SEVENTIETH YEAR — SALEM, OREGON, SUNDAY MORNING, MAY 23, 1920. — PRICE: FIVE CENTS

ANNEXATION IS ADOPTED AT ELECTION

Fair Grounds Taken Under City's Wing by Big Vote—Halvorsen Has Heavy Margin Over Mayor Wilson

RETURNS SHOW RACE WINNER OVER EVANS

Verden Moffit Claims Lead of 300 for Marshal With Two Precincts Out

On the basis of returns complete from 12 of the 18 Salem precincts the people have chosen to annex the state fair grounds as a part of the city by a vote of 1127 to 758.

These returns show that both the proposed charter amendments are carried. One of them increases the salary of the chief of police from $1200 to $1800 a year. The other provides that the cost of improving all streets and alley intersections shall be paid by the city; that the cost of street improvements to triangular and small irregular blocks shall not exceed the average superficial area rate of assessment upon regular blocks within such improvement district; that the cost of excavations, fills, grading, etc., shall be distributed pro rata over the improvement district; that property abutting and adjacent to a street improvement shall be divided into three equal parallel zones, and the cost of such an improvement shall be assessed by zones, instead of by lots.

Earl Race apparently will retain his post as city recorder, leading W. D. Evans by a vote of 1180 to 851. Halvorsen's lead over O. J. Wilson for mayor is 1192 to 863.

For chief of police, Moffit has a score of 782, Welsh 622, Morelock 383, and Patterson 257. Moffit, who has canvassed the polling places,

CARRANZA BETRAYED BY OWN MEN

Alleged to Have Been Assassinated in Cowardly Manner by Col. Herrero of His Own Body Guard

ACT IS RESENTED BY GENERAL OBREGON

Prophecy of Aged Nun Recalled by Accurate Fulfillment

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Venustiano Carranza has joined the long line of Latin-American dictators who have ended their stormy careers in flight and death.

A fugitive in the mountains of Puebla, the old man who qept the United States ana Mexico in a broil for the last five years was killed on Thurpday by some of the troops which had protected him as a loyal bodyguard in his flight from the Mexican capital.

Whether he fell fighting or a victim of the celebrated "ley fgua," which made dead men of Madero and Suarez, or actually was murdered in a coup d'etat, is obscured in such fragmentary information as has come out of the tropical fastness of Tlaxcaltonga, where he died, presumably surrounded by a few loyal friends.

Early dispatches today from Mexico City said the former president was killed in an attack led by General Herraro, who had gone with Carranza in flight but later deserted to the revolutionists. The announcement, made at the headquarters of General Obregon, head of the revolutionary movement, gave the impression that Carranza had died in battle.

But later advices received in El Paso indicated that Carranza had been made prisoner and assassinated in a "cowardly manner" and said some of the friends who were with him at the time had sent a protest to General Pablo Gonzales.

The full story may not be immediately known and even then may be the subject of dispute. In any event it adds one more drop to the river of blood which has flowed over Mexico since Porforio Diaz signed his abdication in tears and died a heartbroken man in Spain.

But it does bring to mind a prophecy said to have been made by a nun, which is now being talked about all over Mexico. She prophecied, according to report that after Mexico had seen three Franciscos in public life she would have for president an old man with a beard who would meet a violent death and that he would be succeeded by ap resident who mounted his horse from the "wrong" side. The prophecy also added that thereafter Mexico would lose its independence.

There have been three Franciscos in Mexico's public life since the prophecy was made. There were Francisco de la Barra, now an exile; Francisco I. Madero, the murdered president of 1913, and Francisco Villa, bandit leader. Carranza was well known for his whiskers. Obregon, who led the revolt against him and is expected by many to succeed to the head of the government, lost an arm in the battle of Celaya, and mounts his horse from the "wrong" side. Carranza's death and the manner of it probably will have some important bearing on the action of the United States when the time comes to consider recognition of the government which succeeds him. When President Wilson was refusing to recognize Huerta he based his action on the untimely death of Madero and Suarez and announced a broad policy to the effect that no government would be recognized which did not rest on constitutional elections and which was based on force of arms alone. As it is generally recognized that no government in Mexico could hope to stand without recognition by the United States the death of Carranza and what responsibility the revolutions may share in it is regarded by officials and diplomats here as certain to become a large element in the government's action.

Assassinated by Own Men.

EL PASO, Tex., May 22.—V. Carranza, president of Mexico and head of the 72nd government that country has had since 1821, was assassinated at 1 a. m. Friday by Colonel Rodolfo Herrero and his soldiers at Tlaxcaltenango, Puebla, according to messages received here from General Alvaro Obregon, dated at Mexico City today.

"There were found six or seven more bodies of the men in Carranza's party," said one message from Obregon. "It is not stated who these men might be."

Reports given out by the revolutionists said Carranza was assassinated by his own men. Herrero was described as an ex-federal officer. He was once an officer in the Mexican army under Diaz who was forced to flee Mexico in 1911.

Carranza was made a prisoner and

AUTO CARAVAN AT SACRAMENTO

Will Arrive at Destination Today For Ad Men's Convention

SACRAMENTO, Ca., May 22. — Promptly at 6 o'clock tonight the automobiles of the Northwestern Association of Ad clubs, nearly 100 strong and escorted by 200 machines from Sacramento, entered the city to the blowing of horns.

The visitors were met at Del Paso park by state officials and members of the local Ad club, headed by J. B. Coghill, president.

At 9 a. m. tomorrow the caravan will leave for Stockton to attend the Pacific Ad Men's convention. Many Sacramentans will accompany them.

W. P. Strandborg, director of the Portland Ad club, in charge of the caravan, is enthusiastic over the journey and declared it demonstrates that the existence of a paved Pacific coast highway extending from British Columbia to Mexico and open the year round is within realization. The journey was on schedule time.

