Bulganin Asks West Pledge to Ban Aid to Europe Aggressor

By ROY ESSOYAN

MOSCOW, July 24 (AP)—Premier Bulganin proposed in a new letter today that the United States and European powers pledge to withhold aid from any aggressor in Europe.

He also called for the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union as the world's nuclear powers to agree not to have nuclear weapons on either East or West German soil.

His 3,000-word letter to British Prime Minister Macmillan was no retreat on one but it accused the West of stalling disarmament talks. He said the West's aim was to help West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's election campaign. He did not explain.

The letter answered one from Macmillan of June 14 which in turn answered a previous Bulganin letter on international questions. The newest Bulganin note was filled with expressions of regret at what Bulganin called Macmillan's negative attitude.

Asks Reciprocity

The Soviet Premier said however that unless the West and particularly Britain show some reciprocity in getting some disarmament steps under way the current U.N. Disarmament subcommission talks in London hold little hope.

Bulganin also told Macmillan tartly that expressions of indignation in England about the Soviet role in Hungary could be matched by Russian questions on British acts in Egypt and Cyprus. But he added this could not help British-Soviet reconciliation.

Revives Eden Proposal

Bulganin pressed Macmillan to reconsider an old disarmament idea first aired by the then Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden at the Geneva Big Four meeting in 1955. The plan, which the Allies have since disowned, would have set ceilings on Allied and Communist forces in West and East Germany, demilitarized a zone along the Iron Curtain and opened it to a control and inspection system as a first step for confidence.

Then came his idea of the joint pledge not to help any aggressor. It would be worthwhile, Bulganin said, for the United States and the European Powers mutually to pledge not to give military or economic aid to any state that violates peace in Europe, whether or not any of the powers have prior allied commitments with the aggressor state.

The Western Allies did something very like that in 1954 when West Germany was brought into the Atlantic Pact. In a public declaration they announced that any member of their grouping which launched an unprovoked attack on any other country would forfeit its rights to all forms of military help.

New Span for Mt. Rainier Park Backed

PORTLAND, July 24 (AP)—The Bureau of Public Roads wants to build another bridge in Mt. Rainier National Park at a site where two earlier structures have been washed away.

The bureau today asked bids on a bridge over the Nisqually River between Longmire and Paradise Inn. The site is just below the face of the Nisqually Glacier.

Twice before bridges at the spot have been destroyed. The last time was in 1955, when a 30-foot wall of ice and water tore out the span.

The bureau said it will take bids until Aug. 16 on either a pre-stressed concrete bridge or a welded steel plate girder span.

The proposed bridge would be more than 100 feet high and if a pre-stressed concrete structure were built, 735 feet long, the longest of its type in the nation.

He said a car driven by Mrs. Neil S. Turner, McCoy, accidentally crashed into the side of a truck driven by Ernest J. Zeltner, Gervais. The impact caused the truck to hit a bridge post, bound off and strike an auto operated by Opal Faye McKee of Perrydale, Trindle added.

29 Post Office Carriers Win Safe-Driving Awards

Some 299,000 accident-free miles were represented Wednesday when 29 Salem Post Office carrier-drivers were given safe driver awards by the National Safety Council.

Secretary of State Mark Hatfield made the presentation to the carriers whose combined postal service totals 214 years without a preventable accident. Each man received a certificate of merit and a safe driver's pin. The presentation was made at the Post Office.

The office employs a total of 33 driver-carriers, four of which have not driven the required one year to be eligible for a certificate. The presentation will become an annual affair, Postmaster Albert Gragg said.

Those receiving safe driver awards Wednesday with their number of safe years were: Frank Logan, Everett Hockett, Robert Ganger and Glenn Baillie, all one year; Lee Wagers, two; Floyd Wilson, three; Vicar Wagers, four; Leonard Humphreys, Clifford Stephens and Edgar Amo, each five.

Ray Morrison and Millard Doughton, six years; Roy Rocks, Norman Humphreys, Roy Follis, Roy R. Beardsley, each seven; George Steinmann, Robert Parrett, Harvey Gray, Robert Garrett and Ray Conder, each eight; George White, nine; W. E. Soll and Merm Pearce, 10 each.

Medic Blames 'Final Puffs'

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—A consumers research spokesman told Congress today that generally speaking cigarette smokers manage to get about as much tar and nicotine out of "king size" filter tip cigarettes as out of shorter unfiltered regular brands.

It's because, he said, smokers usually smoke more tobacco in the longer king-size cigarette and consequently get proportionately more tars.

An American Medical Assn. chemist also suggested the best way to filter out dangerous tars is to smoke cigarettes only halfway down, and then throw away the butt.

