was occupied by Crawford & Kellers' pool hall and confectionery and by Thomas' barber shop.

25,000 More Rooms Wanted for Shriners To Be Here in June

The Shriners are calling for residential rooms to accommodate 25,000 more visiting delegates to the Shrine convention in June. Slightly more than 5000 accommodations have been listed with the general committee, while each mail brings requests for hundreds of rooms. A part of the Shriners who volunteered to canvas a portion of the city have never yet reported back to the committee.

An elaborate card index system by which every room and every delegate is at finger tips avoids any confusion in the assigning of rooms. The Portlander is notified weeks ahead just who his guest will be and when he may expect him.

Safe Belonging to Hillsboro Man Is Found Dynamited

A safe that had been dynamited was found Friday in a little canyon about one fourth of a mile north of the Oswego city foundry, Dunthorpe. The safe is the property of Mark L. Sears, Hillsboro. It was identified by means of papers left by the robbers in the pigeon holes. Sears had reported the loss of the safe to Hillsboro police, but said no money was in it at the time it was stolen from his bicycle repair shop.

The safe, which weighs 300 pounds, was brought to Dunthorpe in a Ford, according to the belief of people in the neighborhood. The number of the machine was 19946. The car with this number belongs to a Mr. Molten and was reported stolen in Portland recently.

WOMAN WOUNDED BY GUN SHOT IN FAMILY QUARREL

A fierce family quarrel in the home of M. F. Corbett, 1111 East Thirty-fifth street north, culminated this morning when Mrs. Mary Corbett, 56 years of age and the mother of seven children, was accidentally shot in the right arm by her husband. Since the 20-year-old son Charles returned from war the father and son have been continually quarrelling, according to the story told Captain Moore by Corbett.

"He threatened me almost every day," said the father. "I often went to my bedroom to keep away from him."

This morning Charles is said to have ordered his younger brother around unnecessarily. The father remonstrated with him. Charles is then said to have jumped on his father, at which the parent seized the gun from out of the bureau drawer. Mrs. Corbett jumped between the two men and separated them.

Corbett then walked toward another room with the gun. As he was entering the other room his wife touched him on the back. "I thought it was my son jumping on my back," Corbett said, "and I pulled the trigger." Neighbors rushed in and took the gun away. When Patrolman Tully arrived he arrested the father. The son had left. Tully sent Mrs. Corbett to St. Vincents hospital in the Ambulance Service company machine. Corbett has been employed as a passenger train oiler in the N. P. Terminal yards for 25 years. The police turned the entire matter over to the district attorney.

Multnomah Members To Have 'Day in Air'

The airplanes of the Oregon-Washington & Idaho Airplane corporation will be for the exclusive use of members of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club Sunday afternoon in what is to be known as "Multnomah club day" at the company's hangars at Guilds lake. The idea of having a "Winged M" day was suggested to the board of directors of the club by Sidney L. Goodwin, editor of the Winged "M" Bulletin and it was sanctioned. When Oliver K. Jeffrey, assistant manager of the Oregon-Washington & Idaho corporation, was approached about the matter it received his hearty indorsement. Special rates will be given to members and their relatives.

Myers Goes East; Ex-Postmaster to Visit Washington

Frank Stott Myers, former Portland postmaster, is en route east on a business trip that will finally land him in Washington, D. C., where, friends believe, he may appear with a demand for a hearing on the charges that brought about his discharge by Postmaster General Burleson some weeks ago.

Myers departed from Portland Tuesday morning, bound for New York city, and with a plan to go to Washington before he returns to Portland. He had previously been advised that a hearing on the charges against him could not be automatically provided for unless he personally demanded such a hearing. Harry Durand, deposed as assistant postmaster when Myers was unseated, returned from Washington recently.

Small Change Had No Attraction for 'Holdup Suspect'

Disgusted with the insignificant amount of the alleged loot, Roscoe McFarlane, 23, turned on his heels and left the store of George Jan, a Chinese merchant at 287 Everett street, after holding up the Oriental at the point of an automatic Friday afternoon and demanding his purse, according to the story told to police.

The fact that McFarlane scorned the handful of silver coins proffered him by the merchant did not save him from arrest. He was followed by the Chinese, who caused Sergeant Gouldstone and Patrolmen Hensen and Calavan to arrest McFarlane at 52 North Third streets on charges of assault and attempt to rob. Bail was set at $2000.

