215 ACRES OF CHERRIES IN A SOLID BLOCK, ROWS OF TREES A MILE LONG

Over 12,000 Lambert Cherry Trees Belonging to the Lamberta Orchards Incorporated Are Now in Second Year, Going Well, and Before Long Will Be Yielding an Immense Tonnage—Five to Ten Cars a Day in Picking Time

There is a 215 acre Lambert cherry orchard, the largest of its kind in this part of the country, if not in any country, which begins a half mile east of Macleay, and about nine miles from Salem, on the paved county market highway. The land lies high, overlooking Salem, Mt. Angel, Shaw and other cities and towns, and with five mountain peaks of the Cascades in view: Hood and Rainier and St. Helens and Jefferson and the Three Sisters. It is Waldo Hills land at its best. It was so recognized in pioneer days, for the holdings of the Lamberta company are part of the donation land claim of Wm. Taylor, taken up in 1845. It was sold to the orchard company by Harvey Taylor, and he himself has some of the stock of the orchard company.

Experienced Orchard Men

Experienced orchard men head the company. O. F. Brooks is president, Hon. Lloyd Reynolds vice president, and George Vick secretary-treasurer. The capital stock is $25,000. The other stockholders are Salem men and women. The trees which were yearlings when set out last year, will begin to make a pretty picture this year; but it will take them four or five years to come into bearing. No filler crop was planted. Cover crops are being used, in order to increase the fertility of the soil. The aim is to grow Lambert cherries only and to get them to bearing as soon as possible, and to have them of the finest quality when they do bear. The trees were secured from local nurseries.

If the orchard bears half the crop that is on the average harvested by Mr. Brooks, the president of the company, from his orchard, it will produce five car loads of cherries every day for the two weeks of cherry harvest. It should produce 10 car loads a day.

The orchard company has no dwelling house on its 224 acres; no barn; no buildings of any kind, and no farm machinery at all. It has just orchard; just Lambert cherry trees. There is no overhead. Mr. Brooks directs the work, and it is all performed and will be performed by the neighbors. When the orchard gets into bearing, some buildings may be necessary.

Why They Hope

The capital stock of the Lamberta Orchards Incorporated was all subscribed before operations began. On what do the stockholders base their hopes for profits on their investment? The leaders among them have been pooling their Lambert cherries the past few years, and shipping them in cold storage to New York City and other big cities. They have been going under the MARION BRAND, of the Salem Black Cherry Growers' association, and they have received, net here, as high as 18 cents a pound for their cherries. They averaged about 15 cents in 1925 and 17 cents the year before. The 1926 crop brought 9.68 cents a pound, net to the growers, after all expenses were paid. Mr. Brooks has headed this association and attended to the packing and shipping and selling. He had been shipping his own cherries before the association was formed.

His Own Six Acres

Mr. Brooks was formerly a railroad man. He was an engineer; was the chief engineer for the Bridal Veil Lumber company for 16 years. He was a grocer in Portland before coming to the Salem district.

He bought the place on which he has his six acre Lambert cherry orchard 13 years ago. In all that 13 years, the smallest year's profits on his Lamberts was $300 an acre, up to this year, when unseasonable rains in harvest time cut down the quantity very materially. He received $9300 for his Lambert crop from the six acres in 1920, and $8600 in 1923. The Lambert pool shippers from Salem, under the direction of Mr. Brooks, got on an average 70 cents per 14 pound box more than the growers at other points, like The Dalles got, net, for their black cherries, up to this year.

Those kind of facts make the stockholders of this big orchard company hope for great things when they get their trees into full bearing.

They know, however, that there is more to the proposition than merely getting land and setting out trees and then going to sleep till the fruit trees begin to bear. They knew there will be care necessary all along the line; and especially when bearing time comes. There will be spraying, especially. The price of good Lambert cherries is eternal vigilance. There cannot be success without working and watching. The man who looks for an easy job in the cherry industry, and more especially the black cherry industry, is foredoomed to failure.

Mr. Brooks last year set out 16 acres more of Lambert cherry trees on his own place, making a 22 acre Lambert orchard on his home place. He does not expect to see the growing of the highest quality Lambert cherries over done.

General Cherry Prices

The cannery price for cherries—mostly Royal Anns—this year was 8 to 8 1-2 cents a pound. For the black cherries the prices and returns ran all the way from 5 cents a pound up—up to the 9.68 cents a pound net, as stated above, received by the pool headed by Mr. Brooks.

Long Cherry Rows

Some of the rows of Lambert cherry trees in the planting of the Lamberta Orchards Incorporated are nearly a mile long, and straight all the way; absolutely.

The stockholders of the company are very well satisfied with the growth the trees made last year, and they look for the making of a wonderful orchard—a show place in the Salem district.

INVENTOR OF MACHINES WILL LOCATE IN SALEM

fornia, he sold 42 of these machines, and he has orders now for 31 more.

Work of 49 Men

The city of Salem has one of these machines, and Walter Low, superintendent of streets, said he had saved its cost in the first three weeks. The cost of the machine is $125. With the machine one man can do the work of 49 men working by hand. Formerly it took three men to go two blocks in a day in painting the street parking marks. Now the machine paints all of them in the whole city in three days.

Mr. Sanderson sold machines in all cities where they have permanent markers, between Vancouver, Wash., and San Diego, Cal., in the five months he was on the road last summer. Through this preliminary work, he received 21 of the orders for machines which he now has on hand. This is the only stencil marker in the world.

Nothing Else Like It

Painting with air guns is not new. But there is no other air brush like the one in the Sanderson machine. The air is continuous. No other air gun for spreading paint takes in the wide range of work this one does, nor is there any other so simple and so certain of not getting out of order.

Mr. Sanderson recently painted a barn with this machine, 24 by 30 feet in size, in 40 minutes.

Not New in Salem

Mr. Sanderson is not new in Salem. He has worked as foreman for builders here. He was master mechanic of the Kings dehydration plant in its palmy days.

He has taken out 13 working patents on his various devices. He expects to manufacture several of his devices in Salem, and to buy as largely as possible his raw materials here. Some of the devices Mr. Sanderson has invented and patented or is on the way to patenting are a watch cleaning device that saves much time while doing superior work; a mechanical shoe brush; a flexible lawn mower blade; an electrical pad for trainmen; an auto signal glove; a shoe groover; an advertising motor wheel; an oar lock; an amusement hydro merry-go-round; a toggle bolt that will not loosen, and the street marking and painting machine.

On several of his devices he is receiving royalties.

Interesting Place

Besides giving employment to labor, and taking a lot of materials from local dealers and those who furnish raw materials, the shop of Mr. Sanderson is going to be an interesting place to visit, when it is thoroughly in order and running as it is expected to be before long; a show place for visitors to Salem.
