CKERING BLOCKS COURT BILL ACTION

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—Democratic bickering over partisan-sponsored legislation virtually blocked senate debate today on the administration's court bill.

Both administration and opposition leaders—all democrats—took advantage of numerous interruptions in a speech by Senator Logan (D-Ky.) to notify that they would employ every possible technicality in their intra-party fight.

Among the first so to act was Administration Leader Robinson who said that during the fight he would insist on strict enforcement of a rule designed to hinder filibustering. The rule is that any senator who has the floor may yield only to questions.

At the height of the controversy, which the senate as near to complete disorder as it has been in years, Senator Pittman (D-Nev.), president pro-tempore, rebuked Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) for speaking out of order.

O'Mahoney had risen to interrupt Majority Leader Robinson made a point of order that O'Mahoney had no right to interrupt. Pittman upheld Robinson, and O'Mahoney continued speaking as he drew the rebuke.

After Robinson spoke of his intention to employ the little-used anti-filibustering rule, Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), opposition leader, countered with a warning that he would block consideration of other legislation until the court bill fight was on. The two statements constituted a virtual declaration of parliamentary war.

Despite the angry parliamentary squabble and subsequent rulings, court foes continued their interruptions, using the device of a question. Logan, returning to his argument, said that by 1936 the supreme court had "reached such a state that no human being could anticipate its decisions."

He said he believed "some members of the court, like some members of the senate, believe that anything that comes from President Roosevelt comes from the devil."

SINO-JAPANESE SITUATION BAD

fire for more than an hour in the vicinity of the marble bridge of Marco Polo, 10 miles west of Peiping, and then turned to rifle sniping at the Chinese defenders.

Chinese, using trench mortars, rifles and machine guns, sought to hold back nearly a thousand Japanese occupying a section north of Wanpinghsien, along the Peiping-Hankow railroad, including a railway bridge and an island in the middle of the Yungting.

Two Japanese dead lay under the Marco Polo bridge which the Japanese at one point in the fight were said to have captured. Sixty other Chinese were reported wounded. One Japanese was killed and one wounded.

Chinese Hold Bridge

Chinese troops, nevertheless, held the bridge at a late hour. Protected by the marble balustrade, they fortified themselves, erected a wall of sandbags and prepared to defend it. Reinforcements crossed on it and war materials were moved up.

There was no indication either side contemplated withdrawing. Both armies prepared for a new outbreak of efforts to negotiate peace proved futile.

Peiping was placed under martial law at 8 p. m.

The city was quiet though tense. All the gates were barred. Doubled police guards, augmented by troops, patrolled amid throngs of frightened inhabitants. Food prices jumped 50 per cent.

No Trains Running

The telephone line to Tientsin was cut down. No train has moved on the Tientsin line.

The Japanese garrison at Tientsin was understood to have ordered 1,000 fully equipped troops to beijing tonight to reinforce about 1,000 already facing the Chinese near the Marco Polo bridge.

A large body of Japanese troops from the Tientsin garrison earlier was reported from nearby through Peiping en route to bolster the Japanese line.

There were unconfirmed reports that the Chinese had concentrated more than 100,000 troops in the Peiping area in the last month, presumably in resisting an expected Japanese attack.

Chinese police and soldiers dispersed the students which started from the campus last night, when Japanese troops, engaged in war games and supposedly making a show of force, marched the Marco Polo bridge and the city of Wanpinghsien.

suddenly stopped using blank cartridges and loaded their rifles with real bullets.

The outbreak of hostilities, signalling a new and grave rupture in Sino-Japanese relations, was rapidly isolating both Peiping and Tientsin, headquarters of the Japanese military command in north China, 90 miles to the southeast.

TOKYO, July 9.—(Friday)—(AP)—A spokesman for the Japanese war office said today if the Chinese "continue to aggravate" the situation near Peiping, where Japanese and Chinese troops clashed Thursday, the Japanese army would be compelled to take stringent action.

The Chinese, he added, would have to bear full responsibility for such a step.

Dispatches reaching the war office at midnight indicated the situation was still explosive and that the Chinese troops had refused bluntly a Japanese demand that they lay down their arms.

able, the pageant group will take care of renting them, he reported.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce Trail Blazers left for a caravan good-will tour for the Oregon Trail pageant today. They will visit Junction City, Corvallis and Albany, taking with them a steer and miniature covered wagon to advertise the pageant.

There will be a rehearsal for all the members of the Indian war dance Friday evening at the armory at 7:00. This includes all of Abe Bang's riders and additional dancers recruited from Mrs. Mildred Moore's group. The following are to report to Gene Edwards at the armory: Frank Reed, John Bryson, Glenn Pirtle, Emery Williamson, Wade Kerr, Eugene Walker, Bill East, Earl Stoeple, Kenneth Thompson, Lawrence Lombard, Charles Murphy, Ely Bangs, Doc Taylor, Kenneth Spencer, Bob Marshall, Warren Vail, Thurman Lanning, Gordon Link, Floyd Bevel, Daniel Bergman, and John Devereaux.

Everyone in the pageant is reminded of the rehearsal of the entire cast at the fairgrounds Saturday evening at 7 o'clock by Doris Smith, director. No livestock will be used at this rehearsal, but riders are requested to be present to walk through their scenes, so that leaders may determine timing and sequence. Cora Moore Frey will accompany dancing and singing groups on the piano.

Official pageant badges will be good for admission for one person at the princess party Monday night at the armory, it was announced. They will also admit the wearer to the jamboree to be held Monday, July 19, to grandstand seats for the three pageant parades, and to the pioneer village which will be a feature of the pageant celebration.

COUNTY COURT IN SUCCESSFUL DEAL

cates said Lane county people could feel assured that every possible effort would be made to complete the two roads mentioned early next year.

William Lynch, engineer of the federal bureau of public roads, and Sam Babbock, state highway engineer, also said every possible effort will be made to complete these highways. Therefore the contract will be written to cover the specific understanding with relation to the $200,000 settlement.

Judge Fisk made an offer to get the highway commission to accept $170,000 as a settlement but was turned down on this proposition. The commission explained that it really needed the money and needed it right now. The members felt that they were making quite a concession in accepting the compromise.

Judge Fisk said the county could not pay the commission before January 5 next year. Although the county has $300,000 cash on hand, it is dedicated to the budget and the commission will have to wait until the 1938 budget is made up.

Explains Compromise

Judge Fisk in explaining the compromise offer made by him and accepted by the commission said:

"We will have some $25,000 O and C funds and some $30,000 cash on hand as well as the $42,500 due November, 1937, from the gas tax to apply on this $200,000 at the close of 1937. This would make a total of $97,500, leaving a balance of $102,500 for us to pay during 1938. On this balance of $102,500 we would apply the $35,000 from the 1938 gas tax and take the other $17,500 from either cash on hand or O and C funds or delinquent taxes. In this manner the entire indebtedness could be taken care of during 1937 and 1938 and thereby save $60,000 for Lane county.

"This will cause an increase of warrants indebtedness during a part of 1938 and perhaps the early part of 1939, but if it is compared on entire part of some two years on the entire amount the interest on the money in warrant indebtedness would be much less than $30,000 and the gain on account of discounting the bill would be enormous. I believe the matter can be handled in this way with only a few thousand dollars going for interest on outstanding warrants, and make an value in the 60-day and under warrants bear interest and make big small interest charges and thereby save some $50,000 to the county."
