BEST IN VOCAL MUSIC IS SUNG BY MATZENAUER IN APPEARANCE HERE

Matzenauer, the greatest contralto of her day, and said to possess the finest voice of the Metropolitan, came and sang and captivated an audience composed of local and out-of-town music lovers who filled practically every seat in the armory last night. For the educated musical ear there were tones and technical perfection to revel in and for that other one-half of the audience—folk who had not the advantage of an aesthetic delight in this intangible appreciation, there was the singer's superb beauty, personal charm and the dramatic power of expression that left its impression.

In sharp contrast to the soft, sweet Gluck number that opened the program were the other selections in this group, which included the fresh joy of "Spring Night," by Schumann, and the Greek perfection of the "Sapphic Ode," by Brahms. A dramatic climax was reached in the "Erlking," by Schubert, in which the artist called into play facial expression as an aid to the quite wonderful modulations.

On her second appearance Mme Matzenauer's group opened with two of La Forget's compositions a combination that compelled an ovation at the conclusion of each. The Debussy air, with its lilting vivacious quality, was an extreme opposite to the devout solemnity of the La Forge numbers. Again the singer demonstrated her dramatic ability in the big aria "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah."

Closing the program Mme. Matzenauer chose to sing the aria from "Le Prophete" (Ah! mon fils.) by Meyerbeer. In spite of the length of the program this called forth a tremendous ovation that brought the singer smiling and bowing, and finally reappearing to give as her final offering a clever, sprightly little song that enchanted the big audience that was still loathe to leave.

The artist was equally delightful when she appeared in a duet with Charles Carver, basso, who assisted on the program. Their songs together were favorites here and called forth prolonged applause, in response to which the vocalists came back with "Oh, That we Two Were Maying!"

Mr. Carver, in his solo work, revealed a voice of great depth and fine musical quality. His youthful appearance and quiet modesty won for him an instant friendliness on the part of his listeners. The smoothness of his voice was best brought out in the classical numbers of Mozart and Handel, but his lighter numbers, which were given as encores, were enthusiastically received. The first encore was "Kitty of Colraine," an old Irish folk song, and his last was an old English song, "Love is a Bauble."

Frank La Forge was no new musician to Salem, a large representation last night feeling that in him they were meeting and hearing an old friend, for Mr. La Forge, who played all the accompaniments for Mme. Matzenauer and Mr. Carver, appeared in the same capacity here with several other of the world's greatest artists, when they sang in Salem several years ago. Besides having a number of his own compositions featured on the program, he himself presented one as a solo number, giving a MacDowell selection as the additional one. His numbers occupied a distinctive place on the program. In his own composition, "Romance," he passed from the climax back to the sweet, quiet movement of the first part of the selection by means of a single note, held by clever pedal work. In fact his pedaling is remarkable throughout.

This concert marked the end of the Salem Musical Bureau's season.

BILLY SPEAS' TEAM BEATEN BY GIANTS

Solyan who threw Rogan out to Spranger and Spranger doubled, throwing Moore out at first. Ray hit the ball over the fence, making the first score for the Giants. McNair out Andrews to Blanchard.

Third Inning.

Regina — Andrews singled. Speas was safe on Moore's error which allowed Andrews to occupy second. Snyder bunted safely, filling the bases. Burke flied to Ward and Andrews scored on the throw-in. Fredericks flied to Perry. Spranger flied to Perry.

Giants — Perry out Solyan to Blanchard. Curry hit a double. Ward walked. Fagen out Andrews to Blanchard.

Fourth Inning.

Regina — Blanchard out Perry to Hawkins. Solyan and Baker both flied to Hawkins.

Giants—Rogan was safe on Spranger's error. Moore singled, advancing Rogan. Ray was hit by Solyan, and Moore took second. Rogan reached third on an error by Baker. McNair hit a two-baser, scoring Rogan and Moore and advancing Ray to third. Perry singled, scoring Ray and advancing McNair to third. Curry popped up a high one that was caught by Snyder. Ward was safe on an error by Andrews that allowed McNair to tally. Fagen flied to Fredericks and Perry scored. Hawkins out Andrews to Blanchard.

Fifth Inning.

Regina—Andrews flied to Hawkins. Speas out Moore to Hawkins. Snyder singled. Burke was safe on an error by Ward. Fredericks fanned. Renning went in to pitch for Regina.

Giants—Rogan out Burke to Blanchard. Moore out Andrews to Blanchard. Ray safe on Burke's error. Ray takes second on Spranger's error in dropping a pretty peg from Snyder as Ray attempted to steal. McNair hit one for two bases, scoring Ray. Perry safe on Spranger's error and steals second. Curry whiffed.

