POLAR RESIDENTS REPORT VISITORS

MOSCOW, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Soviet Polar campers today reported finding the top of the world unexpectedly populated with animal life.

From a wide crack in the ice floe running past the door of their tent, a startled seal poked its head out of the water three times and stared at the campers.

The camp also had a brief visit from a she-bear with two cubs. The animals took fright at sight of the men, however, and lumbered away in full flight.

Seagulls and guillemots frequently flew over the camp, the polar party reported, and jellyfish have been pulled up from a depth of 9,840 feet where there exists what scientists described as a "biological spring."

Two members of the party, the explorers Papanin and Shirshoff, have been paddling a rubber boat in the ice-floe channel where the water in some places is 150 feet wide, photographing the edges.

The party reported today's weather at freezing, with an overcast sky and visibility limited to a mile or two. There was a "ceiling" of about 175 yards.

Halsey Residents Hosts to Visitors

HALSEY, Aug. 12.—(Special).—Mrs. Myrel Hurst and daughter Virginia Hurst of Santa Ana, Cal., visited several days last week with Mrs. Hurst's aunt, Mrs. T. I. Marks and husband. Dr. and Mrs. Marks took their guests to Portland Tuesday and returned Wednesday. Mrs. Hurst left Thursday for Eugene to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Pike, both of whom are ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Province and two sons Billy and Rodney have returned to their home at Valsetz after several days here visiting Mrs. Province's mother, Mrs. M. J. Carver and her sister, Miss Violet Carver.

Painting Jobs Done

James McWilliams is painting the Wayne Barber home and restaurant on the Pacific highway.

Rev. Elsworth Coulter is painting the Christian church parsonage in which he and his family reside.

Mrs. Eliza Brandon is having her barn, which O. W. Fruno rents, repainted.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright and little son of Portland are visiting Mrs. Wright's father, D. H. Stortevant and daughters, Alice and Joan, and Mr. Wright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Wright. Another couple and their children accompanied them and are also visiting at the Wright home.

E. M. Smith and Carl Peterson have almost completed the repainting of the Carl Peterson home which was formerly the Jackson house in southeast Halsey.

Go to Camp

Rev. W. A. Briggs took Mrs. Briggs and four children, Aletha, Bobby, Ruby and the baby to House Rock Bible camp above Cascadia, Tuesday morning, along with a number of the young women of the local Methodist Epworth church, who go there to camp for this week.

Eight of the local boys of the Boy Scout troop accompanied by their scoutmaster, Vernon A. Meyer, and Bee Hole Charles G. Hamer and Cline Fleming went to Multnomah Falls on Saturday and hiked up Larch mountain. Sunday they visited Bonneville dam and other points of interest also. The boys making the trip were Richard Chandler, Lowell Straley, Rex Meyer, Elmo Fleming, Lyle Holt, Jimmie Hamer, Jack Briggs and Wellington Bond.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins were married at Yelm, Wash., July 31. They were enroute to New York after a short honeymoon in California.

From Grants Pass

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Herman of Grants Pass visited Mr. and Mrs. Harley Stonaker last week.

Miss Arlene Williams, Miss Violet Werstler and Mr. Ziegler of Portland visited Mrs. Mary Williams and Mrs. Clifford Hanan Saturday enroute to San Francisco, and Reno.

Mrs. Clifford Hanan was hostess at a waffle breakfast Sunday at her home. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stivers of Oakland, Cal., Mrs. Jessie Donaugh of Portland, Mrs. Nettie Hanan, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Williams and son Willard.

Stories in STAMPS

THRICE-DESTROYED CAPITAL

TURBULENT history is that of the capital city of the Central American republic, Guatemala; turbulent because three times it has fallen before the onslaughts of ruthless natural forces.

First Spanish capital of the country was Ciudad Vieja. It was destroyed by "Agua," the mountain of vomiting water, one of Guatemala's greatest volcanoes. Thundering down upon the quiet city at its feet, "Agua" belched forth a deluge of water which completely wrecked the capital. This was in 1541.

Guatemala, on its present site, was founded following an earthquake which in 1773 destroyed the older capital. The government was formally transferred to this location in 1779. Laid out at an altitude of 4877 feet above the sea on a virtually isolated tableland, the city, in the opinion of its founders, would be safe from earthquakes.

This hope was blasted, however, one year after founding when a heavy tremor shook the area, and in 1917-18 the city was virtually razed by a series of earthquakes. The site was not abandoned, however, and the present Guatemala has risen on the same streets and on the same building lots as before. The city is often pictured on Guatemalan stamps. The issue here, current, shows a principal street.
