Colleges to Aid Veterans—University of Oregon, Oregon Agricultural college and McMinnville college have agreed to aid the war department in giving higher education to qualified soldiers upon discharge from the army, the first two schools by free tuition and other aids, and McMinnville by cooperating as far as possible. The colleges were asked by the department if they would be willing to establish a free scholarship or give other assistance to one man each year who had served in the army.

Will Hear Dr. Bowman—Dr. H. L. Bowman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will be the speaker at the Men's Resort meeting Sunday at 4 p. m. J. Shearer will sing and the orchestra will play. A feature will be congregational singing. The meeting at 8 p. m. will be conducted by the Rev. Levi Johnson, and on Wednesday night the San Grael society will hold its monthly meeting.

A. L. Barbur Should Be Reelected—He has always made good. His career has been one of solid performance, not promises. He has represented no class nor interest but the people as a whole. He has stood out for economy, and saved the taxpayers thousands of dollars. He has made the municipal paving plant a fact and factor. Vote 101 Yes and reelect A. L. Barbur as city commissioner. —Paid Adv. by J. J. Johnson.

Opposes Anti-Vaccination Bill—The Portland Osteopathic society meeting Friday evening cast a unanimous vote as opposed to the anti-vaccination bill, No. 313. "This bill is a menace to public health for the reason that it does away with all present public health and quarantine laws," the society holds. Plans were made for a series of five special clinics to be held in Portland during the coming winter months.

Harvest Services at S. A. Hall—Tonight and Sunday special harvest thanksgiving services will be held in the Salvation Army hall, 243 Ash street. The night services will be at 8 o'clock, with additional services at 11 a. m. and 3:15 p. m. Sunday. Sunday afternoon a united service will be conducted by Ensign George Hunter. Monday a special demonstration will be given, followed by a sale of fruit and vegetables.

To Show Forestry Films—Four new forest service films are to be shown Sunday at Atkinson Memorial Congregational church, the Oregon City Congregational church and the Fourth Presbyterian church. Friday night they were shown at Unity Presbyterian church. The pictures are entitled, "The Work of the Forest Ranger," "Logging Lodge Pole Pine," "The Grazing Industry on the National Forests" and "Reforestation."

3240 Visits Paid Soldiers—Injured ex-service men in homes and hospitals of the city were paid 3240 visits during the past year by nurses of Portland chapter of the American Red Cross, according to the report of Miss Grace Phelps, assistant to the president, made public Friday. The life saving corps organized last May succeeded in saving 36 lives of swimmers in the river or local pools, it was asserted.

Colored Scholar to Speak—William Pickens, New York, colored scholar, is in the city to lecture Monday night at Lincoln high school. Pickens, a Yale graduate, spoke to the student body of Reed college Tuesday noon. His subject Monday will be "Inter-Racial Cooperation." The meeting is public.

To Mourn Patriot's Death—Memorial exercises for the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney and comrades will be held Sunday evening in Hibernia hall, 340 Russell street, at 8 o'clock. Thomas Mannix will be chairman. The meeting will be addressed by John R. Murphy, Rev. Michael Wallace and John O'Hara.

Plan Examination Of Every Child in Buckman Classes

Intensive plans for school nursing at the Buckman school have been made by the public health nursing division of the University of Oregon and the municipal bureau of health, involving the physical examination of every child with recommendations to the parent as to treatment when needed.

A committee composed of Dr. Edna Ames, in charge of the school nursing division of the health bureau; T. J. Gary, principal at Buckman; Miss Hartley of the state bureau of school nursing; Marion G. Crowe, superintendent of visiting nurses' association, and Ellnora E. Thomson, director of the public health nursing division of the University of Oregon, will carry out the plans. Miss Laura Vogel, trained nurse, will be in direct charge of the work.

Portland Assured Full Recognition From Navy Bureau

Assurance that the navy department would take greater cognizance of Portland in future cruises of the fleet was received this morning by the Chamber of Commerce in a letter from Admiral Thomas Washington, head of the bureau of navigation. Admiral Washington recently visited this district.

"I shall take up the question with the chief of naval operations who has cognizance of matters pertaining to the movement of vessels of the navy and I trust that in the future Portland will get its full portion of such visits," says the admiral.