Sixth Inning.

Regina—Spranger flied to Fagen. Blanchard flied to Ward. Renning fanned.

Giants—Ward out for bunting third strike. Fagen hit a wide, hot liner over third base which Burke grabbed in with one hand from a difficult position and won a round of cheers. Hawkins hit safely. Rogan singled, advancing Hawkins to third. Moore hunted safely, scoring Hawkins and advancing Rogan to third. Ray out Snyder to Blanchard.

Seventh Inning.

Regina—Baker struck out. Andrews flied to Rogan. Speas hit for two bases. Snyder walked, but was thrown out at second by Perry when Burke was allowed to reach first on fielder's choice.

Giants — McNair out Burke to Blanchard. Perry flied to Burke. Curry out Renning to Blanchard.

Eighth Inning.

Regina — Fredericks fanned. Spranger singled. Blanchard singled, advancing Spranger to second. Renning safe on Perry's error which filled the bases. Parks, who had replaced Baker, fanned. Renning was out at second, Perry to Fagen when Andrews hit a grounder to Perry.

Giants — Ward singled. Fagen singled, advancing Ward one bag. Hawkins flied to Burke who touched the bag and put Ward out. Rogan fanned.

Ninth Inning.

Regina—Speas flied to Ward. Snyder hit a double. Burke singled, advancing Snyder to third. Fredericks was allowed first on fielder's choice, but Fagen at second dropped the ball in trying to put out Burke and Snyder scored. Spranger struck out. Blanchard flied to Ward.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

"To begin with," Mr. Smith replied, "the boss I work for has gone bankrupt and, of course, he discharged all his men. So you see, I am out of work."

Just then the kitchen door opened and Willie, their son, appeared.

"Look what I've got," he announced, and then he handed Mr. Smith The Oregon Statesman.

"Where did you get it?" his father asked.

"I met Johnnie Burke as he had just finished his morning route and he said he had an extra paper left and he was wondering if you wouldn't like one. I told him you hardly ever read any paper, because you couldn't afford it, but I thought maybe you would enjoy one, so I brought it."

"I haven't much time to read today because I must be looking for work, but I think I'll take a glance at it."

He soon was glancing over the ads. "Hooray!" he shouted. "Here is an ad and it's just the kind I'm looking for. Now, I shall see if I can obtain this place." Sure enough, Mr. Smith received the position and likes it very well. He is receiving enough salary to support his family and to put some in the bank besides. He thinks he can never bestow enough thanks to The Statesman. Of course he subscribed for it and is enjoying it daily.

MASS MEETING SUNDAY NIGHT WILL HEAR ADDRESS BY DR. WIRT ON SUBJECT OF RELIEF IN THE NEAR EAST

A union meeting of the churches of Salem will be held at the armory Sunday night in the interests of the China and Near East relief funds. The meeting will be addressed by Dr. Loyal Lincoln Wirt, who was a member of the expedition that visited the orient in 1919 to make a study of relief needs.

Loyal Lincoln Wirt is a native of Michigan. Most of his early life was spent on the Pacific coast. He was appointed territorial superintendent of education by the United States government, founding the public schools which today are the farthest north.

After three years in the Arctic, Dr. Wirt spent seven succeeding years in world-wide travel, journeying extensively throughout China, Japan, the Philippines, Australia, the South Sea islands, Africa, Europe and Central America.

In 1915 Dr. Wirt was sent to Italy, France, Belgium and England as special war correspondent for the Boston Herald.

In 1918 he was appointed a member of the Red Cross publicity commission, given the rank of captain, and again visited the trenches on three fronts during the great German drive. Upon his return he became the special representative of the Red Cross of New England.

In 1919 he was asked by the American Committee for the Relief of the Near East" to join the relief expedition which sailed in January for Constantinople. There he was given charge of a chain of relief stations stretching from the Syrian ports eastward to Mesopotamia.

DR. L. L. WIRT

In recognition of his original contributions to the study of comparative ethnology he was made a "member" and later a "fellow" of the Royal Geographical society. His lectures before the Armour Institute of Technology brought him degree of Doctor of Science.

STORM SWEEPS OVER MIDDLE WEST STATES

tained a velocity of 48 miles an hour and throughout the night until daybreak it was close to that point.