Mrs. Flora E. Nobles Dies at Home Here

Mrs. Flora E. Nobles, 541 Marguerete avenue, died Friday of heart disease and paralysis. She was the mother of Mrs. Leo V. Jenkins, wife of Chief of Police Jenkins. She resided in Portland for 25 years. Mrs. Nobles is survived by four children.

GET JURY TO TRY ALLEGED REDS IN PORTLAND COURT

With Richard Martin Jr., an architect, proving acceptable to both sides, the jury which is to try three members of the Communist labor party in Portland, charged with criminal syndicalism was completed late Friday afternoon.

Judge Morrow delivered the preliminary instructions to the jurors, they were sworn in and dismissed until 9:30 Monday morning, when the attorneys will make their opening statements and the introduction of evidence will begin.

Of the 12 men accepted five belong to labor organizations connected with the American Federation of Labor, while one is a member of the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen. Selection of the jury has consumed the larger part of a week. The presentation of evidence and final arguments, it is estimated, will take from a week to 10 days longer.

The jury in whose hands the fate of Karl W. Oster, Fred Frye and Claude Hurst, the accused, rests, is composed of the following named:

John Q. Adams, conductor for the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, 1784 East Fourteenth street.

Richard Martin Jr., architect, 455 Hassalo street.

Guy McGreer, proofreader for Bushong & Co., Northrup Acres.

L. F. Berheide, millwright, 1626 Haven street.

Hugh Hayden, Morgan building superintendent, 1245 East Taggert street.

James C. Douglass, conductor for the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, 4958 Seventy-second street southeast.

J. V. Guthrie, traveling salesman, Harley-Davidson company, 398 East Thirty-eighth street north.

E. W. Endicott, foundation engineer, Northwest Steel company, 1557 East Everett street.

John Joos, retired farmer, 600 East Twentieth street.

Frank L. Dumas, printing pressman, 95 East Seventeenth street north.

Robert Lutke, Lutke Manufacturing company, 301 Twenty-fourth street north.

Adolph Wik, stationary engineer, Eastern & Western Lumber company, 659 Savier street.

Labor Indorses Plan To Obtain $35,000 For Pisgah Colony

At its regular meeting this week the Central Labor council went on record as fully in accord with the Pisgah colony's efforts to raise $35,000 for the care of the old folks of Oregon. Mother Lawrence made a stirring appeal to the union men assembled, saying: "We must have the money. Old folks at home week gave us less than $5000—not a drop in the bucket. Why, there are over 50 old people waiting until Oregon makes it possible for them to have a home. Oregon just has to come through. The campaign will continue."

And Mother Lawrence has set her jaw and with a desperate feeling for her dependent charges is going out for that money. Today she is repeating her tag day of last Saturday. Portland gave the old folks of Oregon less than $600 that day—not enough to care for one person.

The Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen has given its unqualified indorsement of the campaign after a thorough investigation by Dr. Tharaldsen, field officer.

Rain Minimum for February Lowest of Record in Portland

Less rain fell in Portland in February, 1920, than in any preceding February since the United States weather bureau was established in Portland 39 years ago according to records compiled for the month.

On one day only during the month did rain fall in sufficient quantities to be gauged by weather experts and on four other days a few drops of rain were scattered over the district, as the usual rain bearing clouds hurried over to new haunts.

A total of .16 of an inch fell on that one day, and this represents the total precipitation for the month, or 5.76 inches less than normal. January, also, was a dry month and that puts Portland 7.42 inches of rain behind the normal precipitation for the year.

The highest temperature during the month was 60 degrees and the lowest 20 degrees.

The Dead-Line of Sedition

"It ought to be a simple matter," an Indiana editor remarks, to mark and brand the real seditionist. But it is not a simple matter apparently for Congressmen to devise a measure which will satisfy at once those who fear that our institutions will be overthrown by seditious propaganda, and those afraid they will be undermined by interference with civil liberties. In order to help Congress find out what kind of legislation the people really want, if any, we have asked a large number of newspaper editors to set down the provisions they think a sedition act ought to contain.

THE LITERARY DIGEST for March 6th presents these opinions, and taken as a whole, gives a constructive basis upon which to build. While the Dayton News believes that "public meetings where the government of the United States is attacked and insulted should be stopped everywhere and those who persist in traitorous activities should be jailed, fined or deported, as the case deserves," the Kansas City Star declares that "additional legislation is more dangerous than soap-box oratory or foolish publications." Running between these two extreme viewpoints, the article in THE LITERARY DIGEST reflects a wide field of public opinion.