"It is expected that one of the Eagle boats will shortly arrive in Portland for the use of naval reservists," says Washington in conclusion.

DRAMA LEAGUE SCORES IN FAVOR AT FIRST SHOW

The Portland Drama league opened its season Friday evening at the Little Theatre with the production of three one-act plays which offered an opportunity of a wide range of dramatic presentation. George Natanson, director of the league players, appeared in each sketch and was received with enthusiasm.

"The Wonder Hat," an appealing fantasy by Ben Hecht and Kenneth C. Goodman, opened the program, with Paul Hutchinson as Harlequin, George Natanson, as Pierrot, E. H. Horton as Punchinello, Aurita Payson as Columbine and Muriel Thomas as Margot. Horton's presentation of the old vendor, Punchinello, held the attention of the audience and was the outstanding bit of dramatic artistry in the play, which, however, was unusually pleasing and well presented.

In "Funiculi Funicula,'" by Rita Wiehman, the glimpse of a trying episode in the lives of two temperamental and helplessly impractical young artists, Mrs. John Leader, playing with George Natanson, made the picture live. The story is that of an unmarried mother, who has learned that sacrificing for her child is a greater task than she is equal to.

Mrs. Leader displayed exceptional dramatic gifts, and presented her part with complete understanding.

The third play was "Suppressed Desires," in which Natanson played the young husband, much bored with the artistic temperament of his wife, played by Daisy Gibson, who is absorbed in psycho-analysis and greatly afflicts her mundane husband with her incessant interpretation of every action, every mood and especially every dream. The young guest of the house, played by Miss Wilberta Babbidge, enlarges the territory for the wife's pursuit of the suppressed desire. Miss Gibson was a delightfully persistent wife, and her clear voice puts over her lines in a more than acceptable fashion.

The second performance of the Drama league players will be given this evening at the Little theatre.

Dodson Will Return; Teal to Relieve Him

With definite assurance that Portland will have a representative at Washington, through the appointment of J. N. Teal to the United States shipping board, the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce has given permission for W. D. B. Dodson, general manager of the organization, to come home for a much needed rest. Dodson probably will return to Washington later in the year to appear before the shipping board for ship allocations to local shipping firms.

Mischa Pelz Accused

A warrant was issued by Deputy City Attorney Fred Stadter this morning for the arrest of Mischa Pelz, orchestra leader, charging reckless driving. The warrant was issued after investigation of an accident between Pelz' machine and another automobile driven by Ralph Carothers at Twenty-first and Washington streets.

Hot Lake, Oct. 30.—Arrivals at Hot Lake Sanatorium Wednesday were: J. A. Haran, Portland; Burl Anderson, La Grande; Elvira Arnaldus, Summerville; W. H. Ellis, Baker; Al Risuick and M. D. Perol, Astoria; W. W. Dresser, Portland; L. A. Turley, Pendleton; Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Jacobsen and Dr. J. R. Woodward, Payette, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. John Griffin, Baker; Ida M. Wells, Payette, Idaho.

STREETCAR TURNS OVER; TWO INJURED

Six persons narrowly escaped serious injury when a P. R., L & P. Council Crest streetcar jumped the track and turned over, at 6:45 o'clock Friday evening.

The car was going down hill, east on Elizabeth street. The track was covered with wet leaves and the car became unmanageable, according to Motorman Liberty. The car was scarcely 30 feet from the front door of the home of M. C. Simonson, 568 Chapman street, when it turned over.

TOO SUDDEN TO ESCAPE

A telephone pole and a couple of trees in Simonson's yard are responsible for keeping the car from crashing into the house.

It happened so suddenly that none of the passengers on the streetcar was able to jump. The right hand side of the car was badly smashed, and all the windows were broken. The trolley wire was broken and a live wire hanging in the street endangered the lives of many spectators until they saw sparks from it and realized their danger.

TWO INJURED

Mrs. E. C. Cornell, Alexandra Court apartments, a passenger, was severely bruised and cut about the face. Three men passengers were uninjured.

Motorman N. Liberty, 815 Savier street, sustained a slightly sprained ankle. Conductor W. B. Hensley, 336 North Twenty-third street, received a slight cut on the forehead and a severe bruise on his left shoulder.

