THE ARMY AND NAVY.

Special Orders Relative to Tributes to the ex-President. WASHINGTON, March 15.-The following order has been issued from the War Department, accompanying the President's proclamation relative to ex-President Harrison: "On the day of the funeral, at each silitary post, the National fing will be displayed at half-mast, and the troops and cadets will be paraded and this order read to them. At dawn of day 13 guns will be fired, and afterwards, at intervals of 30 minutes between the rising and setting of the sun and at the close of the day, a salute of 45 guns.

"The usual badge of mourning will be worn by officers of the Army for a period of 30 days, and the colors of the several regiments, the Artillery Corps, United States Corps of Cadets and of the Enrineer Battalions will be placed in mourning for the same period."

Levi P. Morton, in an interview referring The country has sustained a great loss in the death of General Harrison. With his intellectual and physical forces unimpaired there still remained many avenues in which he might have continued to ren der valuable service to the country which he served so well. My official and per-sonal relations with General Harrison during his term as President were naturally of an intimate character. I believed then, as I do now, that he was the peer intellectually of any one who has held the office of President of the United

CANADA'S TIMBER AND OURS Neglecting to Protect

Forests.

New York Press, When Tennyson wrote in his poem to Princess Alexandrovna "The loyal pines of Canada murmur thee," most of us who had seen the "Lake of the Woods" marked on the map of Canada were confirmed in the delusion that Canada, like ourselves, had forests to burn. It has in fact been characteristic of the continent, from Dawson City to Nicaragua, where house farms are built of mahog-any, planed with planes backed with rosewood, to be wasteful of timber. You the greatest intellectual contribution to the campaign, and his series of speeches throughout Indiana convinced the minds and won the hearts of the voters of the prodigality in the use of sawmills. Canada has already seen her danger, and is a day of the prodigality in the use of sawmills. experimental farms of the Dominion Government have for some years encouraged tree-planting by farmers, and it is now purposed that the different provinces shall encourage forest renewal by establishing provincial for-estry departments and employing trained foresters from Germany, which coal or gather firewood, bamboos or canes in India.

Hitherto in this country, as well as in Canada, little attention has been paid to the question whether certain land would not be more useful to the community as a perpetual timber reserve than as cleared agricultural land. There is woodland that would make fine farm land, and bare land that is almost-useless for other crops in the present state of agricultural science but that would grow trees. There should be a gradual distribution of land among the objects for which it is locally adapted, and by what may be called inducive legislation this may be done without any approach to confiscation or state ownership. Timber land that would make first-class farm land should be cleared for that purpose, but there should be an organized social consciousness and governmental efficiency that could require that an equivalent in the form of land less suitable for farming and more suitable for timber be set off at the same time as a counterbalancing timber reserve. This could be accomplished by making a certain acreage of percentage of forest land a condition of every land grant to farm-ers; by giving favoring differentials in the taxation of timber land and by other devices that would make it selfishly in-

PROMOTIONS IN THE NAVY

SECRETARY LONG'S ORDER TO PREVENT INTERFERENCE.

Advancement for Gallant Service Will Not Be Allowed to Interfere With Regular Promotions.

WASHINGTON, March 15.-Secretary Long today rendered a decision on that feature of the recent enactment of Congress promoting officers for gallant servce and providing that the promotion of those officers shall not interfere with the regular flow of promotions. The effect of this promises to be very far-reaching, for in effect the additional names make a large increase in the Navy. For instance the Rear-Admirals are increased from 18 to at least 21, with prospects of further increase, while the Captains, numbering about 50, may be increased from 60 to 75, So it runs all through the naval list. The decision today more particularly referred to certain officers whose cases served as a sort of test of the construction of the entire law. Mr. Long holds that the additional officers are not to be so regarded until they reach the higher grade to which they are promoted. The effect of this is to make Rear-Admiral Higginson an additional officer of that grade from the date of the act. Captain Edward M. Shapard, being at the head of the Captains' list, is promoted to the grade of Rear-Admiral. The Bureau of Navigation had urged that Captain Frank Wildes should be promoted simultaneously with Captain Shepard, but Secretary Long holds that Captain Wildes must await a vacancy in the list of Rear-Admirals. For similar reasons, the Secretary holds that Lieutenant-Commander W. B. Bailey cannot be promoted under a clause of the act. The Secretary lays down the general principle that the purpose of the law was not to have promoted officers advanced for war services, but to prevent interference with promotions. It is held also that Colonel R. W. Huntington, United States Marine Corps, is unaffected by the act.

Gold in the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The gross gold in the treasury yesterday amounted to $482.918.023, compared with $416.218.289 at the same period last year. Yester-day's figures break all records. The increase in the gold holdings of the depart ment during the year has been $66,694.

rate of probably $5,000,000 a month until the new revenue law goes into effect.

CONVICTS DRAW SALARIES.

Skilled Laborers Well Paid by Contractors.

There is a side to convict life in Georgia emparatively little known to people gen-ally, but one that is quite interesting. says the Atlanta Constitution. Some of eorgia's convicts draw salarles, unds strange that a man convicted crime against the state, against his fellowman, should be paid for the service he is rendering as explation or atonement for his malicious error. But there are several men in Georgia's convict camps whom the lessees are glad to compensate for their services, though they are entitled to them for the $39 a year which they pay the state for their hire. It is not, of course, the ordinary, illit-erate and unintelligent convict who is thus remunerated. He is of no more value than the manual labor he can be made to do through a plenteous supply of stomach fuel and the urging of the taskmaster. The lessee gets more than value received even in this. He gets an able-bodied laborer at greatly reduced wages. But the intelligent convict—and they are compara-tively few—is valuable in other ways. It is the experienced bookkeeper, the bank clerk, the accountant, who, having gone astray, gets into the clutches of the law, is valuable to the lessee. It is a very well-known fact that this class of con-victs is not called upon to do manual labor: they are used for office work, and the public generally remarks, "Well, he's got a soft berth, even if he is in the penitentiary."
tI is not commonly known, however, that not a few of this class of convicts re ceive salaries from the lessees for their services, and in some instances when their terms expire they have been known to have nice little cash balances laid aside. It used to be the practice in the coal mines to pay each convict so much per ton for all coal taken out above the amount required each day, and sometimes long-term negro convicts would leave the mines with 200 or $300, or more, in their pockets. It is somewhat on the same principle that intelligent office men are remunerated for their services in addiion to the price paid the state for their hire. There are several such convicts now in the penitentiary. While serving their sentences they have little need for cash and it, is generally laid up against the time when they receive their freedom.

A story is told of a convict now serving in the Georgia penitentiary who unfor-tunately missed a good thing of this kind though he may yet get a soft place where he will be paid a salary for his knowledge of books and accounts. George W. Haupt was sent to the penitentiary from Savan-nah for ten years, having been convicted on several charges of embezziement. on several charges of embezziement. Haupt was one of the most experienced accountants in Savannah, and in that capacity commanded a high salary. The employes of the Washington mine, lessees, it is said, were not aware of his
