Dinah Shore Show Good Omen for TV

By EVE STARR

HOLLYWOOD — STARR REPORT: Dinah Shore's first Las Vegas appearance, at the beautiful Riviera Hotel, merely serves to prove what a lot of people have known all along — that there isn't a female entertainer in the business who can stand up to Dinah in a nightclub.

The instant she walks on stage, and before she says or sings a word the audience is her's. The applause that greets her while she's just standing there is deafening, more than most performers get at the end of a performance. ("It so unnerved me," she admitted after the opening, "that I almost forgot the lyrics to the first number.")

As a song stylist, whether it be ballad or rock 'n' roll or special material like "Smack Dab in the Middle," Dinah has no equal. She can break your heart one minute, kill you laughing the next. She is, in a very large sense, the only really professional amateur extant. She is an amateur in that she loves what she's doing and exudes an enthusiasm that almost crackles with electricity. And she is a professional in that she is the complete mistress of her art. The combination is a rare one.

Dinah's new material for her two-week stand at the Riviera was created for her by Nick Castle and Bob Wells, the latter being the husband of Lisa Kirk. The material was created specifically with Dinah's hour-long TV shows next season in mind and is, in a word, sensational. She sings, she dances, she clowns. She does four costume changes in one number alone, and the longest time she has to make any one of them is just 45 seconds. Singing, dancing and clowning with her are the Skylarks, the remarkably versatile group that appears with her on her twice-weekly TV show.

When she gets through, both Dinah and her audience are limp. She projects so much of herself that it's a wonder she has anything left for the evening's second show. And after the second show, at around two in the morning, she sits in the lounge and holds court, talking with anybody and everybody and looking as fresh as though she'd just had a swim and a nap.

She is a remarkable person, is Dinah Shore. Television ain't seen nothing yet.

NOBODY'S TALKING OUT loud about it yet, but it's practically set for Desi Arnaz to come to Las Vegas for a couple of weeks in the fall, bringing his wonderful band back into circulation for the first time in five years. Lucille Ball, of course, was never a part of his ld band act and will make the trip to Vegas merely as an enthusiastic spectator. She's always happiest, anyway, when it's Desi who is up there taking the bows.

NBC'S "PRODUCERS SHOWCASE" apparently is out to set all sorts of TV precedents during its 10 scheduled shows for the 1956-57 season. The Sept. 17 opener alone is loaded with news value marking not only Kay Starr's debut as an actress in "The Lord Don't Play Favorites" but also marking the first use of color kinescope. The network also is signing such top producers-directors as William Wyler, John Huston and Anatole Litvak, all of whom will be making their TV debuts on the show. Already set are Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in "The Great Sebastians" and Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer in "Mayerling."

STARRDUST: Milton Berle wound up his last week on the air in a blaze of glory. His last show of the season was one of his best, handily beating out the competition in the ratings, and the following night they caught him with his guard down and surprised him completely on "This Is Your Life" . . . The talk in Las Vegas is that Phil Silvers gave the Riviera what amounted to free entertainment for four weeks, reportedly losing all his salary at the gaming tables . . . Gruff old Bill Frawley has fallen in love — with five-year-old Richard Keith, the new Ricky Jr., on "I Love Lucy." Little Richard loves baseball, and that was enough for Bill . . . The summertime Bob Crosby show, on five times a week, is getting the color treatment every Tuesday and Friday straight through the summer.

SHORT SHOTS: Mabel Albertson gets the lone female role in the "Video Theater" show for June 14, "A House of His Own." She'll be opposite Richard Boone, the "Medic" man . . . Announcer Art Gilmore takes over for Bill Lundigan on the next four "Climax!" shows while Lundigan finally takes off on a long-delayed vacation . . . "Redso, the Clown" will be Red Skelton's next feature picture. He'll continue to make one movie a year . . . Bob Hope is going all out in the use of TV to plug his new movie, "That Certain Feeling." It's sort of like flirting with a man just so you can get to know his big brother . . . It's not definite yet, but informal negotiations (meaning someone with authority has thought about it out loud) are going on to get Dinah Shore to appear in an "I Love Lucy" episode next season.