Toward this evening it moderated. The average velocity of the wind up to 5 o'clock this afternoon was 25 miles an hour. In the outlying districts barns and outbuildings were unroofed and in cases demolished. One frame building on the edge of town here in which the watchman for a greenhouse sleeps, was tipped over by the wind. He escaped injury. Telegraph and telephone poles in all directions were blown down, and wire service much interrupted.

ATLANTA, Texas., April 15.—Several persons were killed, many houses destroyed and the fruit and vegetable crops greatly damaged by a tornado, presumably the same which wrecked havoc along the northeastern border of Texas and Arkansas, which struck O'Farrell, a thickly settled farming community seven miles west of here today.

All telegraph and telephone communication lines are down and roads there are practically impassable.

The storm also struck the town of Linden, near here, injured several and demolished a number of buildings. No fatalities were reported.

HOPE, Ark., April 15.From 15 to 20 are reported dead and scores injured as the result of a tornado which swept the entire length of Hempstead country from the Red river to within a few miles of this city late today. Four bodies have been brought to Hope and more than a score of injured are being cared for in the hospital here.

One relief worker who returned tonight reported he had found nine bodies between Spruddel and Dolph. The path of the tornado which moved in a northeasterly direction, was over 25 miles long and farms in a strip nearly a mile wide were swept clear of all buildings. Property loss within a few miles of Hope is estimated at $50,000.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 16.—Reports received by the Arkansas Gazette, up to an early hour this morning gives a total of 39 persons dead as a result of the storm in southwestern Arkansas. Twenty-six of these were said to be white persons and a large number of them were unidentified.

ily by increase of taxes, but by diversion of funds or readjusting of salaries, or some such sound business method of avoiding the sacrifice of an essential and vital community service to other service of less importance.

"Be it further resolved, that copies of these resolutions be submitted to the Salem Commercial club with a request to reconsider its action in this matter, and to all other civic organizations of the city, and to the federated community clubs of the county."

AT THE LIBRARY

New Technical Books.

As a contribution from the American Library Association war service the public library has just received a valuable set of technical books. These include the newest editions of engineers, architects and mechanics' books, with other miscellaneous volumes, all of which are in the most recent editions that have been published previous to 1916. They are books which have been used in the war camps but all are in condition to give valuable service. The library hopes to supplement these soon to round out a satisfactory collection for technical reference. The following is a partial list of the gift collection now being added to the library:

Mechanical engineer's handbook, edited by Lionel Simean Marks.

Architects and builders' pocketbook, a handbook for architects, structural engineers, builders and draftsmen, by Frank Eugene Kidder.

"Elements of Sanitary Engineering," by Mansfield Merriman.

"Use of Water in Irrigation," by Samuel Fortier.

"Sewer Construction," by H. N. Ogden.

"Engineering for Land Drainage," a manual for reclamation of lands injured by water, by Charles G. Elliott.

"Excavating Machinery," by Allen Boyer McDaniel.

"Hydro-electric Power," in two volumes, by Lanzar Lyndon.

Pipe fitting charts for steam and hot water; also galvanized iron piping for fan and indirect systems, by William G. Snow.

"Millwrighting," by James F. Hobart.

"Applied Electricity for Practical Men," by Arthur John Rowland.

"Elements of Hydraulics," a textbook for secondary technical schools," by Mansfield Merriman.

Handbook for electrical engineers; a reference book for practicing engineers and students of engineering, edited by Harold Pender.

"Training for the Electric Railway Business," by C. B. Fairchild.

"Plane Surveying," a practical treatise on the art of plane surveying, including chaining, leveling, compass and transit measurements, and and construction surveying, topographic surveying and mapping, by J. K. Finch.

"The Theory and Practice of Surveying," designed for the use of surveyors and engineers generally but especially for the use of students in engineering, by J. B. Johnson.

"Lathe Design," construction and operation, with practical examples of lathe work, by Oscar E. Perrige.

"Sheet Metal Workers' Manual," a complete practical instruction book on the sheet metal industry, machinery and tools, and related subjects, including the axy-acetylene welding and cuttnig process, by L. Broemel.

"Essentials of Sheet Metal Work and Pattern Drafting," an elementary and advanced course for vocational and trade schools students and apprentiecs; also for sheet metal workers, contractors and instructors, by James S. Daugherty.

"Blueprint Reading," a practical manual of instruction in blueprint reading through the analysis of typical plates with reference to mechanical drawing, conventions and methods, the laws of projection, etc., by Howard P. Fairchild.

"Machine Design," by Charles H. Benjamin.

"Practical Structural Design," a text and reference work for engineer architects, builders, draftsmen and technical school; especially adapted to the needs of self-tutored men, by Ernest McCullough.

