Corn Dealing Active From Bigger Receipts

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Big receipts stimulated broader trading in the corn market today than has been the case for a long time and led to weakness in values. The close was nervous at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-2 to 5-8c lower, with March $1.24 5-8 and May $1.23 5-8 to $1.23 3-4. Oats closed 3-8c off to 1-8c advance, and provisions down 5 cents to 12 cents.

Arrivals of corn here showed such a decided increase that a general rush to sell took place. Slowness of eastern shipping inquiry added to bearish sentiment, but snow flurries and a prediction of colder weather tonight operated as something of an offset. Profit taking tended further to unsettle the market toward the close.

Oats reflected the weakness of corn, but word of 500,000 bushels sold at Minneapolis and elsewhere for export prevented any aggressiveness by the bears.

Plentiful supplies of hogs seemed to restrict inquiry for provisions and to weaken prices.

The new 2-cent postage stamp being purple, lends a touch of refined novelty to the national color scheme.

LIVESTOCK DECREASE SERIOUS PROBLEM.

Estimates published by the U. S. Food Administration show that there are 115,000,000 less meat animals in the world today than there were in the year preceding the beginning of the war. While the increase in cattle in the United States was 7,000,000, the total world decrease was 28,080,000. Sheep decreased 3,000,000 in the United States and 54,50,000 in the world. Hogs have increased 6,275,000 in the United States, but throughout the world their number has decreased 32,425,000.

The close of the war will find Europe almost barren of meat and dairy animals, and with an annual production of meat and dairy products decreased to a startling extent.

If we would profit by this opportunity, we must correctly grasp the enormous world demand for meat, dairy and breeding animals and meat and dairy products which must continue for many years after peace is proclaimed.

It will take several years to sufficiently increase the herds and flocks of America, and those of us who have the right vision will begin at once to bring about this increase.—P. G. Holden.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

STOCKS STRONG MOST OF DAY

Reversal Occurs With Publication of Adverse Industrial News

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Stocks were firm to strong at the opening of today's market, making further gains during the forenoon. This advantage was largely, if not wholly, relinquished later, the reversal concurring with the publication of several adverse industrial reports.

Specialties, such as oils, tobaccos, fertilizers, leather, motors and accessories, were again brought forward, presumably by pools, at gross gains of one to four points. These issues were among the first to recede, however, on the free offerings of the afternoon.

General news in its relations to quoted values was somewhat contradictory. Foreign advices, particularly the cumulative indications of unrest within the central powers, were helpful to the bull account, but this was nullified in part by the political situation in Washington.

The money market was perceptibly easier, call loans declining to 4½ per cent, after opening at 6 per cent. Short time loans also relaxed slightly but without any pronounced increase of supply.

Among the more representative stocks United States Steel reacted over two points from its best, closing at 90 7-8, a net loss of half a point. The steel directors meet a week hence to act on the dividend for the last quarter of 1917.

Rails were dull to the point of stagnation and shippings moved erratically. Marine preferred strengthening in the final dealings. Sales, 478,000 shares.

An advance of two and a half points in Distillers' securities was almost the sole feature of the irregular bond market. Liberty 3½'s sold at 98.40 to 98.24, first 4's at 97.10 to 96.78 and second 4's at 96.34 to 96.14. Total sales, par value, aggregated $3,265,000.

United States bonds, old issues, were unchanged on call.

EAT PLENTY—AND WISELY.

Miss A. Grace Johnson, of the O. A. C. faculty, gives as the keynote of conservation, "Eat plenty, eat wisely, and without waste," making clear that the much-used and mis-used term really means neither starvation (the man's idea of the thing) nor economy (the idea associated with conservation by some women).

"To eat plenty, wisely and without waste, one must know food value and understand the body needs; food material to build up the structure of the body and to furnish the necessary heat and to regulate the vital organs.

She placed much emphasis on the value of milk as food rather than as a beverage, stating that because it contains certain substances absolutely essential for growth it should form a constant part of the diet, particularly of children. Eggs, cheese, fish, all varieties of beans, peas and nuts were the other tissue building foods listed and their values enumerated as substitutes for meat.

Fats were mentioned as the most valuable sources of heat, although sugar and starchy food also serve the same purpose. Miss Johnson encourage the free use of butter for table purposes, since it also contains valuable health-giving substances, but advocates the strictest saving of fat in cooking purposes even to the tablespoon of drippings left on the meat tray.

The reduction of sugar consumed was encouraged only in adult diet, since this food is necessary for children. The average individual consumes too little water, and more fruits and watery vegetables should be a part of our diets. The leafy vegetable and the outside covering of grain suggested as particularly valuable body regulative substance because it has been found these are rich sources of mineral foods, iron, and phosphorus.

We have no right in the present time not to like anything that is good food.
