GROWTH OF THE BAPTIST CHURCH IN OREGON.

Telegram From Home Mission Society Creates Pleasant Excitement in the Convention.

The 16th annual session of the Oregon Baptist State Convention met in the Second Baptist Church, East Seventh and East Ankeny streets, yesterday morning.

The principal business was consideration of the report of the board of managers, raising of the Home Mission Society.

After devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. George Robert Cairns, the convention was called to order for business by President A. J. Hunsaker.

The report of the enrollment committee, composed of H. W. Palmer, F. C. Stroud, S. C. Miller, C. A. Nutley and F. Richmond, was read and approved.

The delegates enrolled are as follows: List of Delegates.

Gresham—Rev. C. A. Nutley, Mrs. Orville, Mrs. Osborn, Rev. G. R. Varney then read the report of the committee on revision of the constitution. A few changes were made in the wording, and the committee's report was adopted, after a short discussion.

After the adoption of the constitution Rev. H. F. Merrill, chairman of the nominating committee, reported, recommending that the same officers be continued in their official capacity until such time as the convention should elect new officers under the new constitution. The recommendation was adopted.

Report of the Board. The main portion of the forenoon was taken up with the report of the board of managers, which was read by George R. Varney, corresponding secretary. Following is a summary:

Kindly mention is made of H. M. Clifton, who died since last convention; Rev. Ray Palmer, who has gone to Chillicothe, Mo., and Rev. A. J. Hunsaker, who has gone to California. The board held its first meeting at The Dalles, 19 out of 35 members being present. George T. Ellis was elected president; George R. Varney elected general missionary. Application for $12,000 from needy fields were considered. The sum of $200 was appropriated toward support of 23 missionaries.

MISSIONARY APPROPRIATIONS HAVE AMOUNTED TO $4850.94.

$74.50 have been paid for printing the original and $120.00 for interest on our debt, and $18.55 for other expenses.

Thus it will be seen that we have not only employed 26 missionaries—a larger number than ever before in the history of the convention—and paid all of our expenses (which have been unusually large on account of the $100 voted towards the moving expenses of the general missionary and the expenses of his trip to the missionary conference at Denver), but have a balance of $396.01.

We close the year with a decrease in our debt. A year ago we owed the Home Mission Society $1828.54, of which we have paid an open account and $521.46 on note account. This has been increased by $112.90 of interest and $4850.94 missionary appropriations, making our total liabilities to the society $10,382.08. To offset this we have credits of $628.88 sent the society in cash, $242.41 missionary receipts, and $800.00 in the form of appropriation, or $8699.21 in all. We, therefore, owe the society $1777.62 at the present time; but to apply on this we have about $200, thus leaving only about $1577.62 unpaid.

In the light of the needs of the state, what ought we to do? Of the 114 churches in cooperation with the convention, only 15 are self-supporting and have pastors; 13 have pastors, but receive missionary aid; 23 have regular but part-time preaching and receive aid; 21 have regular but part-time preaching and receive no aid; while 42 have no regular preaching and are practically dead. At least 25 of these 42 churches are sufficiently alive and healthy to be worth while to spend money there, while probably 25 of the 44 churches with part-time preaching could profitably use money enough to enable them to employ full-time preachers. The best time is to put an associational missionary into each association to preach to these sleeping churches and to enter new fields.

The report closed with a number of recommendations, among which was that the entire membership should be induced to give at least $1 to state missions.

James F. Failing, treasurer, next reported as follows: Collections from churches over the state, $246.81; total disbursements, $280.27; amount on hand, $326.26. The report was referred to the auditing committee, which will meet today.

Causes Pleading Excitement. A telegram from the American Baptist Home Mission Society in New York was next read by Dr. C. A. Wooddy, which gave the convention much cause for rejoicing. The Home Mission Society pledged itself to raise $1000 of the convention's debt of $1550, provided the balance was paid within 90 days. The telegram also stated that $600 would also be given as a special contribution for work in Portland, provided the convention added a like amount.

