SEVENTY-FOURTH YEAR — SALEM, OREGON, WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 15, 1924 — PRICE FIVE CENTS

$116,121 NEW TOTAL RAISED FOR BUILDING

Committees Hope to Reach Goal of $200,000 in Three Days More—Large Gifts Announced

PROMINENT CITIZENS EXHORT CANVASSERS

Some Who Donate Liberally of Funds Withhold Names From Public

With three more days to go, the YMCA building campaign now shows total subscriptions of $116,121. This sum comes from 874 givers, including the 203 who were reported Tuesday. Tuesday's record was $13,434, of which $5,000 was given by one generous donor, Mrs. Frank Snedecor of Salem. This leaves only $83,879 yet to raise.

Mrs. Snedecor's subscription, announced by the executive committee, brought a fine round of applause. The committee added $1520 from three other givers whose names were not announced. The canvassing divisions produced 199 pledges for $6,914, with the teams closer together than for any other day during the campaign. Division Y, led by Allen Kafoury, having $1926; Division C, under Robert Paulus, having $1756; Division M, under T. M. Hicks, having $1670, and Division A under George Arbuckle, having $1562. The Phillips team had 21 subscribers, the largest number; the William Busick team the largest team subscription, $615, and Division Y had the largest total of subscriptions, 65 in all.

Director Booth emphasized the fact that the subscriptions are all made conditionally in the printed contract, and some have even written it in again, making them void if the required $200,000 is not raised. The committee planned carefully before the campaign was ever began, and decided that less than $200,000, while it would of course build better quarters than the Y now has, would be totally insufficient to give the Y what it needs even now without waiting for future growth. They have hoped to get at least $225,000, for that much is needed, but they can build on $200,000 of good pledges. Because they were not willing to mortgage the future by building a crippled building even now less than adequate, they decided to insist on $200,000 as a minimum that they must have if they build at all.

They desire that every man in Salem consider this condition carefully, and get into the game facing the possibility of losing every dollar that all this heroic work has produced—conditionally. To fail would be to make the city ridiculous and cheap in the eyes of the world that is setting up the Y standard of service as a measure of a city's quality and vision.

Director Booth urged that all the canvassers get in for yet more vigorous, sacrificial work for the next two days, to clean it all up. He expects to see as many subscriptions turned in today as for any other three days since the campaign began. He told of the thoroughbred Zev, the national idol that won his friecest race after throwing a frog and coming in to the wire with one foot splashing blood—but with the thoroughbred spirit in every furious leap.

"It isn't a nice word, some people say," continued Mr. Booth, "but it is a tremendously expressive word—the word 'guts' to denote the courage to keep fighting till you win. That was what made Zev the racehorse he is; that is what will make Salem stand out in the history of YMCA building campaigns."

Col. Carle Abrams told a thrilling story of the battle front at Verdun, where the one-armed French soldier said that "so long as there is a man or a woman left

TRINDLE RUNS FOR JUDGESHIP

Attorney Announces Candidacy—To Refrain From Mud Slinging

William H. Trindle, attorney, yesterday made public announcement that he is a candidate for circuit judge for the election on November 4. He was a candidate for the appointment by Governor Pierce, but the governor named L. H. McMahan, who also will be a candidate for election.

The names of the candidates will not appear on the ballot and it will be necessary for their supporters to write them in. Mr. Trindle yesterday made the following statement:

"I will be a candidate for the office of circuit judge at the November election. It will be my purpose to conduct a campaign in keeping with the dignity of the office which I seek and to refrain from any mud slinging or personalities. The office of circuit judge is one which should seek the man rather than the man the office and I shall simply place my name before the public for such consideration as my reputation as a lawyer deserves. If my friends feel that I am qualified, their support will be highly gratifying. If on the other hand my opponent is elected he will have my full cooperation and hearty support in performing his official duties."

EVAN BURROWS FONTAINE DOES NOT WIN SUIT

Professional Dancer Is Not Awarded the Million Dollars She Demands

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—An action brought by Miss Evan Burrows Fontaine, New York professional dancer, to obtain $1,000,000 from Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, young New York and San Francisco capitalist, was decided against Miss Fontaine in the United States district court today, the plaintiff making no showing in her own behalf.

The jury held that Whitney had been made the victim of a conspiracy on the part of the plaintiff.