Divorce Will Split Robinson Art Collection

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Mrs. Edward G. Robinson closed Hollywood's finest art collection Tuesday after giving filmland society a last fond look at its wonders.

The collection will be broken up, along with the 29-year-marriage of Eddie and Gladys Robinson. They are scheduled for the divorce court July 20.

Today Hollywood was still talking about the lavish party Mrs. Robinson tossed to signal the end of the collection, valued at over three million dollars.

Greer Garson, Susan Hayward and Van Johnson were among the 200 guests who packed around the bars and delight-laden buffet tables. They crowded into the Robinson living room to hear a show by cabaret satirists.

Many Paintings

But it was the paintings themselves that provided the real show. They appeared on every wall, even in the hallways and powder rooms, in a rich feast of art. The Robinsons specialized in French impressionists, and their paintings filled the house with lush, vivid colors.

A flowing Renoir nude, "After the Bath" . . . a rich blue Picasso, "The Entombment" . . . a half-dozen Rouaults, with great splashes of color outlined in black . . . a swirling landscape by Van Gogh . . . "The Dinner Table," a large Matisse filled with French foods.

One of the guests, gazing at a wall filled with three ballet scenes by Degas, exclaimed: "It's almost too much for the eye to take in."

Back on Broadway

The Robinsons met and married when both were starring on Broadway. They started collecting art when he began hitting the big money in movies. Now he is back on Broadway, and she is leaving for a month's tour of the Orient. She'll return for the divorce action.

"We're dividing the 150 paintings as part of the property settlement," explained Mrs. Robinson, herself a noted painter. "We have more than one of almost every painter's works, sort of like Noah's ark.

"Eddie can take a Van Gogh and I'll take one. He'll take a Cezanne and so will I. Then the house will be sold and we'll divide that. It's community property."

Russ to Give Relics Back To Romania

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government says it will return to Romania historic relics and works of art given "refuge" in Moscow during two world wars. Some of the objects date back to the 6th Century B.C.

The announcement said the step is being taken "to strengthen further the friendship and cooperation" between the two countries.

The valuables include 1,350 paintings by Romanian artists, 156 icons of the 16th and 17th centuries, fabrics and church robes and jewelry from the same period, and a collection of more than 35,000 coins and medals dating back to the 6th Century B.C. Gold cups, plate, rings and bracelets from the same period are included in the hoard sorted and listed by Soviet scientists and specialists.

The government announcement said "the Soviet people carefully preserved all these valuables despite the fact that Romanian boyars (privileged landholders) and capitalists twice fought against the Soviet Union — in 1918 and from 1941 to 1944 — devastating our country and destroying its historic and artistic monuments."

Some of the coins dated to the era of Macedonia's King Alexander III, and Egypt's King Ptolemy, the broadcast added.

Shepilof to Visit Greece

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Russia's new foreign minister Dmitri Shepilof will visit Greece at the end of this month after a tour of Egypt, Syria and Lebanon.

Shepilov, who took over the foreign ministry post from V. M. Molotov early this month, is expected to spend several days in Athens.

A source close to the Greek foreign ministry said the Greek government did not invite Shepilof, but that it acceded to a Soviet request for the visit.

Four Millions Slated For Crater Lake Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Crater Lake National Park is listed to get $4,328,000 in improvements in the next 10 years, Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore) reported Monday.

He said the National Park Service had earmarked $1,493,000 for buildings, utilities and facilities, and $2,835,000 for roads and trails to be built in the park service's 10-year Mission 66 program.

Prominence in U.S. Senate May Mean Defeat at Polls

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The troubles of Sen. Alexander Wiley point up the difficulties that face many a legislator.

They stay around for years, laboriously working their way up the seniority list until they head a prominent committee, only to find some of the folks back home may be unimpressed by all this eminence.

Wiley is a former chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, one of the top jobs in Congress. He will be again (A) he can get re-elected, and (B) the Republicans can win control of the Senate.

But the Wisconsin Republican convention has rejected Wiley, and thrown its support to Rep. Glenn Davis. Wiley will make the race anyway. "We'll let the people decide this at the primaries," he said.

And as he tries to influence the voters to see things his way, he may reflect occasionally on how curious, but interesting, politics can be.