The convention was at once the scene of pleased excitement, while from all over the auditorium came offers of help from the churches toward raising the amount. Under those conditions the president found it impossible to conduct business, and a short intermission was granted for the purpose of the delegates agreeing upon the amount to be contributed by their respective churches. When the convention was again called to order the following contributions had been made:

First Baptist, Portland, $125; Third Baptist, $10; Oregon City, $25; Second Baptist, $25; McMinnville, $35; Pendleton, $10; Oakland, $10; Grant's Pass, $10; Baker City, $20; Dillard, $10; Immanuel, $10; Roseburg, $20; Mission, $10; Albany, $20; Garary, Portland, $10; Brownsville, $10; Park Place, $10; Grand Valley, $5; Independence, $10; Dallas, $5; Mount Zion, $5; Pleasant Home, $5; Dayton, $5; Swedish conference, $10; Astoria, $10; Clatsop, $10; Dalles, $10; Norwegian work, $10; Fossil, $10; Mountville, $10; Mount Tabor, $5; Harrisburg, $5; Springfield, $5; Newberg, $5; Medford, $10; Mrs. Kay, $5; Corvallis, $5; Dayton, $10; Mayville, $5; Wrayville, $5. The total amount was $282.27, which was the society's gift, free the convention from debt.

With the announcement of the amount someone started "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," and the convention immediately caught up the refrain until the auditorium rang with the song.

A vote of thanks was then extended to the society for its liberality, and the convention adjourned for luncheon in the lecture-room.

Afternoon Session. Promptly at 1:30 President Hunsaker took the chair, and the convention came to order, the nominating committee reporting as follows: President—A. J. Hunsaker. Vice-president—W. W. Brooks. Recording secretary—L. W. Riley. Treasurer—J. F. Failing. Secretary—H. Beaven. Auditors—C. F. Lewis, J. W. Burgis.

For board of managers—To serve one year, Rev. E. McKillop, Rev. W. P. Elmore, President Frank Strong, O. M. Richmond, Rev. J. E. Rountree, Rev. G. F. Ellis, Rev. J. H. Beaven, S. C. Miller, H. F. Merrill; to serve three years, Rev. Alexander Blackburn, Rev. L. W. Riley, Arthur Conklin, W. G. Smith. This report was adopted without change, and the new officers introduced.

New ministers of the denomination were then introduced. They were: Rev. L. W. Riley, McMinnville; Rev. J. U. Mount, Fossil; Rev. J. Tomkins, Mayville; Rev. J. E. Maguire, Lebanon; Rev. G. A. Learn, Mountville and Mount Tabor; Rev. A. G. Miller, acting pastor of Second Baptist Church, Portland; Rev. H. E. Palmer, member of First Church, Portland; Rev. W. L. Whittle, Stayton, and Rev. Mr. Green, Eugene.

The discussion of the report of the board was opened by President Ellis and Mr. A. Conklin. Others gave five-minute talks on the subject. The general impression of the report was that it was complete and concise. Oregon was regarded as a fine field for missionary work, and the results of the year's work as shown by the report were considered satisfactory. It was urged by the speakers, however, that greater effort be made in this direction, as there were many places in the state yet un-reached.

Dr. C. A. Wooddy next read a paper, mainly statistical, on "Oregon in the Light of the Last Census." He gave figures to show that the Baptist denomination had increased almost twice as fast as the population of Oregon. Dr. Wooddy also showed that in the number of churches, the denomination had increased more than 40 per cent in the last 10 years. This was regarded as very satisfactory. Mentions were made of a paper of the relative strength of the Baptist churches in Oregon towns with regard to population.

Following the discussion this paper called for Rev. Robert Cairns took on "A Spiritual Church the Force for Evangelization." The session then adjourned until evening.

The Woman's Baptist Home Mission Society will open this morning at 9 o'clock.

BEAT MASKED FOOTPAD.

Eugene A. Clem Strikes Robber and Dodges a Bullet. A highwayman wearing a mask and carrying a revolver tried his best to hold up Eugene A. Clem, a mining broker, near East Twenty-sixth and Division streets last night, but got nothing for his pains. About 200 yards from his home Mr. Clem met the highwayman, and the latter presented his revolver and said: "Hands up," in the usual style. It happened at a dark part of the road, but Mr. Clem with his umbrella struck the robber and then quickly turned to run. The chagrined footpad fired one shot, which just grazed his victim. Indeed the powder burned a portion of Mr. Clem's head. But the robber quickly disappeared. Mr. Clem hurried home and got out his double-barreled shotgun and started after the robber, but could not find him.

