MR. FARMER
Do you believe in reciprocation? Of course you do. Do you know that Stickley was the only man between Portland and Ashland that bought hogs every Thursday, Friday and Saturday during the month of May, June and July, when the big surplus run was on? He took care of the hog grower, never refusing a hog, always paying all he could, always hunting a market for them all the way from Seattle to San Francisco. He would buy one or 100 when the packing houses and butchers were forceyd to ano butchers were forced to fore they would take your hogs. Sometimes weeks ahead and sometimes some of the butchers did not take them when you had reservations made.
Now the worm has turned. Everyone needs hogs. Now I ask you one fair question: "Who should the farmer sell his hogs to?" The man that takes care of him, or the man that buys from hand to mouth regardless.
On your way to town with hogs think it over. Don't let anyone tell you they are paying more for hogs than Stickley.