Good for Publicity

For the chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee is in a good spot to keep his name in print.

The President has the power to conduct international affairs, the constitution says, "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate." So the chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee does quite a bit of padding back and forth between the Capitol and the White House.

Muchly Quoted

And he is quoted, copiously, on what he thinks of any development almost anywhere in the world.

Yet the last three men who have held the job haven't found it all peaches and cream.

Wiley is going ahead despite the opposition. But in 1952 Tom Connally of Texas and this spring Walter George of Georgia decided not to stand for re-election.

And though politics is too complex to say this was the only reason, formidable opposition back home certainly had something to do with both decisions.

Strange Paradox

While George was still in the race, a fellow in his office was saying:

"Once you amount to something in Washington the folks back home get the idea you're no longer interested in them. I don't know why, but it's true.

"Only yesterday the senator got a letter from a lady back home. Down through the years he had helped her a lot, and this letter was to thank him for two recent favors. Well, after thanking the senator, she said:

"'By the way, folks down here say you're too biggety to pay any attention to our personal problems any more? Is this true?'"

Which explains why a Congressman tries so hard to assure his constituents he's eager to run errands for them.

If he doesn't help por Uncle Willie with his pension problems, who cares how he stands on aid to Tito?

Bus Boycott Fund Use Hit By Minister

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A Baptist preacher said Monday night that leaders of the Negro protest against bus segregation here have been playing fast and loose with boycott funds.

The Rev. U. J. Fields did not specify any individual members of the Montgomery Improvement Association, set up to coordinate the boycott for the city's 50,000 Negroes, but declared in resigning his post as recording secretary:

"All the money coming in here for transportation is not being used for that." He did not elaborate.

Officials of the MIA quickly denied any financial misconduct.

Term Charge False

"No money received by this association has been misappropriated," said Dr. Moses W. Jones, second vice president.

"Definitely false," said the Rev. R. J. Glasco in referring to Fields' accusations. Glasco is chairman of the MIA finance committee. Glasco's comment was echoed by C. W. Lee, the organization's assistant treasurer, and by Mrs. Erna Dungee, the financial secretary.

Fields, one of the MIA founders, also said "I no longer can identify myself with a movement in which the few are exploiting the many."

The 25-year-old Negro minister said boycott leaders "have become and are interested in perpetuating themselves."

"Individuals who are handling" money contributed throughout the nation to support the boycott "are using it for selfish purposes," he said.

MIA officials termed Fields' criticism "simply another attack designed to hinder our protest movement."

Fields said his position as recording secretary had given him knowledge of funds contributed to support the boycott. He estimated that an amount "up in the thousands of dollars" had been diverted from the announced purpose of providing private transportation for boycotting Negroes.

The MIA has been paying about $3,000 a week to provide car pool transportation for the boycotters.

Poet on Mend After Heart Attack on Ship

LONDON (AP) — Nobel Prize Winner T. S. Eliot was reported recovering Tuesday from a heart attack which felled him aboard the liner Queen Mary en route from New York.

The American-born poet and playwright was taken in a wheelchair from the ship on arrival at Southampton early Tuesday and rushed by ambulance to the French hospital in London.

A hospital spokesman said Eliot was suffering from a "cardiac condition which has not proved too serious." He said the 67-year-old writer "won't have to stay here too long — just a few days rest is all he needs now."

Fellow pasengers aboard the Queen Mary said Eliot suffered a heart attack three days ago and spent the rest of the voyage in the ship's hospital. The ship's doctors declined to comment on his illness.

The lean, chisel-featured poet was pale but smiling as four hefty ambulance men carried him down the ship's gangway.

Eliot had gone to America in April to lecture at the University of Minnesota and later visited relatives in Boston and Cambridge.

The writer, who also is a director of a London publishing firm, has been in poor health several years.

Woman Driver Finds Police Unsympathetic

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP)—A housewife was given a ticket here after she backed from her parking space into an oncoming car.

She told the arresting officer: "I think it's a crying shame that you give me a ticket and not the man I hit. He could see me backing out of a lot better than I could see him."

The officer was unsympathetic.