Dr. Walter Wolman, director of the AMA chemical laboratory, said cigarette tobacco itself strains out tars and nicotine during the first puffs. Later, however, they build up and are inhaled in the final puffs, he stated.

Portland Family Of 5 Saved as Car Lands in Log Pond

DORRIS, Calif., July 24 (AP)—Swift thinking by two mill employes saved a Portland family of five from drowning in a log pond here today.

A car carrying Mr. and Mrs. Carl Allen and their three children, aged 2, 6 and 8, went out of control at the south entrance to the city, bowled over a traffic sign, flipped, and came down on four logs in the Associated Lumber & Box Co. log pond.

The car then tipped over and sank in seven feet of water.

James Rex Chastain of Klamath Falls and Jess Addington, of Dorris, saw the auto disappear. Chastain plunged into the pond, opened the cag doors and pulled the children out, handing them to Addington, standing on the logs. Then Chastain freed the parents.

The parents and children suffered only shock, bruises and minor cuts.

Trucker Freed in Death Race

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 24 (AP)—Firemen worked tonight for 1½ hours — punctuated by two explosions and fires— before they could free a critically injured trucker's helper from the crushed cab of a trailer truck.

The first explosion spewed burning gasoline over the firemen, a hospital attendant and at least 50 onlookers.

The blast came after the firemen had worked for 45 minutes. They extinguished that fire and went back to the job of freeing the trapped man.

Then came a smaller explosion and fire, which also was extinguished, before the helper was freed.

The driver was identified as Underwood Woodford, 39, of Hartford, and his helper as Wilfred Godfrey, 35, also of Hartford, reported seriously injured by the burning fuel.

Firemen said a short circuit in the motor may have caused the blast. Witnesses reported that gasoline leaked onto the street after the crash, indicating a possible puncture of the gas tank.

Godfrey was conscious all the time.

Navy Divers Search for Plane Victims

HONOLULU, July 24 (AP)—Navy divers pushed their search today for the bodies of three naval airmen killed in the exploding crash of a Neptune patrol bomber in the Pacific off Barbers Point.

Seven bodies have been recovered.

An investigation will get under way after salvaging is completed.

The Neptune was heading for the Barbers Point Naval Air Station runway yesterday when it suddenly climbed to about 1,500 feet, banked steeply and nosedived into the ocean. It sank in 20 feet of water.

The Navy in Washington released the names of all 10 victims.

The P2V Neptune was the third Navy patrol bomber of its type to crash within five days. The others fell in Italy.

The crash was witnessed by Seaman Robert McCasland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herschell McCasland of Moberly, Mo. A Fleet spokesman said his alertness and quick sounding of the alarm sent the destroyer escort Walker and several ships promptly to the scene. But there were no survivors.

Gov. Holmes Protests in Plan for Dams

THE DALLES, Ore., July 24 (AP)—Gov. Robert Holmes tonight said he has ordered a protest lodged against a recommendation that a private power firm construct two dams on the Snake River.

Holmes said he had ordered the protest sent to the Federal Power Commission by Oregon Public Utilities Commissioner Howard Morgan.

The protest, Holmes said, would be directed against an FCC examiner's recommendation that the Pacific Northwest Power Co. be given a 50-year license to build the Mountain Sheep and Pleasant Valley dams.

Holmes told 125 persons at a $5 a plate Democratic-fund raising dinner here tonight that he also hopes the fight will go on for construction of a federal high dam in Hells Canyon.

Sen. Morse (D-Ore) told him by phone today, Holmes said, that "I'll never give up fighting for Hells Canyon."

Holmes also said that if Oregon wants to continue to progress it must stand ready for larger budgets in coming years.

The last Legislature, he said, increased the budget by 50 million dollars over the previous two years but still remained within the state's income.

Skelton to Halt European Tour With Sick Son

BARCELONA, Spain, July 24 (AP)—Red Skelton and his ailing 9-year-old son Richard arrived here unexpectedly tonight from Rome.

No one was on hand to meet them at the airport. The Skelton family left Rome earlier today with announced intentions of flying to New York, saying they were tired out from their European tour.

Richard is suffering from a form of cancer and was being taken on a sight-seeing trip before he dies.

Several children's parties had been organized by a Catholic magazine published in Madrid but it was not known immediately if they would be held.

Other sources said the family intends to go directly to New York, possibly tomorrow, because of Richard's condition.

Heat Guides New Missile

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—The Air Force announced today a new and highly effective air-to-air missile that is guided by heat to its target faster than the the speed of sound.

It is the infrared-guided Hughes Falcon GAR2A, already in operation with the Air Defense Command and described as having an 80-90 per cent degree of accuracy.