Pioneer Clubs Meet To Be Held in Salem

There will be a county convention of representatives of the seven pioneer clubs in Marion county next Friday night, it was announced yesterday. The Pioneer clubs are organized under the direction of Ed Socolofsky, under the auspices of the county YMCA. There are seven of the clubs in the county at the present time. At the convention one member of each organization will give a speech. The members average about 12 or 13 years of age.

The convention will be held in the First Methodist church.

Democrats Nominate Woman for Governor of State of Wyoming

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe, Widow of William Bradford Ross, Recently Governor, Selected at State Convention

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 14.—(By The Associated Press.)—A woman in widow's weeds today became the democratic nominee for governor of Wyoming.

The selection of Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, widow of the late Governor William Bradford Ross, as a candidate to succeed her husband in office came as a double tribute to the womanhood of the state, both at the hands of the democratic party. A territorial assembly in 1869, predominantly democratic, granted the women of Wyoming equal suffrage and blazed the trail for nationwide woman's suffrage that followed nearly half a century later.

And today it was again the democratic convention that honored womanhood by making Mrs. Ross the unanimous choice of the party as its gubernatorial candidate.

Out of a field of five or six mentioned candidates, Mrs. Ross was the only one whose name was considered seriously on the floor of the convention. One other name that of Patrick O'Connor, a Casper attorney, was placed in nomination by the Natrona county delegation but subsequently withdrawn at his own request. As the nominating roll call was completed the nomination of the late executive's widow was made by acclamation and thunderous applause.

Despite the protestations of Mrs. Ross, who said she did not wish to capitalize the sentiment surrounding the death of her husband, the convention declared its belief that her ability and understanding of Governor Ross' political program made her a desirable candidate. Although Mrs. Ross announced earlier in the day that she would not become a candidate, a canvassing committee interviewing her during the noon recess, obtained from her a promise not to refuse the honor if it were tendered.

When informed at the executive mansion of her nomination, Mrs. Ross' first words were: "Oh, I don't know what I shall do."

But after several visits by close personal friends and democratic political leaders in the state, Mrs. Ross announced that she would "carry on in her husband's footsteps, if that were the desire of the Wyoming electorate.

"If my boys stand back of me, I guess I have nothing to fear," she added, glancing at her three sons, Ambrose and George, 21, twins, and students at the University of Wyoming, and William Bradford Ross, Jr., the youngest boy, a student in Cheyenne grade schools.

BLIND AUTHOR LEAPS FROM OWN WINDOW

Declared One of World's Most Beautiful Women, Jumps to Her Death

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—A leap or fall from a second story window of her home today took the life of Mrs. Helen Smith Woodruff, author and playwright, declared by Penrhyn Stanislaus, the artist, to have been one of the most beautiful women in the world. Lewis B. Woodruff, her husband, is a noted lawyer and scientist.

Mrs. Woodruff who was born at Selma, Ala., 36 years ago suffered for several years from nervous disorders and for two years of the time was totally blind.

It was while blind that she wrote the "Lady of the Lighthouse," the best seller of 1913 and gave the royalties to the New York Association for the Blind. Later her "Md. Doctor-Man," appeared, and the proceeds went to the city of Birmingham, Ala., for the building of the children's hospital.

CHERRIANS WILL STAGE BIG SHOW

Last of November or First of December to Bring Entertainment

Cherrians are primed and ready to go for the production of the greatest home talent musical comedy ever presented in Salem.

At the monthly meeting held last night at the Chamber of Commerce, King Bing Al Pierce received a report from the show committee, R. Ray Felker, chairman; Carl Gabrielson, Dr. Carl Wonner and C. E. Knowland.

Mr. Felker, chairman, reported that the comedy, which has not as yet been presented in the west, would include a cast of eight, with a chorus of 30 young women and men who could sing as well as act.

The ticket committee appointed by King Bing Pierce, is as follows: William Bell, chairman; Oliver J. Myers, I. R. Smith, Frank Spears, Harry Levy, E. F. Smith, Phil A. Eicker, Alton D. Hurley, Frank Durbin and Albert Gille.

Mr. Bell as chairman of this "go-getter" committee, assured Mr. Pierce that before the opening night, more than 1,000 tickets would be sold for the two performances.

At a meeting held by the show committee following the regular session, it was announced that the show would be given at the opera house either during the last week of November or the first week in December.

The Cherrians unanimously voted to take part in the Armistice day exercises of November 11 by marching in the parade in uniform. The invitation was given by Carl Gabrielson, commander of Capital Post No. 9 of the American legion.

