FACTS ONE SALEM BUSINESSMAN invested $500 with me less than a year ago and has just cashed in for $2000. Another invested $500 at the same time and received $1500 some time ago. A third invested $300 a few days ago and I resold the property in two days at a profit to the investor of $135 net. These are just a few recent ones. If you are skeptical I will introduce you to these and many more. Salem real estate offers the best investments to be found. Salem rates the very highest in business outlook. I have one or two splendid investments in hand now. If you have money to invest and mean business see me.

PROFIT A BEAUTIFUL 5-ACRE TRACT can be bought for the price of the house it contains if taken at once. This is an emergency deal to settle an estate and somebody is certain to profit from it.

$3000 ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE—Four-room cottage; carpets on the floor; springs, mattresses, sheets, blankets, quilts, pillows in clean shams on the beds; dishes in the cupboard; flour in the bin; chairs, dressers, couch, phonograph and lots of records, sewing machine; in short, furnished to the last detail; everything neat, clean and in the best of taste; hot and cold water; bath, toilet, electricity; fine lot 66 by 120; east front; half block Grant school. Unequaled for the price.

$4000 7-ROOM, 2-STORY, Full Basement; best construction; East Salem; close in; fine corner; good condition; nice lawn. Rent for $30. Buy on easy terms. Splendid value.

$2600 A FINE LOT 79½x146 on paved street within the area bounded by Chemeketa, State, High and Thirteenth. North front. Formerly quoted at $3000.
I advertise values which I know to be not merely good but exceptionally good. I have never misled or disappointed a single buyer.

Senatorial Oratory Frequent Aided Relaxing Rules

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 11.—Vice-President Dawes' spectacular attack on one-man marathon talking events in the senate, and the more recent eight-hour speech of Senator Copeland of New York against the Isle of Pines treaty, has led capital attaches to dig up noted instances of lengthy senatorial addresses.

The unofficial record is held by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin. Speaking on a currency measure, on May 29, 1908, he held the floor for 18 hours and 20 minutes.

A 15-hour speech is credited to Senator Falkner of West Virginia, on January 16,1891, when the Force bill was under discussion. Senator Allen of Nebraska on October 11-12, 1893, engaged the attention of the senate for 14 hours on the repeal of the silver bill; and a similar period was consumed by Senator Carter of Montana on March 2-3, 1901, while discussing a rivers and harbors measure. Senator Jones, republican, Washington, made a 13-hour speech on February 8-10, 1915, during consideration of the ship purchase bill; Senator Burton of Ohio spoke for 12 hours and 10 minutes on a rivers and harbors bill on September 18-19, 1914; and Senator Smoot of Utah is credited with a speech extending 11 hours and 35 minutes on July 22, 1913, when the Underwood tariff measure was under debate.

The chamber at the other end of the capitol can lay claim to no such prolonged oratorical efforts. House rules prelude any lengthy address by one man, the longest being two or two and a half hours, when the chairman of a committee in charge of a major bill, is explaining its provisions.

The elapsed time counted as the measure of a senate speech is not always occupied entirely with speaking. Frequently the speaker is interupted by questions or quorum calls, which give a breathing space. The strict rule is that in order to keep the floor a senator must speak from his desk and remain standing, but various presiding officers have countenanced a liberal interpretation of this and permitted senators to walk about the chamber or rest on the arm of their chair.

Senator Copeland, when he held the floor for eight hours, recently, drank in the course of his speech, two glasses of milk ,in which eggs were beaten up, a bowl of soup, and much water.

American Relief Sought For Good Marksmanship

STOCKHOLM, April 11.—Swedish markesmen, profiting by their observation of American methods in the 1924 Olympic Games, and by their knowledge of American rifles, which they tried out on several occasions, have decided to import a number of American sporting weapons and a quantity of American powder. While a high standard of excellence has been obtained in Sweden through the use of Swedish army rifles, a 6.5 Mauser, they are convinced that the weapons used by the United States entries in the Olympic Games gave better results.

Rifle shooting has become increasingly popular in this country, and volunteer sharpshooters now number more than 30,000. The government encourages the sport, and recently a substantial sum by way of encouragement.

Youth Receives Fractured Heel When Foot is Caught

Ralph Salsbury, aged 19, a laborer, had his heel caught between the floor and the elevator of the United States National Bank building Monday, and as a result is suffering from a fractured heel.

Salsbury was employed on the remodeling job of the building and was bringing some cement from the basement to the street surface at the time of the accident.

His foot was not released immediately, due to the failure of the elevator mechanism, but after fellow workmen had released the leverage with stout pieces of timber.

Former Silverton Man Visits Home With Bride