W. N. Mitchell, of 32 Clackamas street, reported to the police yesterday that a masked footpad carrying a revolver held him up near his home Tuesday night and robbed him of $5 cents.

BATTLE IS ON TONIGHT

FIGHTING IN THE PHILIPPINES WILL BE REPRODUCED.

Northern Pacific Excursion Made Last Night's Crow Largest in Exposition's History.

Tonight a vivid reproduction of a real battle will take place on Multnomah Field. Real soldiers will participate, and real powder will be used, and the realism of the whole affair will be startling.

The battle of Manila will be refought, but instead of the deadly bullets used at the original battle, only blank cartridges will be fired. They will make as much noise as the real thing, and the rattle of musketry will be just as startling, but the whistle of the rifle balls will be missing. Flashes of fire will leap out from muzzles of Krags and Springfields, and the volley-firing will be thrilling.

The soul-stirring bugle calls will resound above the cannons' crash, and the midnight alarm will be blown as it really was when the Second Oregon was attacked at midnight.

The Spanish-American War veterans will march onto Multnomah Field this evening, and bivouack for the night as they did that night in far-off Luzon. They will dispatch their frugal soldier supper and after taps lie down to sleep.

At midnight the Filipinos, represented by a battalion of the Oregon National Guard, will attack the camp of the Oregon volunteers, and there will be a fierce engagement. The enemy will be repulsed, and the spectators can see just how it was done in modern warfare.

The veterans who take part in this battle were the same young men who defeated the Filipinos at the battle of Manila, and they will therefore be back playing at what was once a serious occupation.

Biggest Crowd Yet. Without the big five-acre Multnomah Field the Carnival committee would have had to turn a goodly number of spectators for the great Exposition building, big and roomy as it is, with all its annexes, would not have held the crowds of people that came. It was the largest crowd that ever assembled at any fair or exposition in the Pacific Northwest, and its numbers were estimated at from 15,000 to 20,000.

And it was a happy, satisfied crowd, too. In its ranks were Dr. McAllen, the veterinarian, who is always identified with public enterprises, and its numbers were estimated at from 15,000 to 20,000.

The Carnival committee is entitled to the greatest praise for the grand results of its work. The Exposition is a great public enterprise, and it is being admirably handled. It is doing good for the entire Northwest.

The interior attractions of the Carnival yesterday were kept fully up to their usual high standard, and every feature was bright and breezy, and the balmy weather added to the general pleasure.

Visitors from all over the Northwest attended the Carnival and inspected Portland's big stores, shopped, visited the picturesque parks and took long rides in the open street-cars, far out into the suburbs, and generally enjoyed their visit. Puget Sound cities were well represented, and their people expressed themselves as well pleased with what they saw. They all spoke of a pleasant and expeditious trip, and said that the Northern Pacific Railway had done the handsome thing by them in granting them such a low special rate to see the Carnival and to visit Portland.

Physical Director Krohn will personally conduct all drills, and some very pretty work will be seen. Last Friday the first mass practice drill occurred, and Mr. Krohn expresses himself very well satisfied with the showing his pupils made. There will be three separate drills: the first an indoor club drill by girls from the Portland High School and pupils from the eighth and ninth grades of the public schools. This will be followed by marching exercises, for which a selected number of boys and girls were chosen from one of the largest schools. A calisthenic drill by several hundred little tots from the lower grades will conclude the programme. The closing number will probably excite the greatest interest, owing to the extreme youth of the children and the number participating. A basket-ball game will probably be played during the intermission between drills, which will be a pleasing feature, especially for the children. The High School girls have consented to put a team in the

Probably the most interesting sight of the Carnival will be Friday, when the pupils of our public schools will be seen in a number of drills and various physical exercises. People Are Pleased.

From the time the Carnival doors opened, at 1:30 yesterday afternoon, until the closing hour of 5, a steady stream of visitors promenade through the Exposition building and inspected the magnificent exhibits of the agricultural, horticultural, forestry, fishery and mining departments.