Some other descriptive statements from the Air Force:

The missile will lock on to a target miles away and fly at tremendous speeds to intercept and destroy it.

The new missile can be launched far below an invader and climb to intercept it above the operational ceiling of any known bomber.

Plea Delayed For Mother in Death of Child

ROSEBURG, Ore., July 24 (AP)—Mrs. Howard Ott, accused of causing the death of an adopted Korean waif, was granted a one-week delay to enter a plea when she was arraigned before Circuit Judge Carl E. Wimberly today.

An indictment returned yesterday against Mrs. Ott, recently absolved of charges of mistreating children in her care, accused her of causing death by striking the child.

Mrs. Ott's attorney, Robert G. Davis, asked for the delay, indicating he would file a motion in the case.

Mrs. Ott is free on $5,000 bail.

The Douglas County grand jury was hearing witnesses testify in a dependency proceeding when the indictment was returned.

Only yesterday three other adopted children were returned to the Otts. They had been taken from them pending a hearing on charges by Dist. Atty. Avery Thompson that they were unfit to have the children. Circuit Judge Charles S. Woolrich rejected the accusation.

Husband Under No Rule to Risk Life on Wife, Court Says

KASSEL, Germany, July 24 (AP)—The West German Supreme Court ruled today a husband is under no legal obligation to risk his life to save his wife from drowning.

The court thus cleared the way for Anna Kunkel, a middle-aged widow, to collect accident insurance which covered her late husband. He drowned six years ago while trying to pull her out of a river. Passersby later saved Mrs. Kunkel.

The court ruled that Kunkel by trying to save his wife had not acted under legal compulsion and therefore died an accidental death. This made his widow eligible to collect under the accidental death policy.

'Old Woman In Poverty' Ex-Stage Star

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 24 (AP)—An 80-year-old woman thought to be living in poverty turned out Tuesday to be a former top vaudeville performer with about $20,000 stashed away.

Mrs. Maude Kimball's reputation and wealth came to light when she finally was persuaded to leave her apartment, which had been purchased for expansion of the Indiana State Teachers College campus here.

She had locked herself in her room and refused to leave until Mayor Ralph Tucker and other officials succeeded in coaxing her out. Believing Mrs. Kimball to be penniless, authorities sent her to the county jail until relatives could be located.

However, in going through her belongings, police found two $1,000 savings bonds, more than $100 in cash, a bank book showing a balance of more than $9,500 and jewelry worth several thousand dollars.

Faded photographs and newspaper clippings revealed Mrs. Kimball was a prominent vaudeville performer for 30 years and had her own company, which toured the nation and even visited Japan.

Planners Debate on Meaning of 'Adequate'

What comprises "adequate" was cause for some long debate Wednesday night by the Marion County Planning Commission prior to voting a recommendation that a county building code be adopted.

A provision in the code drafted by District Atty. Hattie Bratzel requires that all residents for which building permits are sought must have adequate access to a public road.

Some members of the commission thought a definite stipulation of footage should be inserted to avoid construction of narrow lanes. One member observed that what was adequate for one person might not be adequate for another.

It was finally decided to leave out any definite stipulation of road width and let sub-division regulations take care of that end, as suggested by member Vern McMullen.

As a concession to county residents, "access to a public road" was amended into the code in place of "county road" since all public roads are not under county jurisdiction.

The ball is now passed to the county court and if that body passes favorably on the code, county coffers will be getting nourishment from building permit fees.

Another important item before the planning commission Wednesday night dealt with a city-proposed one-way couplet in the southeast outskirts.

The commission declared the plan "feasible" as a means of alleviating increasing traffic problems on S. 12th and S. 13th streets. The proposal from the City Planning Commission calls for a one-half mile couplet angling off from 13th Street with four alternatives offered as links with S. 12th Street.

Under the plan, traffic would flow one-way north on the couplet to a north tie-in with S. 12th Street at Shelton Ditch bridge near Bellevue Street. Travel would be one-way south from that point to one of the four links that may be chosen.

County planners favored south connecting points near either Vista or Fairview avenues. Other proposed links stem off from Peace and McGilchrist streets.

There was sentiment for the Vista Avenue area link between 12th and the couplet because it would take care of more traffic. Some members said this connection would make for too sharp a curve near steep 12th Street hill and boosted the Fairview Avenue point.

While favoring the couplet plan the commission indicated it wanted to make further cost studies and consult property owners before deciding between the two links.

Present rough estimates by County Engineer John Anderson which include rights of way, set costs of the Vista area link at $43,000 and the Fairview sector connection at $46,000.

A survey by the State Highway Department indicates that about 8,000 cars per day travel past the Hoyt and 12th Street intersection. Both city and county planners agree that the couplet would greatly ease this congestion.