"Modern Technical Drawing," a handbook describing in detail the preparation of working drawings, with special attention to oblique and circle-on circle work, orthographic, isometric and oblique projections, practical perspective, free-hand drawing and setting-out; also various styles of lettering, by George Ellis.

"Self-Help Mechanical Drawing," an educational treatise, by N. Hawkins.

"A Manual of Engineering and Drawing for Students and Draftsmen," by Thomas E. French.

"Applied Drawing," by Harold Haven Brown.

"Modern Practical Design," by G. Woolliscroft Rhead.

"Learning to Fly in the U. S. Army," manual of aviation practice, by E. N. Fales.

"Aviation Engines," design, construction, operation and repair," by Lieut. Victor W. Page.

"Gas Engine Ignition," prepared in the extension division of the University of Wisconsin by Earle B. Norris.

"Putnam's Automobile Handbook," by Harry Clifford Brokaw.

"Motor Truck and Automobile Motors and Mechanism," a practical illustrated treatise on the power plant and motive parts of the modern motor vehicle, for owners, operators and repairmen, by Thomas H. Russell.

"Automobile Starting, Lighting and Ignition," elementary principles, practical application, wiring diagrams and repair hints," by Victor W. Page.

"Automobile Tire Book," not a scientific treatise but a handbook for the use of the car owner and automobile operator, and for use as a handy reference for men engaged in the automobile industry," by Lee H. Cayard.

"The Modern Gas Tractor,' its construction, utility, operation and repair, by Victor W. Page.

"Motorcycles, Sidecars and Cyclecars," construction, management and repair, by Victor W. Page.

"New Building Estimator," a practical guide to estimating the cost of labor and material in building construction, form excavation to finish, with various practical examples of work presented in detail and with labor figured chiefly in hours and quantities, a handbook for architects, builders, contractors, appraisers, engineers, superintendents and draftsmen, by William Arthur.

"House Painting, Glazing, Paper Hanging and Whitewashing," a book for the householder, by Alvah Horton Sabin.

"American Telephone Practice" by Kempster B. Miller.

These new fiction titles are added this week:

"The Captives," by Hugh Walpole.

"Nomads of the North," by James Oliver Curwood.

"Blind," by Ernest Poole.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Aylia Talmadge, aged 77, a resident of Salem since 1910, died at the home of her son, Charles M. Talmadge, 355 South Fourdteenth street, Wednesday night, April 13, at 11 o'clock. Funeral services will be conducted at the Rigdon chapel this morning at 10:30, Rev. H. C. Stover of the Central Congregational church officiating. Burial will be at West Union, Iowa, where she lived for many years and where her husband, who died in 1892, is buried. Mrs. Talmadge is survived by two sons (Warren E. of Spokane and Charles M. of this city), four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Death followed a stroke of paralysis which she suffered one week prior to her death. She was a woman who had formed many close friendships during her residence here, particularly in the church and in the Woman's Relief corps, in the work of which order she had been ardently interested for many years, and her genial presence will be missed at these gatherings, as well as in the homes of her children, where a keen helpful and kindly interest in the family welfare was ever her dominating characteristic.

Miss Charlotte Russell was born in Vermillion, S. D., on May 6, 1899. She died at her home near Waconda, Ore., on March 30, 1921 following a few hours illness. She was given her last tribute of respect by sorrowing friends and relatives on April 1, when an impressive burial service was read by G. L. Lowell. She was laid to rest in City View cemetery. She leaves to mourn her loss, the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Russell; one sister, Hazel; four brothers, Ward, Miles, Otto and Charles; one aunt, Mrs. M. E. Roe of Vancouver, Wash., and Frank Felton, who was soon to have taken her for his bride.

That she held a high place in the estimation and hearts of her friends was shown by the beautiful floral offerings.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved family.

Business Girls Organize Club

Organization of a club for business girls was effected Wednesday night at a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. of 20 girls engaged in various branches of business in Salem. The following officers were elected: Adelaide Lake, president; Esther Natterlund, vice president; Helen Berg, secretary; Helen Kent, treasurer.

The club is open to all working girls in the city and it is the wish of those who have already organized it that a very much larger number be present at the next meeting, Tuesday night. Regular meetings are scheduled for the first and third Tuesday nights of each month.

GIVEN A 99-YEAR SENTENCE

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 15.—C. A. Putney, charged with the murder of Scott Nichols, chief operator at the Western Union Telegraph company, was given a 99-year sentence in the penitentiary by a jury in the district court here tonight.
