System of Rate Reductions Effective Under Compensation Act July 1

BUSINESS SIDE APPEALS

Employers and Employes Who Understand Eager To Accept Requirements

Beginning July 1 the employing firms that maintain manufacturing plants within the state of Oregon have the privilege of a 5 per cent reduction in their contributions to the state industrial accident fund, on condition that they maintain a regular local council for the consideration of plans for averting accidents and vocational diseases or hazards.

Fifty-seven firms with a total payroll of several thousands of men, have already sent in their applications to be considered on this preferred list.

Concerns Are Listed.

The names are:

American Can company, Ames Harris Neville company, Benson Timber company, Big Creek Logging company, Booth-Kelly Lumber company, Bridal Veil Lumber company, C and O Lumber company, Cobb & Mitchell company, Columbia County Lumber company, Columbia Steeel company, Corvallis Logging company, Crossett Western Lumber company, Crown Mills, Crown-Willamette Paper company, Douty Lumber company, Eagle Lumber company, Eastern and Western Lumber company, Eastern Oregon Light & Power company, Falls City-Salem Lumber company, Hammond Lumber company, Hawley Pulp & paper company, Honeyman Hardware company, Island Hardware company, Kiergan Flora company, Robert C. Kinney Logging company, Koster Products company, Kruse & Banks Shipbuilding company, La Dee Logging company, Lewis & Clarke Railway company, Marshall-Wells company, Multnomah Lumber & Box company, Nicolai Door Manufacturing company, Northwestern Electric company, Oregon Agricultural college, Oregon Brass works, Oregon City Woolen mills, Oregon Portland Cement company, Pacific Lumber Inspection bureau, Pacific Power & Light company, Peninsula Iron works, Peninsula Lumber company, Portland Flouring Mills company, Portland Woolen mills, Saddle Mountain Logging company, Silver Falls Timber company, St. Helens Lumber company, St. Helens Tie & Timber company, Silverton Lumber company, Smith & Watson Iron works, Standard Oil company, Tru Blu Biscuit company, Valley & Siletz Railroad company, Western Cooperage company, West Oregon Lumber company, Westport Lumber company, Willamette Iron & Steel works, Willamette Valley Lumber company.

Nation Council Followed

In general the work is carried out as outlined by the national safety council, a voluntary organization of employers numbering almost 4000 from all over America. The state of Oregon is a member, through the industrial accident commission.

Bulletins are sent out every month, covering some phase or phases of industrial safety. Usually the bulletins are graphically illustrated. They tell some vital truths about making life and limb safe, in all the industries represented. Following closely the bulletin work of this great organization, President Harding recently made this statement:

"I have been very favorably impressed with the efforts of the national safety council to minimize casualties in industry. The work is one for which there is a great and pressing need. The economic waste which is represented by such casualties each year is in itself a tremendous burden on the nation, while the human suffering and actual loss of life, of course, constitute a far more serious phase of the matter.

Figures Impress President.

"Experience has thoroughly demonstrated that effective organization can accomplish great and useful results toward the prevention of accidents, so great a proportion of which are really unnecessary.

"The figures on this subject are most impressive. Thus I am informed, that in the first year following the organization of local 'safety councils' in a considerable number of cities the proportion of public accidents was reduced as much as 50 per cent, and in all cases very greatly. This is the most convincing testimony possible as to the efficacy of organization in this field.

"I am very glad to add my voice in encouragement and approval of the effort."

War Hardships Remembered

The department finds that some employers are still resentful at the conditions imposed on them by the labor during the war, when they were obliged to pay exorbitant prices for help that was neither capable nor interested. This class of employers might be little interested in the pure humanitarianism of the safety first campaign.

The present cataclysmic conditions of the markets, when any kind of a job is a prize and it is easy to fill any place that may be left vacant, would not ordinarily be the time for any new labor-protecting movement to get across purely on a business proposition. But the department finds that humanity has really made much headway in business; the golden rule is more and more a working creed of the corporations that employ labor, and this, with the actual saving in money, makes the national safety council a spiritual as well as a financial investment.

The plant-council plan for safety measures is apart from any move to establish a "works-council" plan of government and ownership. The plan, which has gained some favor in radical Europe, was rejected by the Oregon industries, that threatened to withdraw fro mall connection with the national safety council if it was encouraged here. It was dropped, and is purely a safety and efficiency council in Oregon.

Curious Objection Made

Some curious objections to the safety-council plans have been raised by both employers and employes, who did not understand that an industrila cripple is both a tax and a social menace to every fixed interest. The worker, however, whose strength and skill is his capital, can easily be made to see that no money can pay him for the loss of his capital; and the employer also is coming to understand that it is far better and cheaper to avoid accidents than it is to face disaffection or damages and so they both come in and say that the safety-first co-operation is the one thing they've been needing to make business life smoother.

TROUBLED FOR TEN YEARS

If you suffer pains and aches during the day and sleep-disturbing bladder weakness by night, feel tired, nervous and run down, the kidneys and bladder need to be restored to healthy and regular action. J. T. Osburn R. F. D. No. 1, Lucasville, O., writes: "I tried many remedies but they did me no good. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they helped me so much that now I am well." Don't delay. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

FINE BERRIES ARE RECEIVED

Luscious Himalayas Come In—Rain Not Welcomed By Cherry Producers

A few Himalaya berries were brought into the local markets yesterday—great luscious black fellows, half as long as one's finger, and twice as juicy as water. These are not to be had in very large quantities, though the evergreens promise to make a record crop.

The rain last night was not at all welcome to the cherry producers, though it is hoped that it will not have done much damage other than to delay the picking. All the canneries are working steadily on cherries, which are now coming in in large quantities. Only inclement weather that damages the fruit, or shortage of pickers to handle the crop, will prevent the sale of every cherry grown in the valley this year.

The Willamette Valley Prune association has received an interesting order from Europe, for "the first three cars of prunes packed in your establishment this fall."

The prune crop this fall isn't going to be so large as to cause any grave congestion of the market, but these Europeans are likely to get their order. Other shippers believe that the European market will open up this fall, and furnish an outlet that has been blockaded for a long time past.

Some interesting testimonials from England to the "Mistland" prunes put out by the Oregon Growers' Co-operative association seem to carry out this theory of the opening of the European market at an early date. The recent reduction in freight rates will help wonderfully in finding a market, in the opinion of careful students of business conditions.

CITY HEALTHY.

PORTLAND, June 29. The tradition that the country is a healthier place than the city is ripe for the discard, according to N. C. Maris of the state food and dairy commission, who addressed the 18th annual convention of city and county health officers today.

Jobs May Be Supplied Through Local Y.M.C.A.

Secretary Kells of the Y. M. C. A., reports that while he has been able to supply many farmers with help for cherry and berry picking, the supply of labor is still too small, and he would be glad to serve as volunteer employment agent for all men or boys who want work. He understands that there are men dropping into town looking work, but not always knowing just where to find a place.

A number of fruit growers have registered with the Y. M. C. A. for help, and Mr. Kells will be glad to help bring any owner and worker together.

The "Y" is upstairs, at the northwest corner of Commercial and Chemeketa streets, and the latchstring is always out.
