Solon Says Rep. Porter Stirring Up Revolutions in Latin America

By STANFORD BRADSHAW

WASHINGTON, [illegible] (AP—Rep. B. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn.) [illegible] claimed today that a Texas congressman accompanied by a Miss [illegible] expert on [illegible] has been traveling [illegible] America [illegible] purpose of stirring up revolution.

The expert, named Miss Rosita Bennett, [illegible] been making speeches [illegible] Reece said Porter [illegible] Puerto Rico and Costa Rica and during the trip advocated the violent overthrow of certain governments.

Of this trip, he said, Porter was accompanied by a Miss Rosita Bennett, an employee of the Library of Congress, and "I am at a loss to understand why this woman travels in the company of persons engaged in supporting revolution against the governments of friendly allied countries."

He asked who paid Miss Bennett's traveling expenses and remarked that the Library of Congress "does not provide funds for such extracurricular activities."

When Porter was not immediately available for comment on Reece's speech, his wife said he had taken their sons to the circus.

But his office assistant said Porter intends to issue a statement replying to Reece, and also will reply on the floor of the House next week.

The assistant said it was balloney to say that Porter advocates violent overthrow of neighboring governments. All the congressman is doing, he said, is expressing his abhorrence of dictatorships.

Went as Translator

The assistant added that Miss Bennett, described as an attractive lady in her 30s, went with Rep. Porter on the June trip to Costa Rica to translate for him and advise. He said she is employed in the Legislative Reference Bureau and has a fluent knowledge of Spanish as well as of the general area. Porter knows no Spanish.

Miss Bennett also accompanied Porter on another visit to Union, he said, but did not go to Puerto Rico.

The assistant said Expenses for the Costa Rican trip were met by the Costa Rican government—at whose official invitation Porter went—while the Colombian newspaper El Tiempo paid transportation and hotel costs in Bogota, he added. Both trips were made over weekends, he said.

Young Firefly Catchers Ask Higher Wages

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP)—Some 30 young Baltimoreans who catch fireflies in the name of science have struck for higher pay and better working conditions.

Armed with placards they picketed Johns Hopkins University last night.

The fireflies used in experiments—among them a study to determine how come a firefly can light up without burning up.

Firefly catchers are paid on the basis of the weight of their catch. About 33 fireflies weigh one gram.

In addition to the pay, the catchers complain they don't like the blacklist which bars youngsters who try to add rocks and BB shot to their firefly take.

John Brewer, a biochemistry major in charge of the weighing, said the blacklist was necessary to keep things on the up-and-up. Project director Michael Garrick allowed the scales were off for a time but said they had been put back in working order.

The strikers seek a pay scale of 10 cents a gram. The present rate is 8 cents.

So far, youngsters have turned in some 400,000 of the bugs with the after-burners.

As for the strikers, Brewer says, "I guess we'll have to import scabs."

Young Driver Recovering From Wreck

Lawrence W. Smith of Eugene, who narrowly escaped death when his car collided headon with a loaded lumber truck and trailer Friday on the Salem bypass, was reported in good condition Saturday night at Salem Memorial Hospital.

Smith, 19, suffered fractures of the right elbow and knee and chin lacerations in the 8:40 p.m. accident. Driver of the truck involved, Donald Paul Paulson, Portland, was not injured according to state patrolman Gerald Taylor.

The accident occurred on a hill about four miles south of the Santiam Junction. The force of the crash snapped the truck's front axle, tore out its engine and smashed the front of the smith auto flat against the windshield, Taylor said.

Attendance at Graham Meeting Tops Million

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Attendance at Billy Graham's New York crusade topped the one million mark tonight—[illegible] persons filled Madison Sq. Garden to hear the evangelist from South Carolina.

Tonight's capacity crowd swelled the total since the crusade began May 15 to 1,001,500 persons. Graham, announcing the figure, said it was the highest for any crusade under one roof. Attendance at his London crusade was higher, but there many people listened to Graham on loudspeaking systems set up in separate buildings from the main auditorium.

We feel this shows that people in New York are wear hungry for religion, he said.

The figure includes only regularly scheduled services in New York, not attendance at the several street-corner revival services Graham has held.

Scientist Claims Novocain Can Restore Youth to Aged

By EUGENE LEVIN

MERANO, Italy, July 13 (AP)—A Rumanian scientist says novocain itself is a painkiller by many demonstrating being used south to old age.

The use of novocain is one of a growing trend in the drug industry, he mutioned here during the closing week of a young science dealing with old age.

About 400 experts in the science called gerontology are opening their fourth international congress tomorrow.

A preview was provided today in a 300-page printed program including summaries of most of the scientific papers to be presented.

The Rumanian scientist, A. Aslan of Bucharest, in a lab his summary that experiments on 4,800 elderly patients in the past six years showed novocain treatment can make patients biologically younger and prolong active life.

American scientists arriving at Merano tonight said they wanted to wait for Aslan's full report before commenting.

However, [illegible] the idea of stretching chemistry a bit [illegible] interesting. [illegible] said one American scientist who asked not to be quoted by name.

Aslan said in his summary that the novocain was given by intramuscular injection.

The American scientist said novocain given in this way would not necessarily be habit forming. Except for Aslan's research, there seemed no signs that the congress would produce any fountain of youth claim.

Most gerontologists coming here indicated their work was directed more at finding out what old age is and what can be done for the aged.

