UMMER PLAYERS OFFER GAY WILDE FARCE NEXT WEEK

ear Wilde's hysterical farce "The portance of Being Earnest" will resented Thursday and Friday ts, July 25 and 26, in Guild The- as the last play of the Univer- theatre's summer season.

group of seasoned players are in intensive rehearsal under the ction of Ottilie Turnbull Seybolt, of the university drama depart- t. Mrs. Seybolt will play the role Lady Bracknell, Algy's humorous- domineering aunt, as well as di- ing the production. This part be a sharp contrast to the tragic her in Ibsen's "Ghosts" which played so successfully when that opened the summer season.

number of well known and tal- d players complete the cast. Mary nett, popular actress with both the Little Theatre and University ers will play the part of Gwen- n, the supercilious young lady who always right" and "nearly always at the same time as other peo- Gayle Buchanan will have an tly opposite role to that of Miss nett as the innocent and vivacious lr.

lgy, the nonsensical young nitwit never takes anything seriously be played by Milton Pillette, who be remembered by Eugene play- s for his excellent performance Shakespeare's immortal lover in meo and Juliet." The more seri- minded young man who is "Earn- n town and Jack in the country" be played by Edgar Wulzen, well n for his many performances in ene drama presentations, the most nt being "The Streets of New ."

iss Prism and Dr. Chasuble will played by Lenore Casford and s Artau. Miss Casford and Mr. u had the same roles in "The ortance of Being Earnest" when s produced on the campus sev- years ago.

y Schwartz, who played the ingly futile Pastor Manders last in "Ghosts," will have the part Lane, Algy's butler. Kenneth ley, a newcomer to the Univer- Players will be Merriman, Earn- manservant.

choosing Oscar Wilde's classic nclude the summer season, Mrs. olt had hit upon a "happy ending" h will somewhat counteract the t of Ibsen's tragic drama and y over summer audiences with a er mood to the winter season.

he Importance of Being Earn- will be staged by Horace W. nson, technical director of the ersity Theatre, whose beautiful ngs for "Cradle Song," "Romeo Juliet," and "Ghosts" have es- shed him as a designer of high with Eugene audiences.

Bride of "Phobic" Prof Says She Is "Happiest Woman"

MADISON, Wis., July 19.—(AP)—The bride of William Ellery Leonard asserted today that three weeks' voluntary confinement in her poet-husband's "phobic prison" has left here supremely happy.

"Do you suppose I would have entered it if I hadn't known I'd be happy here?" she inquired in answer to a question.

"Does not any woman, marrying the man she loves, enter into a 'prison' of some sort?"

"For some women that 'prison' is mental, its walls the limited mentality of their husbands. Mine happens to be physical—and were I to make the choice a thousand times, it would always be the same."

Leonard, professor of English at the University of Wisconsin, has a "distance phobia" and for 20 years has not ventured more than six blocks from his home.

Mrs. Leonard, 27, said they walk, play chess and swim in the nearby lake. Theaters, library and the university itself are within "the walls."
