Gervais Resident Feted On Birthday

Gervais. — Mrs. E. J. Harding celebrated her 94th birthday anniversary Thursday, April 14, at her home here. Her granddaughter, Mrs. Pearl Lansden of Woodburn, called and brought her a large angel cake decorated with candles, and her daughter, Miss Amy Harding, made a cake for her. Mrs. E. C. Moody of Salem, a daughter-in-law, spent the day with her and neighbors called to offer congratulations.

Mrs. Harding is one of the oldest continuous residents of this community. Her parents left Indiana for the west coast 85 years ago, on the day she was nine years old. They were the usual six months in making the trip and made their way into Oregon by way of the Columbia river, landing at Butteville where they were met by Towner Savage, who took them to his home in Salem. In 1849 the family lived for a time at the old institute, now Willamette university, where she attended school. They lived in the basement of the building and boarded students. Mrs. Harding's sister, Mrs. Augusta Smith, now living in Portland, was born there. An older sister married Lute Savage, a well-known pioneer. Mr. and Mrs. Harding were married in Salem June 19, 1857. In 1863 they moved to a farm, but later returned to Salem where they lived until 1904, when Mrs. Harding built the home in Gervais where she and Miss Amy still live. Mr. Harding died March 17, 1897. He had a large farm acreage in this section, most of which still belongs to the family.
