Old Leader of Marines to Quit Post Soon, He Avers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Major-General John A. Lejeune, who often has been side by side with American Marines at the time new pages of history were being written on the battle front, is to retire as commandant of the "soldiers of the seas."

He announced today that on March 5, when his present term as commandant will expire, he proposed to relinquish his post and resume the duties of an officer with troops, probably as the commander of Marine corps activities in the Pacific coast area.

The general said that although many of his friends had offered to interest themselves in securing his reappointment as commandant, that he had served eight years in that office and "would retire voluntarily and cheerfully." He has until January, 1931, to serve before retirement from the corps for age.

Mum On Successor

He declined to comment upon the appointment of his successor.

Secretary Wilbur immediately expressed regret at the termination of General Lejeune's service as commandant, and said he owed him a "personal obligation for his excellent advice and fine cooperation in matters pertaining to the Marine corps." The secretary added that under Lejeune the morale of the corps had improved greatly and that the conduct of the Marines in Nicaragua and China had been especially fine.

During Lejeune's 39 years of service the general has carved out a record paralleled by few officers in either the army or navy. He served with especial distinction with the expeditionary forces in France where, after preliminary service with the 35th regiment in 1918, he succeeded to the command of the 2d division. He led this division in three of the big engagements of the World war and later participated in the occupation of the Rhine.

Division Record Brilliant

The second division under General Lejeune had a large share in the St. Mihiel offensive in September, 1918. It took 3,800 prisoners and a vast quantity of cannon and military supplies. Later this division, operating with the fourth French army, crushed the famous Hindenburg line at Blanc Mont Ridge which had been considered impregnable, and forced the enemy to retire 12 miles to the Aisne river. The general was decorated with the French Croix de Guerre for the military precision with which this drive was carried out.

Lejeune again broke through the Hindenburg line in November when his troops were picked to lead the allied drive in the Meuse-Argonne sector. The second division swept over the crumbling German defenses and took seven fortified towns and many prisoners. This action was praised by military authorities as one of the most brilliant victories of the war.

General Lejeune was appointed commandan tof the Marin ecorps in 1920 and reappointed in 1925.

POPE WILL LEAVE VATICAN EASTER

ROME, Feb. 8—(AP)—Conclusion of an agreement between the Holy See and Italy, settling the question raised by the fall of the papal states and providing in detail for the future relations between church and state, was formally announced by Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, today to the Vatican diplomatis body.

The Cardinal and Premier Mussolini will sign the agreement and concordant on Sunday afternoon at the Lateran palace. Simultaneously the pope will distribute to the cardinals the printed text of the documents. These will be published on Monday in the Italian press.

Some persons believe that Pope Pius XI will leave the Vatican under the freedom of the new order for the first time at Easter. There is speculation as to whether he will choose to celebrate mass at the church of St. John in Lateran, in keeping with old papal traditions, or at the church of St. Charles where as a newly ordained priest he said his first mass fifty years ago.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Options on two stage lines control of which would give the Columbia Gorge Motor Coach system a direct line between Portland and Salt Lake City, were announced today by W. T. Crawford, president of the Columbia Gorge system, who said that the deals involved a consideration of approximately $150,000.

The two lines which the Columbia Gorge expects to purchase within the next two weeks are the Blue Mountain Transportation system, operating between Pendleton and Twin Falls, Ida., and the Beehive stages, running between Twin Falls and Salt Lake City. The through line will be operated under the name of the Columbia Gorge system. Each of the two lines on which options are held are said to be worth $75,000.

Increase in the capital stock of the Columbia Gorge from $200,000 to $500,000 is planned by the corporation, Mr. Crawford stated, and $100,000 worth of equipment has been ordered to take care of the expanded service to Salt Lake, where the line will connect with other routes to the east and south.

NEVILLE SUCCEEDS TO LEJEUNE'S POST

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Major-General Wendell C. Neville, commander of the Marine corps base at Quantico, was nominated today by President Coolidge to succeed Major-General John A. Lejune, as commandant of the marine corps.

The senate must confirm the nomination before Neville can take over the office which will become vacant March 5 when General Lejune's term expires.

General Neville served with distinction in the American expeditionary force in France during the World war. He commanded the 5th regiment of marines in the Verdun and Chateau Thierry sectors, and the the fourth marine brigade in the subsequent operations about Soissons, the Marbach sector, St. Mihiel, the Campagne and the Meuse-Argonne. After the armistice he participated in the march to the Rhine by the army of occupation and aided in taking over the Coblenz bridgehead.

For this service he was awarded both the army and navy distinguished service medals, received the Croix de Guerre with four palms and two stars and was decorated with the French Legion of honor.

After returning from France the general became assistant to the commandant of marine corps, remaining in Washington until August 1923, when he was assigned to command the department of the Pacific at San Francisco. In May, 1927, he was appointed commander of the marine base at Quantico.
