Wheat and Flour Shipments Yesterday Were Over 400,000 Bushels-Marine Notes.

The British steamship Queen Mary, un-der charter to the Pacific Export Lumber Company, of this city, arrived at Vancouver yesterday afternoon, after an un-usually long passage from Java. The steamer brings a full cargo of sugar for the Vancouver retinery, and after dis-charging it will come around to Portland to load lumber for the far East. This is the third of the Pacific Export Lumber Company's fleet to make long passages across the Pacific this year, two of the others, the Wilhelmina and Foimina, being so long on the way that they missed their charters. The number of foreign steamships loading at Portland last year broke all previous records, and from the start that has been made this year an even greater number of the ocean tramps will come to Portland in 1962. Includ-ing the regular liners, 12 big steamships bave left this port since January 1. There are three in the river and two others nearly due, so that the month of April will more than keep up the average of a steamer a week. The Maria, which finshed loading yesterday, will leave down today, and the next steamer to follow will be the Theodore Wille, which will finish loading next week. The repairs to the Quite will probably be finished next week and she will undoubtedly be taken up for some kind of business. The Strathgyle, of the Portland & Asiatic Steamship Comfore she leaves the river the Queen Mary will be around. The falling off in the Oriental flour trade will make business, bad for some of the tramp steamers, but the lumber business is growing so rapidly that many of them will be taken for that trade. The steamers departing since January 1 and their net registered tonnage uary 1 and their net registered tonnage were as follows: Knight Companion, 2839. Strathgyle, 2384; Argyll, 2389; Palatinia, 2388; Margretha, 2364; Hattieu, 2369; Pem-brokeshtre, 2367; Thyra, 2439; Indravelli, 2152; Oceano, 2056; Adato, 2145; Indrapura, 2152; Maria, 1989.

THE STEAMER METLAKO.

White Collar Line Rechristens the Bonita With Legendary Title.

The White Collar Line has just obtained ermission from the Bureau of Navigation to change the name of its new steamer Bonita, recently purchased to alternate with the Tahoma on The Dalles-Portland line, and the new name selected is Met-la-ko, with the accent on the ko. Notice of the authorized change is now being published, and by next Sunday it is expected all the legal formalities will have been complied with, and the steamer will sail under her new name. Thus the scenic route between Portland and The Dalles will be served by sister steamers of this line—the Tahoma and the Metiako—bear-ing names well known in Indian legends of

The significance of the two names is given in the following "Legend of Tahoma (Mount Rainier) and Metlako," as told by an old Puyallup Indian:

Beginning, he said that the mountain had not always occupied its present proud and isolated position. That in the "hyas ancutty," or long, long ago, when the Great Spirit created beings in his own image, and possessed of the powers of speech and action, that he endowed them with much greater knowledge and powers than the present race of Indians were blessed with.

Among them was a Chief Do-ce-wallops, among them was a Chief Do-ce-wanopa, whose word was law over all the Puget Sound country, which at that time was a beautiful valley, abounding in all kinds of pleasant places, fish and game. He was descended from Ne-ka-na and La-wis-wis, whom tradition links with Puyaliup Valley, which is said to be the Eden of the Indian; and also with the story of the bow the wild rose bush first street between Forms. how the wild rose bush first grew thorns. For reasons of state, it was urged upon him to take as his spouse a Columbia River Princess, a goddess who held sway over the salmon mown to those/water. For many moons he resitated; his affections had been given to Taho-ma, a beautiful maiden of his own people, one whose time was spent in eausing laughing streamlets to burst forth here and there from streamlets to burst forth here and there from mantie of green, its bush, animal and the people.

promise, it was proposed that he As a compromise, it was proposed that he take both of the charmers to wife, which he did, but it was not long before jealousy arose between them and his wigwam ceased to be at peace. Met-la-ko, the Columbia River bride, had borne her lord a son. Ta-ho-ma was barren of issue. Anger over her lot bred dislike for the new addition to the family circle, and she resolved upon his death. Fearing that dauger threatened her babe, Met-la-ko went forth, as Hager of old, wandering in the wilds,

The conduct of his wives so unsettled the mind of Do-oc-wallops that he began to perse-rute his people, and often killed them. At last he contemplated their extermination, and was making preparation to that end when the Great Spirit stepped in and became the arbiter of the family deatiny.

To each he decreed their fate, Te-ho-ma be-Ing the first to feel his power. In disposing of her he purposed to place before others that were wives a warning one that would always be in view, a simile of what jealousy would By will and wave of hand the spot where s

Around her form he wrapped a mantle white around her form he wrapped a mantle white and cold, ever keeping the fire of jealousy within from bursting forth to harm as she had done before. As the transformation took place, the brooklets she had caused to lend song to the mendows through which they ran ceased to flow, and lamentation was great upon the surth. to appease which, the Great Spirit touched Ta-ho-ma's higher elevation, when, as if a fair one with water jars in arm, lakes were formed from which come down the mountains side the many streams that feed the verdere in the valleys below. From this the meaning of Ta-ho-ma has been since known a mountainty least.

valley that had ceased to be a paradise and in its fall its sides were left abrupt, in-liented and at times pierced with fisaures ex-tending far away. Over this once smiling scope of country rushed the ceaseless ebb and flood of ocean's tide to ever hide its face. As the Breat Spirit wrought these changes, Do-ce-wal-loos, treather with Metalako and her now for lops, together with Met-la-ko and her son, fled to the north. As Met-la-ko grew tired through the weight of the salimon she could not leave behind, she threw them into the streams and manals putting into the newly-made sound, and here today can be caught each species, and that only from the waters where she deposited them. At last her fate overtook her, her snow-capped monument being now known as blount Soloman. Hard by, as mute as the granite into which he became changed, stands her son, and although crested with white, is not runch of an emhence. NEW ORLEANS, April 9.-Colonel E. H. Crowder, of the War Department, who arrived here yesterday to investigate the alleged British army post at Chalmette, has opened an office. He expressed a wish that those interested in opposite sides of the controversy would furnish him a list of their witnesses, that he might examine them. He said he would later possibly visit Chaimette and make full inspection of the system and extent of the operations there.

