Subsidy Is So Near to Completion That There Is Now Searcely a Chance of Failure.

The people of St. Johns and surroundings are jubliant over the favorable prospects for the establishment of a great $25,000 iron and shipbuilding plant on the water front of that place within the next two years by Wolff & Zwicker. As a result of their efforts this company has bonded the 90-acre tract of A. L. Minar and also three and a half acres of river frontage directly in front of the town formerly occupied by the barrel factory. In addition to these bonded and purchased properties, the company has received in the day they were joined by the party from Salem, headed by Governor Geer.

The log cabin, Native Sons of Oregon, in Butteville, was formally received into the grand cabin, with appropriate exercises, yesterday afternoon. The grand lodge organizere, composed of Grand President Soi Blumauer, Grand Secretary Eugene D. White and Grand Lecturer Fred Saylor, left Portland on the aleamer Altona at 7 A. The log cabin built especially for head-quariers of the new lodge was dedicated in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. In addition to the land transactions the people have undertaken to raise a subsidy of about one-third of the gathering, the prople have undertaken to raise a subsidy of $20,000, of which sum something over $18,000 has been secured, and it is considered certain that the full amount will be raised. The conditions are that Wolff & Zwicker shall establish a plant at St. Johns, costing $250,000, within two years' time, and shall commence the erection of this plant within one year.

Since the Decembecher factory falled to be located at St. Johns the people there have been bestirring themselves at a lively rate. They have worked as a united whole and with great energy and enthesiasm.

He spoke mainly about fact that they have about completed the the connection of Butteville with the hisbonus shows that they have not been tory of the state. The Governor said it wasting their energy. The subscribers to was particularly interesting history to him, this subsidy are required to sign the foilowing paper with the amount of their sub-scriptions attested before a notary:

Governor Geer graph-ically described that historic assemblage, adding that but one man who was at that congress now lives to tell the tale, and that is F. X. Mathieu, after whom the new camp is named. The speaker closed by paying a glowing tribute to that man and the other stanch ploneers of the state.

F. M. De Witt, representing Abernethy's cabin. No. 1. of Portland, sprang a surprise by presenting the new lodge with a handsome gold medal for Joseph La Bonte, the oldest Native Son in Oregon. Mr. La Bonte, who lives at St. Paul, about 10 milee from Butteville, was born in As-toria, September, 1818. His father, a French-Canadian, came to Oregon from St. Louis with the trading firm of Louis & Hunt. Joseph, though now in his $2d year, is still hale and hearty, and shows no signe of feebleness. He performs his regular duties on his sister's farm, and is able to do as much work as any man on the place. He is rarely ill, though he has survived his wife and all his children. He showed as much joy on the presenta-tion of the medal as a 10-year-old boy. This concluded the programme, and the Portland and Salem delegations left Butteville for home amid the cheers of the populace. The new cabin starts out with a large membership and every indicatio

TRAVEL HEAVIER THAN EVER Madison-Street Bridge Relieving Morrison of Congestion.

Tenm travel over Madison-Street bridge is heavier than it was before being for repairs last Fall, according to Superintendent Keith, and so Morrison-Street bridge has been relieved of a large pro-portion of its burden. Madison-Street bridge is favored by teamsters whenever practicable, as its ease of approach and greater width insure its patrons more comfort and less danger. Besides this, street-cars do not cross the upper bridge so often, and teamsters do not have drive zig-zag so much in keeping out of the way. The Madison-Street bridge draw will be the next thing to engage the attention of Multnomah County Commission according to City Engineer Chase, who was viewing the old swinging deck yesterday. "It looks pretty wobbly," he said. "It will need to be renewed, and

The cost of rebuilding the stationary portions of this bridge amounts to about $35,000, Mr. Chase says, and a new draw will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000. The time required for rebuilding the draw, according to Mr. Keith, would be about 28 days. Travel would be entirely suspended during that time, as the draw could not be swung, and so would have

AT THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY Several Valuable Relies Received

During the Week. Several interesting accessions have been secured during the past week at the His torical Society's rooms, City Hall build-ing, among them the following: A pair of tailor's shears weighing two pounds and four ounces, made in London, England, and brought to Oregon on the first English vessel that sailed up the Columbia River to Vancouver after the founding of the Hudson's Bay Company's establishment there. In 1847 the shears were sold by the owner, a Scotch tallot named Macshall, to Edward Chambreau also a tailor, and in the early years in the employ of Pat Raleigh and William Cree, in this city, who gave a pony in exchange, which was valued at $15 in gold coin. Also a pair of Spanish spurs that were brought to Vancouver in 1847 by Spanish John—a mestizo—who became the owner in San Jose, Cal., in 1832. Both articles were placed in the custody of the ociety by Mr. Chambreau. The library department of the Historical Society has received valuable accessions during the past month, among others a series of pamphlets aggregating 8000 to 10,000 pages of reports of Canadian ar-chives from Dougias Brymner, LL. D., F. R. S. C., the archivist of the Canadian Government at Ottawa. These cover a of the dispatches and orders in the French and Indian War, the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812, from the Domin standpoint; also frequently refer to the Northwest Fur Company and the Hul-

Another Valuable and Interesting Addition to the City Museum.

