"Eyes that never weary—work that is better done"

Modern existence exacts heavy labor from our eyes. Daily, they are forced to perform a thousand close-seeing tasks—sewing, writing, reading—which they were originally not intended to do.
TODAY . . . .
Seventy per cent of all eyes are more or less imperfect—struggling to bear this unnatural burden. You can help your eyes by giving them the proper light they need and the regular eye examination they deserve. It means better living today and tomorrow, every day in every way.
