George Sanders to Host Video Series

By EVE STARR

HOLLYWOOD, June 12—(STARR REPORT) Come June 22, NBC will start airing a new 13-week summer series, "The George Sanders Mystery Theater" turned out by Screen Gems some months ago and just recently sold for summer replacement duty. Sanders serves as host of the series, wandering in and out of the proceedings as a sort of disembodied onlooker and starts in two of the episodes himself.

Sanders, who will be 51 on July 1, is a quietly outspoken individual who lives a life of complete independence and is not quite the suave, debonair, man-about-town he invariably plays on the screen. Actually, he dislikes acting and does it only to earn money. His first love is science, and since 1954 he has been president of his own small research and development company in Santa Monica.

Sanders lives very simply in a small, two-story, red-clapboard New England salt-box house out in Pacific Palisades, a place comfortably filled with unpretentious Early American furniture, a butler, a cook and a golden cocker spaniel.

His hobby is what he calls professional croquet, which is a far cry from the garden-variety croquet with which most of us are familiar. (Other addicts are Darryl Zanuck and Averell Harriman, which gives you an idea.) He is also a chess player of no mean ability, is handy with power tools and has a small collection of paintings.

An actor by accident more than anything else, Sanders has some stern advice to would-be thespians: "Go to school," he says. "Go to a good dramatic school and study hard. There is no easy road. The flash-in-the-pans who occasionally come along generally don't last. Acting is a profession, not a game."

Sanders was born in Russia of British parents and has been a U.S. citizen for the past 30 years. He is often asked why it is that he retains his strong British accent after 30 years in America, a question to which he has a stock reply. "Just because I have given up my British citizenship," he says, "is no reason why I should also give up correct English."

BOTH GEORGE GOBEL and Eddie Fisher are getting a little disturbed over the many news accounts which persist in stating that the two are "teaming" next season, and they particularly resent the many references to the "Fisher-Gobel show."

For the record, it will not be the "Fisher-Gobel show," at all. It will be the George Gobel show and the Eddie Fisher show, alternating every Tuesday night on NBC, with each serving as the other's guest. Fisher will sing a song or two on Gobel's show, and Gobel will deliver a monologue on the Fisher show.

But there will be no "teaming" in the sense that Martin and Lewis were a team. The two shows will be staged by two entirely different production staffs and there will be little or no resemblance between them.

HOLLYWOOD IS STILL trying to figure out why "Hey, Jeannie" has been canceled in the face of an increasingly high rating. Airing opposite Sid Caesar and Lawrence Welk, the show consistently beat Caesar, who also has been dropped, and frequently topped Welk, yet the sponsor is dropping the show and there seems little chance at this point that it will be picked up by someone else for next season. Which is too bad, for Jeannie Carson is a talented girl who deserves a better break.

ONE REASON—IN FACT, the only reason—why color sets are not selling on the West Coast is the completely miserable quality of the so-called color kinescope, made by the lenticular film process. Not only is the color reproduction bad, but it also makes hash of the pictures in black and white. Live color and color films, on the other hand, are excellent. What is needed now, and in a hurry, is the perfection of the color tape recorder to replace the lenticular film.

STARDUST: "Playhouse 90" is dickering for the TV rights to the life of Jeanne Eagles and may very well get it on the air before the Kim Novak picture on the same subject is released to the theaters. — John Barrymore, Jr., does the June 20 "Playhouse 90" co-starring with Barry Sullivan in "Ain't No Time For Glory." Yvonne DeCarlo and Ricardo Montalban are co-starring in a Schlitz Playhouse" episode, "Storm Over Rapello," which is being directed by Paul Henried. NBC has come up with an auto sponsor for the six special Jerry Lewis shows next season. "Matinee Theater" will show an occasional European flavor next season. Albert McCleery, the show's producer, has just left on a three-week trip abroad to find fresh new story material for the five-a-week marathon dramatic series.

Lumber Strike Vote Authorized

PORTLAND, June 12 (AP) — The Lumber and Sawmill Workers executive board ordered a strike authorization vote today for the union's 50,000 members.

Workers in Oregon, Washington, northern California, Idaho and Montana will ballot.

Earl Hartley, Western Council secretary, said the authorization would affect companies which have not already signed new contract. Most employer groups have denied the union's request for a 5-cent hourly wage increase.

The Willamette Valley Lumber Co. and the Georgia-Pacific Corp. have granted the 5-cent boost. Hartley said the Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. also will be exempt because it has given a 10-cent hourly benefit for a pension plan and "we don't want to jump on them."

Girl Steals to Get Boy Friend Gifts, But Love Conquers All

DETROIT, Mich., June 12 (AP)—Everybody felt sorry for 18-year-old Patricia Ann Kopytek last March when she pleaded guilty in federal court to taking $3,900 from her employer to buy gifts for her boy friend.

The court was told that Robert H. Bremke, 19, had disappeared with the gifts—a $2,500 car, imported tweed jackets and a bank book showing Patricia Ann had deposited $1,400 in his name.

Bob was Patricia Ann's first love. She was employed as a $35-a-week clerk and elevator operator for the Liberty State Bank of Hamtramck. Bob newly arrived from Celina, Ohio, had a job as a shipping clerk.