CHICAGO, April 9.-The Tribune's New Orleans correspondent says there has been an exchange of notes between Colonel E. H. Crowder, assigned to investigate charges made by Boer representa-tives that England is violating the neunight of March 25, broke in two during the heavy northeast gale yesterday. The cargo of hides is floating out of her sides and she is liable to become a complete directing the shipment of horses and Improvements Will Increase Capacity of Its Auditorium.

The trustees of Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church are figuring on over-hauling the church building and making some important changes in the inside arrangements, the cost of which will be about $2000. In the basement it is proposed to lower the floor of the large lecture-room and thus make the ceiling higher. The lecture and Sunday schoolroom is located in the basement, but the ceiling is too low, and it has not been used for this purpose. There will also be some other important changes in the basement, the details of which have not been worked out yet. In the auditorium the most important changes are under consideration. One plan is to remove the folding doors which will be held April 27, the programme for Memorial day will be talked over and plans will be laid. The members have set themselves to work to make the building fund $1000 by that time, and the prospects are that they will raise a larger sum by

WOODSTOCK IMPROVEMENT.

New Water Works Being Built and Park Station Will Be Established. At Woodstock extensive improvements being made to the water works plant being rebuilt. The new will stand on a concrete foundation 30 feet square alongside the present struc-ture. A redwood tank, with a capacity for 20,000 gallons of water, will be built. The old tower has become insecure, and the new one will be a vast improvement, A steady supply of water at all times wil e supplied.

In connection with these improvements it is proposed to transform the adjoining block, 100 feet square, near the new water tower, into a park. The Push Club pro-poses to move the station to the ground, have it fenced, and then make a park out of it. It will be cultivated. Flower beds will be made and shrubbery set out in the inclosure. The park will be part of the station. J. Gilstrap, president of the Push Club, is urging these latter improvements.

Death of John W. Battin

John Wesiey Battin, a veteran of the Civil War, died yesterday morning at his residence on the Base Line road, just beyond the city limits. He had been confined to his home for seven months. Mr. Battin was born in Chester County, Penn., August 2, 1845. When 18 years of age, February 10, 1885, he enlisted as a private in Company G, Second Regiment, Pennsylvania Artillery, and served about three years. He came to Portland 16 years ago, and had resided on the Base years ago, and had resided on the Base Line road for 14 years. In Portland he was associated with his brother, the late Henry E. Battin, in the commis-sion business. He was a member of Sumner Post, No. 12, G. A. R., and also a member of the Good Fellows order, with an insurance of $2000. A wife and the following children survive him: Har-vey A Battin, of Dawson; Phineas, Lizabeth, Mary, Margaret, Portland. A brother is residing in San Diego, Cal. The funeral will be under the auspices of Summer Post, Saturday afternoon and enlarge the auditorium so as to include nearly all the space now occupied by the Sunday school room. In the gallery at the rear end the small apartments will be moved and light freely admitted from the windows in that part of the church into the auditorium. One object is to increase the seating capacity of the auditorium on the floor. When these changes shall have been made the sessions of the Sunday school will be held in the basement room.

Since the church was dedicated over it years ago it has never received an over-hauling, as its finances would not admit of this being done, but the church has passed through its financial crisis, and is now in a more prosperous condition than at any time in its history. Many new members have been coming in, and it now feels strong enough to undertake to carry the burden of these improvements. Collections have been on the increase, and on Easter nearly $500 was raised without special effort. Just when work will be commenced has not been settled. An architect, with some of the trustees and Rev. W. B. Hollingshead, made a careful examination of the building yesterday. Plans will be pre-pared and estimates of cost of the work will be made. This will be done within a week, when the trustees will have something to start with.

FOR SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

President Pratt Says Association Will Raise $10,000 for Its Erection. M. L. Pratt, president of the Soldiers' Monument Association, organized to erect a monument in Lone Fir cemetery, in memory of the Indian, Mexican, Civil and Spanish-American War Veterans, peaking of the prospects of the project yesterday, remarked: "From indications and reliable informs tion I believe that we shall raise $10,000 for the erection of this monument. We shall not get this money from Portland, but from the Northwest. This is the first effort that has been made to erect a suitable monument to the memory of the plo-neer Indian veterans on this Coast, and it must be done now, or perhaps it will never be done. The Indian War Veterans, who are part of the pioneer contingent, are passing away, and when they are gone there may be no one to take up the project of erecting a monument to their memory. The Indian War Veterans are taking interest in this movement through-out the state, and they are going to give un substantial help. The Ploneer Associa-tion and the Indian War Veterans at their annual gatherings this year will be invit-ed to assist in the movement. The members of the association are discussing the probable programme for Me-morial day, May 31. On that day it is proposed to dedicate with appropriate eremonies the site donated by the Lone Fir Association for this monument. It is considered that such an exercise will at tract attention to the monument and aid in the work of raising funds for its erection. It is possible that the corner-stone of the monument will be laid on that day. If this be done it will be a formality, as the foundation of the shaft can ity, as the foundation of the shaft can-not be laid so far in advance of the actual work of construction. The foundation will probably be concrete. It is proposed that a stone block of proper dimensions be pro-pared, with an opening for the deposit of articles, and inid, and then taken up sealed, and when the foundation is bu it can be placed in it. This course may