The salmon hatchery received marked attention, and the interest taken in it was general. Multnomah Falls, the Muscle Hall lagoons, and other scenic features were a surprise to the visitors, and added color to the assertion that the Carnival being conducted on a larger scale than ever before.

In the evening every street-car dropped its large living load at the doors of the Exposition building, and the vast structure soon filled up. The varied programme was well planned, and a joyous feeling was in the air.

MONUMENT FUND BUTTON BOOTH.

One of the pretty and patriotic features of the Carnival is the booth where bronze buttons are sold for the benefit of the fund to build a monument to the dead of the Second Oregon Volunteers. The booth is managed by patriotic women connected with the auxiliary of the Spanish-American War Veterans, and the cannon in front is one of those captured at Manila by the Oregon Volunteers.

DeCaprio's full military band was at its best, and its music was much enjoyed. The numbers included De Koven's grand production, "Oh, Promise Me," which was rendered as a trombone solo by Mr. Whan, and also many classical selections of world-wide renown.

The Alpine warblers, Novello, the contortionist; All Zada, the magician; all contributed their share toward an evening's enjoyment. The wonderful polyscope gave its marvelous reproductions of President McKinley's last speech, and of his funerals at Buffalo, Washington and Canton. The assessment being jurisdictional, the court also holds that a retroactive statute cannot change it.

Two soldiers named F. Whippy and C. C. Beck started to raise a drunken disturbance yesterday around Third and Burnside streets, and were arrested by Policemen Roberts. A citizen, W. Dugan, interfered, and said he was not going to see the glorious defenders of our country arrested, if he could help it. Dugan was also arrested, charged with interfering with an officer.

Several residents around Chapman and Main streets were treated to a lightning change of costume by an unknown man yesterday. DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Judge Attkin, of Union, 50 Holds the Curative Acts of 1901.

Judge Attkin, of the State Circuit Court, has recently decided in Union County that the curative portion of the act of 1901, relating to the sale of real estate heretofore bid in by counties for delinquent taxes, is unconstitutional. The decision is far-reaching and is of importance, as this law applies to the whole state and has been the subject of much adverse criticism by lawyers.

There were two injunction cases, McConnell vs. Deering et al and State Land Board vs. Deering et al and two mandamus cases, Fied vs. Deering and Cochran vs. Deering. The mandamus cases sought to compel the Sheriff to issue deeds to the land bid in at the tax sale, while the injunction cases were brought to restrain the issuing of such deeds and to test the legality of the law under which the sale was made. Demurrers were filed in the latter cases, and the ruling of the court is upon these demurrers, the one decision covering all the cases.

In one of these cases, McConnell vs. Deering, the land was not assessed to the county, but was included with other property and the tax carried out in a lump sum, and the court says these two defects are fatal and necessarily render the assessment void, being jurisdictional and not affected by the curative act of 1901.

In the other case, State Land Board vs. Deering, the court says the sufficiency of the complaint will largely depend upon the validity of the act of 1901, page 71, which act is amendatory of an act of 1903, page 28, entitled "to authorize County Judges and clerks of school districts to bid in property sold for taxes, and to provide for the sale of the same." The court is clearly of the opinion that the curative part of this statute is wholly beyond and outside of the title of the act and is entirely different matter; that the title is not broad enough to include it; that that part of the act is void and that without this curative part of the act the whole proceeding of the sale is void, if there were no return by the Sheriff of the delinquent tax list as provided by law as a basis upon which the warrant could issue.

The court is also of the opinion that the Legislature cannot by a curative act dispen with the regularity of a warrant under a statute providing for the same, as such warrant is jurisdictional; neither can it provide for some other form of warrant to have ex post facto effect. The assessment being jurisdictional, the court also holds that a retroactive statute cannot change it.

Two soldiers named F. Whippy and C. C. Beck started to raise a drunken disturbance yesterday around Third and Burnside streets, and were arrested by Policemen Roberts. A citizen, W. Dugan, interfered, and said he was not going to see the glorious defenders of our country arrested, if he could help it. Dugan was also arrested, charged with interfering with an officer.
