"Period" Hats Designed by American Milliners

Linda Darnell models four new fall hats

Due to the war in Europe, American milliners are coming into their own and designing the hats which Mrs. and Miss America are wearing this season. Many of them have used periods in American history as style inspiration for their creations. Linda Darnell is pictured above modeling four of Sally Victor's chapeaux which are patterned after Mormon types of headgear. Top left is a beige felt with black broadcloth facing and black grosgrain band. Lower right is another masculine version of the same period, a gray tweed felt with broad grosgrain ribbon band and gold paper clips at back. Reminiscent of the lady Mormons are two other hats, top right a black broadcloth bonnet trimmed with Indian feathers of red, green and yellow, with black streamers to tie under the chin. The last model is also of black broadcloth trimmed with both flowers and feathers at the front and velvet streamers which tie under the chin. All four models are worn off-the-face.

114,000 Miles!

Robert Friers

Claimant of the title of world's champion hitch-hiker, Robert E. Friers of Saginaw, Mich., has returned to the U. S. following his latest jaunt, a hike through Central and South America. Friers, shown in New York, has traveled 114,000 miles through 32 countries on four continents in the last 12 years.
