PRUNE PRICE FIGHT ENDS WITH CANNERS FORCING LIST DOWN

SALEM, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The controversy over prices as first fixed by the prune control board was apparently ended today, following the announcement by the board of a slight upward trend in the minimum price scale on green prunes, and a material revision of the grading system.

The new price list was the result of an all-day hearing conducted by the control board, at which various canners made representations regarding the alleged unreasonableness of the scale price first announced by the board.

Canneymen balked at paying the original price and posted price lists of their own.

The new price list is as follows: Green prunes, 12 or larger to the pound, $20 per ton.

Prunes 13-15 pound, inclusive, $17.- a ton.

Prunes, 16-17 pound, $15 a ton.

Prunes over 17 to the pound, $12 a ton.

Late in the afternoon of the hearing the canners admitted they would pay a slightly higher price than first posted here August 8 when they resumed to pay code prices.

Under the new code price, only one grade on quality will be used, and a five per cent tolerance on off-grade fruit will be allowed. Above that tolerance, the entire percentage of dockage will go to the canner. State inspectors to grade will be used only on request and where disputes may arise.

The prune control committee voted unanimously for the modification. Members expressed a desire to make some concession to the canners, maintaining however, that the new price on green prunes was far too low.

Indian Woman Tries To Strangle Child

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 14.—(AP)—An Indian woman today attempted to strangle her 2½ year old daughter in the presence of police rather than become separated from the child.

As police arrested Mrs. Margaret Adler, 29, on a disorderly conduct charge, she clutched the child's throat. "I'll kill 'Corky' rather than be separated from her. You can't take my child from me!"

Police took the mother to jail and placed the child with relatives.

"Oldsmobile Week" Is Inaugurated at Scherer Company

This is Oldsmobile week at the Scherer Motor company! With the addition of two new salesmen, employed especially for the big drive on Oldsmobiles, Jerry Scherer has inaugurated a week in which the Olds will be almost exclusively featured.

Almost every model is on display in the company showroom, ranging from big eight cylinder trunk sedans deluxe to the lighter six standard coupe. All color combinations are included in the grouping, and prospective car buyers can well afford to drop in and look them over.

Oldsmobile has climbed to fourth place nationally in cars sold, and Scherer believes that with the special emphasis placed on the machines this week local sales will boom.