Other passengers of the car were H. L. Doyoe, 442½ Sixty-first street, John Kollock, 992 Council Crest drive, and another man, whose name was not learned.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Buster Bear Digs for Dinner

By Thornton W. Burgess

Who simple food doth never scorn
Will seldom be by hunger torn.
—Buster Bear.

BUSTER BEAR is a big fellow and, of course, he needs a great deal of food. But Buster long ago learned that people who are too fussy about their food are likely to go hungry very often. Nothing is more uncomfortable than an empty stomach. It spoils one's disposition. It makes bad temper. The best-natured people in the world are those who are best fed.

Now, as a rule, Buster Bear is good-natured, one of the best-natured people in all the Green Forest, and one reason is that excepting very early in the spring when he first comes out he has plenty to eat. And the reason he has plenty to eat is that he is not fussy about his food. He eats what he can find, not simply what he wants, and is thankful for the simplest kind of food. No one, unless it be his small cousin, Bobby Coon, eats so many kinds of things as Buster Bear.

Buster likes meat when he can get it, but meat is a small part of his food. Fish, frogs, insects, fruit, nuts, even bark and leaves when nothing better can be found, are eaten by Buster Bear. And many good meals has he made on certain roots. So Buster almost always manages to keep his stomach from over-much grumbling by thankfully eating whatever is provided, which is more than can be said of a great many people.

It chanced that one day as Buster was passing through a certain swampy place near the Laughing Brook he remembered that in the early spring he had had more than one good meal there on the roots of a certain plant which everybody knows—Jack-in-the-pulpit. Buster smacked his lips at the memory. Those roots had tasted almost as good as the honey he had had so recently, for food had been scarce in the early spring and his stomach had been very empty. He wondered if they would taste as good now.

"I believe I'll try a few just to see how they do taste," muttered Buster in his deep, rumbly, grumbly voice. "I have had so much sweet food of late that a change will be good."

So Buster began to dig in the soft, damp earth, and presently he uncovered one of those little roots. His little eyes twinkled as he saw it and he promptly ate it. Now, it was a small root, hardly a good bite. It was a taste and no more. Buster wanted more, so he went on digging, turning over the wet, black earth and rooting in it with his nose after those little roots. It was a lot of work for what he got, but Buster Bear isn't, and never was, afraid of work. One of the first things he was taught when he first started out in the Great World was that anything worth having is worth working for. He never has forgotten that, and this is one reason he so seldom goes hungry. He knows that there is always food for those who will work for it and are not fussy about what it is.

His little eyes twinkled as he saw it and he promptly ate it.

So Buster dug and dug in the damp black earth and ate the little roots he found and was thankful and happy. And all the time from a hemlock tree, Chatterer the Red Squirrel watched him and sulked and plotted how he could get even with Buster Bear, and was unhappy. No sulky person ever is happy. And at the same time Chatterer was very curious about those little roots.

Commerce Chamber Urges Port Merger As Trade Necessity

Removal of objectionable features of the port consolidation measure, to be voted on at the election Tuesday, has resulted in securing the hearty support of the Chamber of Commerce for the project, according to H. B. Van Duzer, president of the chamber, who addressed a banquet given by the Portland Association of Credit Men at the Benson hotel Friday night. Port improvements proposed in the measure are essential to proper handling of Oriental trade and other shipping coming to the Willamette river, Van Duzer stated.

DR. E. G. AUSPLUND, MGR. Always on the Job

How Good Is "Good Enough"?

Too Often the Expression Is But a Camouflage for "Bad Enough."

The man who leaves a job half done—or completes a job in a slip-shod, half-hearted manner—frequently excuses himself with the statement that it is "good enough."

The Cheat who sells you shoddy material argues with his conscience that it is "good enough" for the money you paid.

The Dentist who uses base metals in place of gold, or grinds a tooth down until it is worthless so it will fit a crown (instead of making the crown to fit the tooth), may consider his work "good enough," but it is NOT GOOD ENOUGH FOR A PATIENT OF MINE.

My quality has stood the test. Thousands have found it permanent. How else could I personally guarantee it for 15 years? Quality dentistry does not always mean extremely high fees. My low fees are within reach of all; merely a fair profit on your work.