F. R. Morgan, manager of a department store at Seattle, said that California must bestir herself if she is to keep pace with Oregon, which by Christmas will have a paved highway from northern to southern boundaries. Tonight the visitors were entertained by the local Ad club and the Rotary club.

WOOD LEADS JOHNSON BY FEW VOTES

With Two Precincts Missing in Marion County General Has Margin of 31 Over California Senator

LOCAL DISTRICT HITS EDUCATIONAL MEASURE

No Change in Legislative Slate, But Riggs Presses Martin Hard

With only two precincts, East Hubbard and Salem Heights, missing from the complete returns on Marion county's preferential vote for president, Leonard Wood has a lead of 31 votes over Hiram Johnson. The vote is Wood 2991, Johnson 2960.

Up to 11 o'clock last night complete returns had been received at the county clerk's office from 66 precincts giving Johnson a lead, the figures being Johnson 2659 and Wood 2303. A canvass of the polling places however, by leading supporters of the two men brought returns from Salem precinct No. 1, No. 4, No. 2, No. 10, No. 11 and No. 17, all except No. 1 of which showed a preference for Wood. In No. 1 Johnson was two ahead. These returns gave Wood a lead of 31 votes in the county. Hoover polled 774 votes and Lowden 607.

Frank Wrightman Polls Heavily

With 66 precincts counted completely there is no change in the result for representation in the legislature. Kay, Perry, Looney, Davey and Martin leading in the order named, with Riggs in sixth place only 94 votes behind Martin with a chance to nose him out. Weeks, however, is only 26 votes behind Riggs.

Kozer's Marion county lead is consistent with his margin throughout the state. Marion county returns a tremendous vote for Frank T.

THE STATESMAN'S SUNDAY SERMON

By Rev. J. R. Buck

The Paraclete, the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in My Name, He will teach you all things.—John, xiv, 26.)

Forty days after Easter, on Ascension Thursday, we commemorated the ascension of our Lord into heaven. Ten days later, or 50 days after Easter, we commemorate the feast (as the church terms all such great occasions), of Penticost, which is really the birthday of Christianity, for it was the beginning of the Christian church. Though the Apostles were to "preach to all nations," they were as yet inactive. They had been shut up, as it were, in fear. And in spite of the fact that Jerusalem was filled with people, many anxious to hear more of the wonderful man, Jesus, in spite of the seeming ripeness of the world for conversions, the Apostles remained inactive. Why this delay? Had they not been baptized by Christ Himself? Had they not been taught by Him for three years? Was this three years of theology under the greatest, the sublimest teacher of Christian science the world ever saw not sufficient for their work?

All this may be answered in the affirmative. They had seen Him give hearing to the deaf, sight to the blind, aye, even life to the dead. They had behald Him feed a vast multitude of people with five loaves and three fishes. They had seen Him walk upon the water. They had heard a voice from heaven twice proclaiming Him Son of the Eternal Father. They had seen Him transfigured on Mount Tabor. They had seen Him die on the cross and rise again after three days, giving final confirmation of all He had taught.

But the Apostles waited, because it was the will of Christ. It was because the Holy Ghost had not yet taken His part in the redemption. For Christ knew that all knowledge, all science and learning possible would be of no avail without the inspiration of the Holy Ghost in the faith which makes a man like unto a little child. In a word, the body of the Christian religion was ready, but the soul had not yet been sent to animate it, and so the Apostles waited. The account of the descent of the Holy Ghost is given in the Acts of the Apostles, ii, 1-11. The Apostles were assembled when there was suddenly the sound of a mighty wind, and parted tongues of fire descended and rested upon the heads of each of them, and immediately they felt the power and strength thus imparted, and each one was enabled to speak different languages and they went forth, not the weak, discouraged men who had followed Christ to His final condemnation, but a bold, fearless band, inspired and empowered to plant the Christian faith.

And just as the Apostles felt the power and strength which was promised them, so too do the people of today feel and realize the help of the same Holy Ghost if they are earnest and sincere, and faith, without which no one can be saved, grows in one according to the co-operation given to the spiritual impulses emanating from the Holy Ghost. Every sane man is religiously inclined. It may indeed take but a form of superstition, or a man may be a fanatic. But religion is instinctive in man's nature. He realizes subconsciously oftimes, that the one thing he is striving eternally for is happiness, and he also realizes that it is unobtainable in this world. The things he imagined would give him that perfect happiness when he was a child—a top, a marble or a kite—were no sooner in his possession than they became tiresome and something else attracted his attention which in turn he thought would give him this happiness. And so it went through his life, and still he has not, in many cases, learned that all the worldly desires and ambitions are a mere chimera, and that the real happiness which he longs for will only be attained when he is united to God.

The Holy Ghost teaches us that we were created for one and one only purpose, and that is for the salvation of our immortal souls. All things may be used as a means, but we should never lose sight of the end in these means. To the truly Christian man, how foolish the little trinkets and baubles of the world appear. What do riches, position, honors, etc., of a worldly character amount to after all?

The Holy Ghost teacher us also that genuine religion, genuine Christianity is not effeminate but manly. It moves not only the heart and sentiment, but convinces the reason and will, and it is the one thing the truly wise man really strives and desires, for it is a means to what the Holy Ghost has inspired him to know without fear of error to eternal happiness. But God does not approve of the half-way or Sunday Christian. He does not care for the Christian who does only his good deeds as the Pharisees did—that men might see. But He desires and the Holy Ghost teaches us that every thought, every word, every action or deed which is done truly in the name of Christ will produce grace for the attainment of eternal happiness with God, our only Good.
