New Six-Ton Bombs Blast Rocket Coast

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, London, July 8—(U.P.)—Six ton super-bombs are now crashing down on the French robot plane coast and at least one has hit a giant installation apparently designed for a bombardment of southern England, including London, with new long-range rocket bombs, the British air ministry revealed today.

The bombardment by the 12,000 pound bombs was started yesterday and the air ministry reported "complete accuracy" in the attack.

Clouds of smoke from great explosions among the robot plane installations soon obscured the target, but bomber crews saw numerous six-tonners explode in the target area and one crashed through the roof of a concrete installation and exploded inside, leaving a gaping hole.

It was indicated that the biggest installation hit was one of those at which Prime Minister Winston Churchill hinted when he said in his speech Thursday:

"Will the rocket bomb come? Will improved explosives come with greater range, faster speed, larger warheads?"

In addition to disclosing the six-ton bomb attacks, the air ministry revealed that a large proportion of the robot bombs launched Thursday night from the French coast were destroyed over the Dover strait.

The American airforce announced that reconnaissance photographs taken yesterday morning along the robot plane coast indicated that 11 flying bomb sites had been hit by American bombs and that essential parts of the target area had been plastered.

Gold Mining Planned In Medford Vicinity

MEDFORD—Mining for gold, platinum and other minerals will begin in the Prospect area soon with 40 tons of mining equipment shipped here from Reno, Nev.

County clerk's records show that 132 placer claims, covering 32,000 acres, have been filed by Marx law.

Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of Rogue River national forest, said that mineralogy studies show flake gold in the Prospect district, but not in sufficient quantity for profitable mining.

Plane Crash Rescue Object of New Group

SALEM, (U.P.)—The fourth fighter command has asked the cooperation of the Oregon state defense council and the state forestry department in establishing a plane crash rescue service, it was announced by Jack Hayes, acting director of the defense council.

Organization of forest lookouts and stand-by rescue crews to go to the aid of personnel in crashed planes would be the object of the plan. They would work closely with army rescue groups.
