Each secured release on $250 bail. The police seized a small quantity of wine as evidence. Henrietta Peyronon of 28 North Third street was arrested on a similar charge after John Johnson and Robert Gunderson were found drunk in her house. She was released on $500 bail. George Clark and John Reardon were arrested at Second and Couch streets and charged with violation of the prohibition law. Each had a small amount of liquor, police say.

Open-Air Jubilee Planned — Sophomores at Reed college have planned an open-air jubilee and bonfire for Friday evening, which will start spring vacation in fine style. James Hamilton, sophomore president, has issued decrees which are getting work from committees on food, music and stunts, and the whole class will fail in Friday afternoon to collect fuel for the fire, which will threaten all of Eastmoreland, according to unofficial reports. Dinner in the Reed commons will be abandoned and the picnickers will dine under the sky in the delightful evergreen grove by Crystal Springs lake. The evening will be spent in song. The event ends the Reed social events until after the vacation, when the women's party is scheduled.

Convicted Bootleggers Fined — One hundred dollar fines were imposed on three convicted bootleggers Monday by Municipal Judge Rossman. Ex-Service Men Are Urged to Reinstate War Risk Insurance

Vocational training and war risk insurance reinstatement opportunities were explained Monday night to a number of ex-service men at Central library hall, when Fred B. Hamilton and Bradley T. Fowlkes of Seattle spoke.

Government insurance costs from 10 to 20 per cent less than the insurance offered by commercial companies, Fowlkes said. He urged every ex-service man who has allowed his insurance to lapse to reinstate it before July 1. This may be done by calling at state American Legion headquarters in the Morgan building.

A motion picture entitled "Uncle Sam," showed workings of the great war risk bureau.
