Gold Is Located By Use of Willow Rod

E. A. Magnusen demonstrated to the satisfaction of a number of people in Silverton that his "magic wand" or willow stick is a most wonderful instrument with which he is satisfied he can locate hidden treasures and to prove the truth of his claim two prominent citizens hid some gold and silver, in fact buried it under ground, and then Mr. Magnusen was notified to come and locate it with his magic rod. To the amazement of those present, he followed directly in the path of the buried treasure, and when he reached it the willow rod immediately pointed downward; and the gold and silver was dug up.

Mr. Magnusen states that veins of water for wells can also be located in this way, saving much labor in digging, as when the rod gives you the tip you can be sure of striking what you are looking for.—Silverton Tribune.

The records show that almost everybody has been to Europe as a doughboy or an investigating committee.
