Warners Planning Deal With ABC-TV

By EVE STARR

HOLLYWOOD — STARR REPORT: The great love affair between movies and television, which started with the traditional I-hate-you attitude, has just about reached the wedding stage with the report that Warner Bros. is ready to conclude a major pix-to-TV deal with ABC.

The usual factor is the plan to re-shoot the original movies in an hour-long TV format (although most probably not with the original stars), with ABC to slot the shows in prime evening time on a regular weekly basis, rather than running them in their original footage as a late-late show as most old movies are scheduled these days.

The hour-long dramatic show, of course, has long since proved its worth with such live entries as Studio One, Kraft, Philco-Goodyear, U. S. Steel and a few others. On film, however, it's an entirely different proposition.

Right off the bat, the story properties alone are going to cost ABC a small fortune; and another fortune will be involved in re-shooting them. If they can do it for less than $100,000 per film, they'll have to put a couple of geniuses to work.

ABC's plan, obviously, is to latch onto another blockbuster like "Disneyland." While even the richest sponsor can hardly be expected to shell out $100,000 a week, plus time charges of roughly another $60,000, ABC can expect to gain enormous prestige from such a series, attract other sponsors for other (and less expensive) shows and eventually get its money back through re-runs.

If the deal goes through, and it apparently will, it leaves only MGM, among the major studios, without a definite tie with TV, a medium which only two years ago was looked upon as the movie industry's mortal enemy.

Twentieth Century-Fox is turning its 10-Stage Western Ave. lot over to the production of TV film; Columbia is well established with its Screen Gems subsidiary (Ford Theater, Father Knows Best, Rin-Tin-Tin, Captain Midnight); Paramount owns KTLA in Los Angeles and has a controlling interest in Telemeter, the subscription TV system; Univerral has its own TV film subsidiary; and Republic is up to its neck in the TV film business. It's quite a change from the days when no contract player was allowed within 40 miles of a TV camera on penalty of death.

(And MGM, at that, has a deal with Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz for two feature pictures, both of which will be made by Desilu on Desilu's own lot. If you can't like 'em, join 'em.)

Oregon Civil Service Lists Post Openings

The State Civil Service commission announced Friday there is a continuing need for qualified applicants to fill correctional officer vacancies at the State Penitentiary here.

Applicants for the correctional officer examinations must be between 21 and 40 years old, have at least eight years of schooling, and be in good physical condition. The salary range is from $250 to $309 a month.

There also is a vacancy at the Oregon State Hospital for a registered laboratory technician. The salary range for this job is $284 to $350 a month.

Officials of the State Highway Department have indicated they will have a number of engineering aide vacancies, particularly in Eastern and Southern Oregon. Minimum qualifications at the beginning level include high school graduation. Salary range is $250 to $309 a month.

The MacLaren School for Boys is seeking candidates for the position of camp director at the school's forest camp near Cannon Beach. Applicants for this position should have one year of experience in the guidance, care and training of delinquent children and be college graduates, or have the equivalent combination of experience and training.

The salary range for this classification is $322 to $394 a month. Housing facilities are available at the camp for a single man.

Car Finishes Finished Porch

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UP) — A carpenter had just put the finishing touches on a new enclosed porch at the home of the Morris Rumaners in Syracuse.

As he and Mrs. Rumaner admired the work, a driverless auto raced down a hill, slammed into the new room, pushed out a large section of the wall and bounced a sofa across the room.
