QUALITY BIRDS TO BE SEEN AT SHOW

COTTAGE GROVE, Dec. 8.—(Special)—The fact that prevailing low prices make it necessary to put quality birds on the market if production is to be profitable will guide the conduct of the dressed turkey division at the Northwestern Turkey show to be held at Oakland December 11, 12, 13 and 14, according to C. R. Dear of this city, in charge of that division. He believes that present season will develop many points of vital importance in successful production and marketing.

At the Oakland show growers will be able to make direct comparisons for the purpose of determining the type best suited for the dressed turkey market, which is the one in which growers of this section are primarily interested, and will be able to check on their own selection of type and breeding practices. Feeding and economical handling of flocks will also be discussed. Marketability will be stressed above all other points.

Three well qualified judges have been selected to make the awards.

The question of type is such a moot one that the following questions will be discussed from both the grower's and the buyer's viewpoint. Should the breast be long or broad? Should there be a wide back or a wide breast? Should the body be deep or should it be round? What parts of the dressed carcass are most desirable? Who eats the drumsticks? How about the bones? What is the relation of the size of the bones to the meat? When is a turkey fat? How fat should it be? Where should the fat be located? Can the fat be distributed? Is excess fat waste? If so, why do we want it?

News of Glenbrook

GLENBROOK, Dec. 8.—(Special)—Mrs. Harvey McBride and Miss Madeline Nichols gave a birthday surprise party for their father, R. J. Nichols Sunday evening at the Nichols home. Many and varied were the games played. Several guests brought musical instruments and an hour or so was spent listening to music. A luncheon was served to the following: R. J. Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Griffin and children, Rupertia, Elbert and Ileen, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Liska and sons, Darrel and Norwin, Mr. and Mrs. Clint Nye and sons Orrin, Robert and Howard, Mrs. Louise Gardner, and children James, Veda and Marie, Alfred Roth, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McBride and daughter Lucile, Mr. and Mrs. Thurston Nye and daughter Doris and Miss Nichols.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffin and children spent Sunday at the Thurston Nye home.

Mrs. Stella Wilburn and daughter, Ethel Wilson, and Carl Bailey, all of Portland spent Sunday at the E. V. Nye home. Miss Wilson was here to see about a place to stay to finish her high school course at Monroe.

R. J. Nichols took an auto load of neighbors to Monroe Friday night to hear the play at the hall.

A surprise party was given at the oil Webster pool hall at Glenbrook Saturday night in honor of Calvin Post's birthday. A potluck supper was served. Those present were the guest of honor and Mrs. Cal Post, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Griffin and children, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Eachus and daughters, Mrs. Belle Wooldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Kingman and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch, Mrs. Francis Brittian, Mark Brittian, Ed Larkins, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Furlong and Robert and Howard Nye.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Larkins and family spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Larkin's grandmother, Mrs. Addie Larkins and Miss Edith Larkins.

Orian Nye drove the school bus to Harrisburg Saturday evening and took the two Monroe high basketball teams. Both Monroe teams came out victorious, the score being for the girls' game, Monroe 72, Harrisburg 13, and the boys' game, Monroe 70 to Harrisburg 25.

Mark Christensen is shipping out his pulp logs to Salem now and it seems good to hear the train whistle in these hills as it has been some time since one has been up ar far as Glenbrook.

Mountain Home schools program is to be the night of Dec. 24. Everyone is cordially invited to attend and an unusual program is assured.