Today in Federal Court it was a story of love conquers all.

Federal Judge Theodore Levin listened sympathetically as Patricia Ann's attorney told his story.

The bank has been repaid $4,321.96 of the $3,900. Of that amount, $4,050 came from Bob. He had sold the car and closed out the bank account and sold whatever other gifts he could. Patricia Ann and her mother had moved onto a housing project to save every penny they could to help make up the money.

Judge Levin placed the girl on two years' probation. He did not even order restitution of the rest of the money.

But Bob and Pat have vowed to pay back the entire amount. And then they are going to be married.

Co-ops Join to Build Own Dams In Three States

DAVENPORT, Wash., June 12 (AP)—Formation of a joint corporation which may build its own dams and power lines was announced today by 11 electrical cooperatives of Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

The Lewis—Clark Generation and Transmission Cooperative Inc. has filed incorporation papers at Olympia, said N. V. Fisher of the Lincoln Electric Cooperative, who is temporary chairman of the new agency. Walla Walla has been tentatively selected as headquarters for the corporation.

The organization will study the feasibility of building its own dams and transmission facilities, Fisher said.

Preliminary engineering studies have already been made at several possible dam sites, he said, but no preliminary permit applications have been filed with the Federal Power Commission.

The corporation will also study thermal power generation including atomic power if the cost is feasible, he said.

Financing of the corporation's projects would be done through Rural Electrification Administration loans or by revenue bonds. A meeting will be held at Spokane later this month for making plans and electing a board of directors.

Fisher said the individual cooperatives had been depending upon federal power from the Bonneville Power Administration but the supply had not kept up with the demand.

"Rapid growth in the demands for power in our market area have made it mandatory for us to make at least part of our future supplies," he said. Our purpose is the establishment of a new corporate entity through which our members may develop and transmit their own common supplies of electrical energy under terms of the federal rural electrification laws."

Psychology Class For Electrical Supervisors Ends

Sixteen Salem and Albany men completed an electrical supervisors' course in practical psychology and were presented with certificates Tuesday night at the Marion Hotel.

The National Electrical Contractors Association, the state of Oregon, and organized labor, co-sponsored the course, which consisted of four four-hour weekly sessions taught by Mel Parker of Portland, ALCOA personnel director.

Receiving graduation certificates were Herbert Bibelheimer, Hal Cady, Leonard Carlton, Joe Cooper, Arnold Fast, Gene Fields, Martin Johnson, Roy Ramey, John Riches, R. L. Robertson and Byron Simonson, all of Salem, and George Chapman, W. D. Coburn, Bill Coburn, LeRoy Looney and Robert Raymond, all of Albany.

Foster Homes Needed, Says Hillcrest Head

The need for foster homes to place girls from the Hillcrest School was emphasized Wednesday night in a talk by the school's superintendent. Miss Marjorie McBride before members of the Salem Association for Retarded Children.

Miss McBride said many of the girls came from broken homes and don't have much to gain by being returned.

A brief operational sketch of school activities was presented by Miss McBride who said Hillcrest is an accredited high school whose aim is to try and return girls to society after one year.

She also said the school is overcrowded with 135 girls when there is room for only 104. Average age of the girls is 15, she added.

A merit of award was also presented at the meeting to Mrs. Alfred Moss of the Haven School by A. L. Brewster, Marion-Polk county chairman of Employ the Physically Handicapped committee.

Stolen Stocks Found on TV Star's Land

MIAMI, Fla., June 12 (AP)—Stolen stocks and bonds worth more than $100,000 were dug from their shallow hiding place today on oceanfront property owned by television star Arthur Godfrey.

Police said the cache of $75,825 in non-negotiable war savings certificates and upward of $25,000 in transferable utility stocks had been placed in a steel box and buried 200 yards north of the Kenilworth Hotel, in which Godfrey also has an interest.

They were stolen last Feb. 5 from the home of John M. Marks, retired Coast Guard commander, in North Miami.

Detective Sgt. Lee Graham of North Miami police said the loot was located after police interviewed three men who pleaded guilty to robbery charges in Mobile, Ala.

Mobile police said two of the men were to be sentenced there Monday on house burglary charges. They were identified as James Murray, 24, Brockton, Mass., and Eugene Pollard, 21, Miami.

The third man, Elbert W. Ogle, 20, formerly of Hialeah, is to be sentenced June 24 on the same charges, police said.

Stocks Hit Second Peak

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—The stock market today plugged ahead to its second peak for 1957 in two days, putting the average at its highest point since Aug. 20, 1956.

Profit-taking late in the session trimmed prices below their best for the day but there was a good assortment of gains among key stocks running to a point or more.

The number of losers, however, expanded far beyond yesterday's total and there were some fairly sharp ones among specialties.

An advance by rails late in the day gave the market a more solid tone, however.

Wall Street sources looked at the advance as a carry-through from yesterday's vigorous upsurge which coincided with the series of cheering bulletins about President Eisenhower's condition. Monday's nervous selling on news of the President's "upset stomach" was now receding into history.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 70 cents to a new 1957 high of $185.90 with the industrials up 50 cents to a new yearly high, the rails up $1.80 and the utilities down 10 cents.