Another interesting and valuable addition has been made to the City Museum by L. L. Hawkins. Mrs. C. A. Kalus, living at Tenth and Couch streets, has loaned to the museum for a considerable time a splendid collection of beetles, bugs and butterflies. The bugs are of the greatest value as an entomological study, and represent an amount of pains taking, intelligent work, poorly suggested by the small space in which they are arranged. Mrs. Kalus' husband has always been a most enthusiastic entomolo-gist. A German by birth, and a man of wide travels, his opportunities for pursu-ing this hobby have been great. For the past 15 years he has assiduously gathered strange and new species of bugs, particu-larly those of brilliant coloring or possessing unusual interest. The result is a splendid display of gaudy little insects, some of which are armed with legs and arms of a startling length and formi-dableness for attack or defense. It is rare that a resident of this country be-holds beetles larger than a good-sized mouse, and rarer still to behold one armed with a beak resembling the weapon of a

Mrs. Kalus, to whom her husband had given the collection, has loaned it to the museum, that all studying insects may have the advantages of seeing it, espe-cially school children. The insects are not arranged or classified, but have been placed in the case for the purpose of pro-ducing the best effect. The symmetry with which colors correspond and sizes with which colors correspond and sizes balance gives the collection the appear-ance of a picture. Mr. Kalus knows the history, habits and peculiarities of each, which forms a fund of information thrilling to even the most apathetic. Up in the corner is a big tarantula, and immedi below it a tarantula hawk. Down in Southern California and the seople are familiar with the method by which this bright-winged bee destroys the most formidable of poisonous in sects, and utilizes the carcass for hatching the conqueror's young. This is but an illustration of two insects, and Mr. Kalus can go to each and tell some thing almost equally entertaining and instructive. Besides the bugs there are two cases of butterflies, and one box with a mammoth butterfly from Manila, P. I. This fine specimen, called Atirus, measures 10 inches from tip to tip, and is probably one of the largest butterflies preserved in any collection of the world. One of the cases contains an unusually choice assortment of rare butterflies of brillian colorings, while the other is but little be hind it in merit. While this collection is in the muse it will be worth the time of all the chil-dren, as well as older persons, to visit and inspect it thoroughly.

He alleges that he has since paid the Catlin judgment, and, while the amounts are all entered on the judg-ment docket, it requires considerable com-putation to ascertain that all has been paid. TO BLAST A BIG ROCK.

Government Will Remove One Danger at the Coquille Entrance.

The various Government works alon the coast of Oregon, under charge of Captain W. W. Harts, are progressing favor-ably. The entrance to and the channel of Coquille River are about to be greatly improved. The Government dredge and snagpuller, which has been laid up in Coos Bay, has been put in commission, and is on her way to the Coquille to blast out a pyramid-shaped rock at the en-trance. This rock is 40 to 50 feet in diameter at the base, and runs up to a jagged point, which at low water is only a foot or two below the surface. Captain Harts proposes to drive some piles alongside the rock and construct a platform over it, on which a drilling machine will be placed. By means of this, a large number of holes will be drilled in the rock, and these will be charged with dynamite and this will be exploded by means of an electric but-tery, the platform and workmen having been first removed, and the rock will thus he blown to pieces. The larger pieces will be removed by means of the snagpuller, and thus a dangerous impediment to the navigation of the Coquille will be disposed of. The river will then be thoroughly snagged to the head of navigation and some half-dozen bars between Myrile Point and Arago dredged, and the navigation put in the best possible condition with the funds available.

The improvement at the head of Tillamook Bay, by building dykes to cut a channel through Dry Stocking Bar, hav-ing proved a failure, a channel is now being dredged there, and in doing this a deposit of breigh and debris has been diecovered which explains why the dykes proved ineffective. It is considered quite certain that when the channel has been cut through the bar, the dykes will prove effective in keeping it clear and thus insure permanent improvement, giving II feet of water at high tide. way were washed away by a storm, but they have been replaced, and the tramway is out 250 feet, half the length of the proposed extension of the jetty. The tramway at the Siuslaw has been extended 120 feet, and the enrockment will be commenced at once. The south jetty at Coquille has been built out more than half its proposed length and the rock de-posited to the full height.
