outlet the novelties of real worth, and the popular theater safely puts its trust in horse play or blood and thunder.

So it is with the yellow journal, and when the present high wind and heavy precipitation are over, they will be found doing business at the old stand.

Calamities do not make human nature over again. The man who wants murders on the first page with ghastly views of the victim and the bloody knife, the woman who loves the tale of escapades and shipwrecked marriages, will not in a day be transformed into a rational being with desires for facts and fondness for sane and honest opinions.

When yellow journals cease to disgrace the face of creation we shall need no penitentiaries, and perhaps no preachers.

THE OREGON CLIMATE. The tourist critic from the extreme East who visits us at the present season of splendid Autumn weather is disposed to be incredulous when we tell him that, despite the far earlier birth of our Spring, our vegetation in shape of verdant leaf and lingering flower lasts quite as long as it does in the North Atlantic States.

of natural scenery that is a radiant and kindling vision of beauty at its best that makes life better worth living.

EVOLUTION OF THE RACING MACHINE.

The New York Evening Post says that in the opinion of yachting experts the new Shamrock is simply "a higher powered Columbia—bigger sails, greater boom and draught, and more lead far down below the surface of the water to hold her up in any kind of a blow."

The Columbia is the best racing machine that has thus far been constructed in America, and its builder confessed that he had reached his limit by his failure to make his new yacht superior to the Columbia.

The history of the evolution of the present racing machine is noteworthy. The American schooner yacht America won the cup offered as a prize by the Royal Yacht Squadron of England, August 22, 1851; the course was around the Isle of Wight.

nor the eloquent periods of the Brooklyn Eagle. But it is probably a better newspaper than any of these, because it has all of their peculiar merits in considerable degree, and its own excellences exceedingly many.
