PORTLAND MARKET HAS FEW CHANGES

PORTLAND, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Pullets are laying, which suggested that the fall season is just around the corner. Offerings of pullet eggs have been greatly increased of late. The increase in pullet egg offerings naturally caused some slight recession in both buying and selling prices here, but this was expected to affect sentiment and price in the larger sized offerings.

While there was no change in the butter price on the open market or on the exchange for the late session, there was much less snap in the offerings, pending the turn of the north. With cooler weather there has been a general reappearance of killers in the live chicken trade. Most of them have empty batteries and therefore have been forced to hold high prices in order to get their immediate needs. There remained a good trading tone in the immediate turkey market. No new prices have been named for holiday shipments but there appeared a general idea that values will be higher than a year ago.

Error Revealed in World Record Check

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 30.—(AP)—A check today of the world track and field records accepted by the international amateur athletic federations congress revealed an error of 1.4 seconds in the announcement crediting a new 800 meter mark of 1:48.4 to Ben Eastman, former Stanford star.

The record officially credited to Eastman was 1:49.8, which ties the mark previously acknowledged for John Hampson, of Great Britain.

It was the time taken at Princeton, N. J., June 16 when Eastman set the new 880 yard record of 1:49.8, passing the 800 meter mark on his way to a new universal standard for the longer distance. Since the 880 time equaled the mark for the shorter distance it was credited for both.

Avery Brundage, chairman of the rules and records committee, said the error apparently was a stenographic one.

Fingerling Trout Released in Lake

About 150,000 fingerling Loch Leven trout recently were released in Antiquity lake by the state game commission, according to word brought by M. Hurlburt. The trout are expected to reach a limit of about nine inches ten pounds in two years. Two plantings were made, one of 100,000 and the second of 50,000. The fingerlings were brought from the Roaring River hatchery on the Santiam without losing any in transit, it is reported. Sportsmen are expected to recommend that the north half of the lake be declared a reserve until the fish have had a chance to reach maturity. Blackmaw trout, planted in the lake several years ago, are said to have reached enormous size and are frequently seen in the waters but so far have eluded being landed.
