Stocks, Bonds Falter in Week

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—The stock and bond markets again faltered during the past week while assorted commodities lost some of their recent buoyancy.

As in the preceding week the stock list moved sluggishly with no day hitting the million-share mark. The public's speculative and investment apathy received the principal blame by brokers for the poor showing of stocks generally.

Softness of numerous leaders in the final two sessions followed the revival of apprehension over the price-wage situation, with the great lakes shipping strike expected to spread to other fields as demands for higher pay, it was thought would be based on mounting living costs.