J. T. Brand of the Coos Bay Pirates spoke of the wonderful growth of that part of Orgon and predicted that the real activities of this country would soon be centered on the Pacific coast. When not working as a Pirate, Mr. Brand serves his home folks as city attorney of Marshfield.

Hal D. Patton spoke feelingly in remembrance of George F. Rodgers, first King Bing of the Cherrians. To draw up resolutions of sympathy, King Bing Pierce appointed M. L. Meyers, C. E. Knowland and F. G. Deckebach, each having served the Cherrians as King Bing.

Washington Town Sees Fire Destroy $350,000

MOUNT VERNON, Wash., Oct. 14.—Fire departments from Burlington, Anacortes and Sedro Wooley assisted Mount Vernon firemen in getting under control a fire which destroyed the $250,000 Fischer Bros. flouring mill here tonight and did an estimated damage of $100,000 to the City Grain & Feed company's structure.

GERMAN LOAN GOES OVER IN RECORD TIME

Over Four and a Half Times Amount Asked Is Subscribed 12 Minutes After Books Open

FLOOD OF ORDERS COMES POURING IN

More Than Billion Dollars' Worth of Bonds Would Easily Have Sold

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Subscriptions for the United States' $110,000,00 share of the $200,000,00 German loan exceeded $500,000,000, according to official announcement tonight, within 12 minutes after the books were open today. The subscription was more than four and one half times as large as the total available and thousands of orders were still unfilled when the books closed.

Swamped with the flood of orders which poured in from all parts of the country, bankers were unable to ascertain the exact amount of the over subscription but were certain that orders run well above the half billion dollar mark. Houses who participated in the offering estimated that on the basis of the individual orders more than a billion dollars worth of the bonds could have been sold. Allotments will be made tomorrow by J. P .Morgan and company.

Large Subscriptions Made

The largest corporation subscription was that of the American Tobacco company, which placed an order for $10,000,000; many other applications for the bonds were made by large companies through dealers, although the offering syndicate, preferring to distribute to loan as widely as possible among small investors pointed out that it did not encourage corporation subscriptions and received none of them directly.

Unable to supply customer's demands, through regular subscription channels, many investment houses engaged in active bidding for the bonds as soon as they were listed on the New York Stock exchange on a "when issue" basis.

Trading is Brisk

Commanding a premium on 2 3-8 points above the offering price of 92 on initial transaction, the bonds throughout the day continued in brisk demand, selling most of the time above 93. Total transactions in the issue in stock exchange trading amounted to $4,266,000, comprising approximately one fourth the day's bond sales.

Many blocks ranging from $50,000 to $100,000 changed hands. In London the bonds also sold at a premium of more than two points.

Coincident with the offering of German loan, a banking syndicate, including several houses which participated in the underwriting, announced that an acceptance credit of $2,500,000 had been granted to the Ruhr Coal syndicate to finance the exportation of coal. Properties of large German industrialists, such as the Krupp and Stinnes interests are included in the financing.

ROBBERY NETS BIG HAUL FOR BANDITS

$25,000 in Currency Taken in Daylight Holdup in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14—Three bandits in a large automobile late today held up Bert Cowan, messenger for the Merchants National bank here and escaped with $25,000 in currency. The bandit car drew alongside Cowan's machine, the trio covered him with pistols, forced him to drop the money satchel, recovered it and fled.

WASHINGTON QUARANTINES TEXAS BEEF

Every Possible Precaution Used to Prevent Invasion of Deadly Disease

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 14.—A foot and mouth quarantine directed against the state of Texas was issued by the Washington state department of agriculture today.

The order was based on federal regulations and prohibits the bringing in of any livestock, pet stock or other ruminants from the state of Texas into this state.

Dressed carcasses of cattle, sheep, calves and other ruminants must be inspected and bear the approved stamp of the United States animal industry to obtain entrance.

The transportation of hides, skins, wool and hoofs of cattle, sheep or other ruminants into the state is prohibited unless the regulations of the United States bureau of animal industry have been complied with.

Hay, straw and similar fodder, as well as cotton, are denied entrance, and all animal biologics must bear the United States stamp of inspection.

DAVIS ATTACKS REPUBLICANS

Democratic Nominee Carries Campaign Through State of Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 14.—Between addresses in which he denounced "corruption" and "privilege" in government, John W. Davis, democratic presidential candidate, visited the tomb of Abraham Lincoln today; paid homage to the memory of the martyred president, and found new inspiration to continue the campaign, he said, with honesty, courage, and equality in government his major themes.