Gerontology is a general science dealing with the economic and social problems of the aged as well as the medical. Many delegates are economists and sociologists.

Thief Takes Antique Coins At Stayton

Statesman News Service

STAYTON, July 13—An estimated $300 in antique coins and cash was reported stolen from Chris Neitling's Santiam Hardware Co. at 3rd and Florence St. this morning.

Yards away, the Sohles Brothers Plymouth and Desoto Garage was also burglarized during the night but only $1 was reported missing, sheriff's deputies said.

Both places were entered in the same manner. Rear doors were pushed in until the locks broke, reported Deputy Sheriff Jim Warren.

Missing from the hardware store, according to Mrs. Mary Neitling, the owner's wife, were an estimated 400 silver dollars, about $45 in cash from a cash register, $30.25 in three gold coins and about 12 $2 bills. The loss is uninsured.

Mrs. Neitling told deputies the silver dollars were worth between $1.00 and $2.00.

Deputy Warren said the cash register was forced open and the rest of the money was removed from a steel box in the rear of the store. He said files and desk drawers were pulled out and the contents dumped on the floor in a search for valuables.

The last Stayton burglary was reported three weeks ago when clothing was stolen from the Stayton Cleaners.

'Trap' Set by Housewife, Policemen Fatal to Airman

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 13 (AP)—A Tinker Air Force Base sergeant described as one of the finest airmen in his unit was shot to death here last night when he walked into a trap set by an attractive 19-year-old housewife at the suggestion of police.

The victim was Sgt. Donald Clark Ohmann, 24, formerly of Eastham, Mass.

Police said he apparently was the telephone suitor who had phoned Emilie Canavan [illegible] times during the past week, attempting to make a date with her after her husband left for Wyoming.

At the suggestion of police, Mrs. Canavan agreed to meet the telephone suitor, who identified himself as Doug Edwards.

Ohmann, who said "This is Edwards" when he arrived, was shot by the woman's husband, Leo J. Canavan. Canavan was waiting in the apartment armed with a .22 caliber pistol.

Summer Training

Detective Don Cochran said Canavan, a 21-year-old pilot, left a week ago for Casper, Wyo., for two weeks of summer training with the Air National Guard. A picture of Mrs. Canavan kissing her husband good by appeared in the local newspaper, and Cochran said the young housewife had been receiving telephone calls since that time.

She became so distraught that Canavan flew a sick relative home on emergency leave Thursday.

Canavan said when the Tinker airman entered the apartment, he stepped out of the bedroom and told him to "freeze," but the man instead grabbed Mrs. Canavan attempting to shield himself. After a brief scuffle, Ohmann started through the door and Canavan fired five shots at him.

"I didn't intend to kill the man," he said. "I didn't even think I hit him."

Hit Four Times

Ohmann was struck by four bullets. He staggered into the yard, collapsed and died.

Asst. Oklahoma County Atty. Harold Theus said today he does not plan to file charges against Canavan.

Ohmann, who was married and the father of a 1-year-old daughter, lived in nearby Midwest City. Neighbors said he "never seemed to get out of line."

Crosby Testifies At Trial

PORTLAND, July 13 (AP)—Teamsters Union official Clyde C. Crosby was on the witness stand for two hours today and will return for more questioning Monday when his trial on a bribe conspiracy charge enters its second week.

The half-day court session before Circuit Judge James R. Bain was largely taken up with the reading of minutes of meetings of the Exposition-Recreation Commission, of which Crosby is a former member. He is charged with conspiring to obtain a profit by locating the city's proposed eight-million-dollar sports center at a site where others held property options.

Crosby, questioned by his counsel, K. C. Tanner, described at some length why he had changed his mind about a site selection. He said he considered a City Planning Commission report favoring a site near the municipal auditorium "colored," and early had favored an East Side location between the Broadway and Steel bridges based on a Stanford Research Institute report.

Judge Bain sustained a defense objection against recalling Mrs. Virginia Grant, Oregon Democratic national committeewoman, to the stand for cross-examination. She had testified yesterday. The judge, however, ruled that the state may call her on rebuttal.

Florida to Permit Killing Of Alligators

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 13 (AP)—The State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission today voted to permit the killing of big alligators in parts of Brevard, Orange, Osceola and Seminole counties.

It withdrew its protection of alligators over six feet long three weeks after parts of a Eau Gallie boy's body were found in the stomaches of two big alligators.

The commission voted unanimously to permit the killing of alligators in an area about 15 miles wide and some 36 miles long.

All alligators under six feet long are protected by law all over the state on the grounds that they are not dangerous. Many counties are closed to hunting of alligators of any size.

Feeling ran high in the Eau Gallie area after parts of the body of Alan David Rice, 9, were found in the stomach of an 11-foot alligator killed near where his mangled body was discovered in the water. A smaller female alligator killed later also had eaten some of the body. It could not be definitely determined whether the child was killed by alligators or whether he drowned before they ate him.

The other car, driven by Calvin Savage of Tacoma, crashed into the rear of the Bacon car and the two vehicles slid off the highway into a ditch.

Mrs. Bacon and her husband, Bruce Allen Bacon, were shaken up and bruised in the crash.

Mrs. Elizabeth Savage, wife of Calvin, and their daughter, Candace, about nine, were more seriously hurt.