Before the pilgrimage to Oak Ridge cemetery, Mr. Davis gave his pledge to Illinois voters that he would within two years after his inauguration as president, if elected in November, commend his own administration to condemnation should he have failed by that time to rid the government of "corruption and privilege."

Later in the day the candidate told voters in Springfild in his night address it was their duty today as it was the duty of their forbears in the days of Lincoln to determine "what the course is that your government shall take for your benefit and the benefit of your children."

At another point, Mr. Davis declared there was no sucn thing as an unimportant presidential campaign and reviewed past history to show that "every four years the American people have taken a

ZR-3 NOW ON SHORE OF U. S. A.

United States Zepplin Completes Maiden Flight Across Atlantic Ocean—Lands on American Continent Early This Morning

BOSTON, Oct. 15—The ZR-3 passed over the center of this city at 4:15 a. m., this morning. The great ship was flying low and the hum of her engines brought hundreds to the streets. Lights from her gondolas could be seen distinctly.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The ZR-3, last and greatest of the Zeppelins, approached the land of her adoption tonight. At midnight, the $2,500,000 ship with its crew of 31 jubilant men was reported above the coast of Nova Scotia and headed toward Boston at the rate of 65 knots an hour. Officials expressed the belief she would reach her airdrome at Lakehurst, N. J., early Wednesday morning.

Leaving her originally plotted course today, the ZR-3 "cut a corner" and eliminated Bermuda from her itinerary, winging directly from the Azores to the North American coast. During the afternoon and evening fog was encountered by the aircraft and the course was altered to the northward to obtain better flying conditions.

No extended messages were received from the ship tonight, the wireless operator aboard giving most of his attention to arranging for signals to be sent him from ships and land stations to assist the navigation officers in keeping to the most advantageous course.

It was adduced from her calls for bearings that the great ship had been proceeding on "dead reckoning." News of the came from the radio station at Chatham, Mass., which reported that it had been unable to talk to the airship because the ZR-3 radio operator had been trying constantly to get compass bearings. Difficulty in coming from the ZR-3 to the land and the patrol ships was indicated.

As the airship drew near the end of the trip, the naval air station at Lakehurst rushed through last minute preparations to receive the ZR-3. Several hundred picked men were put through final drills for "walking" the ship into her quarters. Mitchel field received orders to send five planes out to escort the ZR-3 in from a point 10 miles at sea.

U. S. Senator Is Found Dead in His Own Home as Result of Suicide

Frank Brandegee, Republican Leader From Connecticut, Thought to Have Been Despondent Over Finances

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Worry over financial difficulties involving real estate transactions, combined with ill health is assigned by close friends as the cause for Senator Frank D. Brandegee of Connecticut committing suicide here early today.

The body of the 60-year old senator was found in an unused room in the upper floor of his spacious residence this morning by his secretary W. Don Lundy, and Chauffeur George Jones. They were directed to the room by a note left on his bed which gave no motive, however, for the act.

Gas Tube Found

A tube attached to an open gas jet, was in the hand of Mr. Brandegee who lay fully dressed on the floor. Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt, after an examination issued a certificate of death which he said, resulted from suicide accomplished by inhaling illuminating gas.

Senator Brandegee, a bachelor, lived alone except for two negro servants. When last seen alive yesterday by his secretary and chauffeur, they said he appeared in the best of spirits and health. He was at home alone last night.

Prominent in Politics

Mr. Brandegee was the senior member of the senate from his state and in 19 years of service there had taken an active part in the leadership of the republican party. He was chairman of the judiciary committee and one of the leaders on the foreign relations committee. His death, coupled with that of Senator Colt of Rhode Island, recently, cuts the republican membership in the senate to 49, a bare majority. It is expected, however, both seats will be filled before congress meets again in December for the short term.

News of the death of the senator spread rapidly over the city and many prominent persons connected with him in public and private life, called at the residence. President Coolidge sent a message of sympathy to Col. M. G. Zalanski of Atlanta, Ga., a brother-in-law of Mr. Brandegee.

Mr. Brandegee has no immediate blood relations and preparations for the funeral were taken in charge by his secretary and officers of the senate.

These called for services at Mr. Brandegee's home here Thursday afternoon with the Rev. J. J. Muir, senate chaplain, officiating. The body will be taken to New London, Conn., his former home and birthplace, where services will be held Friday afternoon in St. James Episcopal church, of which he was a member.
